G. O. P. FAVORS CLEVELAND FOR '32 CONVENTION

Selection of Ohio City Is Likely as Hoover Aids Plan.

COMMERCE CHAMBER VOTE GAINS BACKING

Chicago Presses Campaign for Democratic Meeting, Led by Hurley.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The city of Cleveland, Ohio, now seems certain to be the scene of the Republican national convention in June.

Word was received here yesterday that the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce has decided to make a bid for the convention. This, it would appear, was all that was needed to insure selection of the Ohio city.

Among influential Republicans, there is strong sentiment for taking the convention to Cleveland. President Hoover, it is reported, is in favor of having the G. O. P. meet there, and it is understood that he has made his feelings known to two Ohioans on the Republican national committee—Senator Simeon D. Fess, the chairman, and Joseph R. Nutt, the treasurer.

Doubt Is Removed.

Up until yesterday, however, there was some doubt as to whether Cleveland really wanted the big conclave. In order to get it, the business men of the city must turn over to the Republican national committee a minimum guarantee fund of $150,000. Economic conditions being what they are, it is no easy task to raise such a sum these days.

The news that the Clevelanti Chamber of Commerce has decided to make a bid for the convention would indicate that the business men are now ready to raise the necessary money.

The convention city will be selected by the Republican national committee when it meets here December 12.

Republicans Meet First.

It is customary for the Republican party to hold its convention first. In 1928 the Republicans gathered in Kansas City on June 12 . The Democrats met in Houston, Tex., fourteen days afterward.

If the Republicans go to Cleveland this time, the chances are that the Democrats will hold their national convention in Chicago.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has called a meeting of the Democratic national committee for January 9 to have a showdown on prohibition, to consider the party's finances and to select a convention city.

The city of Chicago is determined to get either the Democratic national convention or the Republican national convention. It is especially anxious to get one or the other in 1932, because such a gathering, attended as it would be by a vast amount of publicity, would serve as a good ballyhoo for the Chicago World's Fair of 1933.

Hurley Boosts Chicago.

Ed Hurley, who used to be chairman of the United States Shipping Board when Woodrow Wilson was in the White House, has been selected by the business men of Chicago to

6 Persons Missing After Ships Collide

Fishing Boat Sinks Four Minutes Later; Steamer Is Damaged.

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The Mackay Radio Corporation tonight picked up a wireless message from the steamship Gypsum Prince stating that it was in collision with the fishing boat Edith and Eleanor of Gloucester in a thick fog bank off the north Atlantic coast and that six persons were missing.

The dispatch stated that the fishing boat went down four minutes after the crash. Three persons were rescued, the Gypsum Prince reported. The names were given as Paul Pitts, captain; Jim Powers, chief engineer, and Oscar Stevedores.

The position of the Gypsum Prince was given as "off Baccara Light, 30 ddegrees west, bearing north." The point indicated was said to be off the coast of Nova Scotia, the company said. The Gypsum Prince's bow was reported badly damaged at 7 feet draft, but seemingly was not in danger of sinking.

5 Bandits Get $10,000 After Brief Gun Battle

Montpelier, Ind., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Five men held up the First National Bank here at noon today and escaped with approximately $10,000, according to D. M. Tewksbury, president. The robbers escaped after a gun battle.

Tewksbury fired on the bandits as they drove away in an automobile bearing an Illinois license. Town Marshal E. R. Coleman, atracted to the scene by a burglar alarm, sent a bullet through the rear window of the automobile.

White House Features 2 Turkey Feasts Today

(Associated Press.)

Two turkey dinners will form the centerpiece of President Hoover's Thanksgiving menu. The evening meal at the White House today, the heavier of the two, will be a real, old-fashioned dinner in the best American tradition.

The Hoovers' chef has planned a heavy soup to start. Frills will be abandoned and the next course will be a big stuffed turkey, with heaped up cranberry sauce.

In smaller dishes will be white potatoes, selected from the 40 bushels recently sent from Maine; sweet potatoes, cauliflower and string beans. A choice of ice cream or pie will be provided and a dessert after a salad. There will be cigars and coffee for the Chief Executive and the male guests later.

HOOVER LEADS LAND IN GIVING THANKS TODAY

Worship, Feasting and Crisp Weather Are on Capital Menu.

Around festive boards where turkey will reign as king for a brief flight of time, from palatial mansions to humble homes, the people of Washington and the entire Nation, led by President and Mrs. Hoover, will give thanks today for the fortitude of those who established the foundation of the United States.

President and Mrs. Hoover will set an example to their countrymen by attending church services this morning and then returning to the White House for a quiet turkey dinner—with all the fixin's. The President and First Lady of the Land will have turkey again this evening with a few friends as their guests.

They will attend the morning service at the Church of the Covenant, on Connecticut avenue, where the Rev. Joseph A. McCartney, pastor, will deliver a Thanksgiving Day sermon.

May Work on Message.

The President expects to devote the early part of the afternoon to some revision of his annual message to Congress.

Vice President Curtis, cabinet members and other high Government officials will spend the day in the same simple style.

Men, women and children of Washington and nearby counties in Maryland and Virginia facing a day of rest from the machinery of government, business, industry and schools, will find their appetites whetted by fall's overdue visitation. Fair skies and a crisp, invigorating temperature are on the weather menu for the day

Special Church Services.

Two of the largest church services will be held at Washington Cathedral, where Bishop James E. Freeman will deliver a special sermon, and at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, where the Pan American mass will be celebrated.

Bishop William F. McDowell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will celebrate his last Thanksgiving Day as mon as bishop at the Foundry M. E. Church. Bishop McDowell retires as a bishop next May after sixteen years in this office. The Thanksgiving Day sermon he will preach today will be the fifteenth he has delivered in Washington.

The Foundry Church will unite for the service with the Metropolitan Memorial Church of which the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives, is pastor. Taking part in the service

TWO CONVICTED AND TWO FREED IN HARKER CASE

Jury Finds Laflin and Mostyn Beat Victim, Theft Suspect.

EACH MAY BE JAILED FOR YEAR AND FINED

Grooms and Burroughs Are Cleared of Participation in Station Assault.

Whether or not Policemen W. C. Grooms and W. T. Burroughs, who were acquitted yesterday of "third degree charges," will appear before the Police Trial Board had not been decided by authorities last night.

The two officers were freed of blame by a jury after 44 hours found their codefendants, W. R. Laflin and James Mostyn, guilty of assaulting James Henry Harker at the First Precinct Police Station on August 22

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, chief of police, said last night that he was undecided about bringing Grooms and Burroughs before the police tribunal. He will review the case today. In the event that he places no charges against them, they will be reinstated without formality.

Acquitted on One Count.

Mostyn and Laflin were acquited on the indictment count which charged assault with a deadly weapon but were found guilty on the second count of simple assault.

No feeling was displayed by the two convicted officers when the verdict was read at 12:30 yesterday afternoon.

Attorney James O'Shea, lawyer for the defense, will have four days in which to note an appeal. Sentence by Justice James M. Proctor will be deferred until then.

The maximum punishment for the charge against the two convicted policemen is a year in jail and $500 fine.

Grooms and Burroughs were congratulated by relatives and friends who were present in the courthouse. According to the testimony of the complainant, Harker, neither abused him during his incarceration at the precinct.

Father at Burroughs' Side.

Burroughs' 70-year-old father, a spectator in the courtroom for the seven days of the trial which ended Monday afternoon as the case went to the jury, was among the first to touch his son's hand. Burroughs is the father of ten children. He was defended by Attorney Frank Kelly.

Mostyn and Laflin will not be brought before the Police Trial Board until they are sentenced or an appeal is completed, Gen. Glassford said. In case they are sentenced the departmental board will place a charge of "being convicted by court of competent jurisdiction," Inspector L. I. H. Edwards, police personnel officer, said.

According to testimony the two convicted policemen beat and otherwise abused Harker, who was a suspect in a robbery case, to gain an admission of the crime from him.

Barrett to Be Tried Next.

Harker said that the acquitted officers were present in the room during his mistreatment. The policemen said

Kent Sees Ritchie Likeliest Nominee

Says Hoover Will Be Candidate and Roosevelt Beset by Odds.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—In the opinion of Frank R. Kent, vice president of the Baltimore Sun, President Hoover will be a candidate for reelection next year.

Speaking here last night, Kent said there are four likely candidates for President on the Democratic ticket, Gov. Roosevelt, Newton D. Baker, Owen D. Young and Gov. Ritchie.

"Young doesn't want the nomination and refuses to cooperate with friends who seek his nomination. Roosevelt has some powerful opposition, Baker takes the same attitude as Young. Ritchie seems to be the most likely candidate."

1,300 Suffer in Snow; Colder Forecast Here

First Rescue Party Finds Four of Marooned Indians Dead.

Prolonged Warm Spell Is Broken on Eve of Holiday.

Gallup, N. Mex., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Four dead Indians were found tonight by the first rescue crew to reach some of the thousand or more Navajo and Zuni tribesmen snowbound atop high barren mesas 70 miles south of Gallup.

On the eve of the anniversary of the first Thanksgiving, celebrated by the Pilgrim Fathers and friendly red men, just 310 years ago, a group of Indian pinon nut pickers reached Zuni, N. Mex., with the story of the plight of their companions.

The Indians sought the aid of white men in authority in carying succor to Navajo and Zuni tribesmen, marooned by an unusually severe storm. Food supplies of the nut gatherers were low, and they were not believed to have recourse to wild game, which the redmen of early American history donated toward the first Thanksgiving dinner at Plymouth.

Fifty horsemen carrying food were dispatched to the relief of the In-

Thanksgiving Day appetites of Washingtonians were whetted yesterday with the first wintry breezes of the year and a continuance of the cool snap was promised by the Weather Bureau last night for today with sunny skies prevailing throughout the day.

A possibility that early this morning the official freezing temperature of 32 would be reached was expressed by weather forecasters last night with slightly higher temperatures through the day.

At 10 o'clock last night the official recording was 44 degrees, a 19-degree drop from the high point 63-degree mark shown at 11 a. m. yesterday.

All over the lower Mississippi Valley area the cool wave has been felt and this has been true for the East Gulf region. Weather Bureau forecasters said that the lower temperatures here and in other areas were general results of a strong disturbance sweeping down from the Hudson Straits ter-

COUZENS THREATENS TO PROBE AID DRIVE

Welcomes Any Complaints of Clerk Intimidation to Get Charity Funds.

By J. B. M'DONNNELL.

Confronted with a growing protest against coercive charity, Federal and District officials and leaders of the Government employes moved yesterday to save from ruin President Hoover's plan to have Government workers contribute three days' pay to local relief work.

Senator James E. Couzens (Republican), Michigan, the millionaire senator who offered to give $1,000,000 to help relieve unemployment distress in Detroit if the entire city would contribute an additional $9,000,000, fired the blast which halted the progress of what Federal and District workers had come to fear as the charity juggernaut.

Government employes had complained they were being "dragooned" and "otherwise intimidated" to contribute in conformity with the President's suggestion, Senator Couzens said, and, although he had thought at first that was impossible, the cumulating evidence was too much.

J. B. Gordon, sanitary engineer of the District, furnished the spark which set off the explosion when he is said to have admitted telling his subordinates that they would be marked men if they did not contribute three days' pay.

"It is the most outrageous statement I have ever seen printed." Senator Couzens said. "I welcome any protests against this system, bludgeoning employes to contribute to the Community Chest or other charities, when, in many instances, they themselves are relieving these charities by taking care of their own relatives who are unemployed or in financial distress.

"If sufficient protests are presented, I will ask the civil service committee of the Senate to make an investigation, and, if necessary, to enact legislation to prevent the use of Government employes for such purposes."

Senator Couzens was not the only one stirred to action by publication of Mr. Gordon's admonitions to his subordinates. The District Commissioners took forthwith action. They sent word forbidding any further collection of contributions until after

Armed Trio Takes $20,000 in Jewels

Five in Office Are Bound as New York Raid Is Staged.

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Three heavily armed robbers bound five persons in a diamond merchant's office in a Fifth avenue building late today and escaped with from $15,000 to $20,000 in gems.

The trio invaded a suite on the ninth floor of a skyscraper at Forty-fourth street and Fifth avenue. Alexander Friedman and Edward Berger, proprietors, and three clerks made no resistance as the intruders drew pistols and lashed their victims to chairs with rope they had brought, sealing their lips with tape.

Hardly had the robbers left when one of the clerks managed to give the alarm. A few minutes later a squad of police arrived and surrounded the building, but the hold-up men had escaped. Several thousand shoppers gathered to watch the hunt.

Head of Aviation Firm In Mexico Dies in Crash

Sunbury, Pa., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Theodore T. Hull, 36, president of the Aeronautical Transport Co., at Terreon, Mexico, was fatally injured when his plane dived into the Susquehanna River near here late today.

Hull's skull was fractured and nearly every bone in his body was broken. He died on the way to a hospital at Danville without regaining consciousness following the crash. The plane fell into shallow water from an altitude of about 2,000 feet.

NAVY LEAGUE MAKES NEW HOOVER ATTACK

Denounces Policies Instead of Apologizing as He Had Demanded.

(Associated Press.)

Instead of the apology demanded by President Hoover, the Navy League last night issued a new denunciation of his naval policies and an assertion that no errors in its figures on comparative naval strengths had been revealed.

It attacked in vigorous language the report of the committee which Mr. Hoover appointed to weigh the truth of its previous assertions. This document, which had charged it with "inaccuracies, false assertions and erroneous conclusions," was described by the league as containing errors itself.

The President was assailed with assertions that he had failed to carry out the pledges of the 1928 Republican platform, that he had not provided for replacing obsolete vessels or for building the fleet up to treaty levels. It termed his naval building record "unconstructive."

Last night's statement was issued over the signature of Walter Bruce Howe, the chairman of the league's board of directors. Previous statements which aroused the President's indignation were signed by William Howard Gardiner, president of the league.

A full rejoinder to the allegations of the Hoover jury was promised later. This may be issued by Gardiner.

The President's row with the league was precipitated by a statement charging him with "abysmal ignorance" of the purpose and needs of the Navy. It ridiculed his proposal that food-bearing ships be immunized from attack in time of war and contended the one-year naval holiday proposed by Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy and later made effective under the League of Nations had originated in Washington.

The President was quick to reply. The very next evening he issued a statement charging Gardiner and the league with disseminating "untruths and distorting of fact." He announced he would appoint a committee to include league members, which would investigate the veracity of the organization's assertions, after which he would expect a public apology and retraction.

The next day, Secretary Stimson joined in the assault upon the league

Student, 17, Killed As Glider Crashes

Youth Thrown From Seat Through Failure to Free Tow Line.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Paul W. Shedlessy, 17, University of Cincinnati freshman, was killed almost instantly tonight when his glider fell at Dixie Davis Airport.

Shedlessy was being towed into the air by an automobile driven by Henry McWhorter. Police attributed the accident to Shedlessy's failure to release his tow cord, by which he was pulled into the air.

The cord took Shedlessy up about 350 feet and when the pilot was unable to cut the tow loose he was jerked from his seat. Shedlessy was a member of the University Glider Club and was enrolled in the Engineering College.

Safeguards Continued In Communist Threat

(Associated Press.)

Washington police are taking no chances on a surprise Communist demonstration in the vicinity of the White House.

Since the reports that such a demonstration would be held Tuesday, Metropolitan Police chiefs have stationed three oficers in a nonpolice car near the White House. In addition, police automobiles and motorcycle patrolmen drive back and forth near the President's home frequently.

JAPANESE TAKE STRATEGIC CITY IN NEW ATTACK

GENERAL OFFENSIVE FORESEEN AS RESULT

Massing of Chang's Troops at Chinchow Seen as Inspiring Advance.

Mukden, Manchuria, Nov. 25.—Japanese occupation of the focal town of Hainmintun led qualified observers to believe today the Japanese were launching a general offensive against Chinchow in one last thrust to drive the Chinese forces beyond the great wall into China proper.

Japanese troops moved a short distance to the west along the Peiping-Mukden Railway and a small force took over Hainmintun. At the same time a battalion was sent from Mukden to Chuliuho to reinforce the Japanese garrison there.

This action was taken, Japanese headquarters said, because the Chinese "peace preservation corps" and Chinese police had deserted the town after yesterday's fighting at Kaotanshan, and it was necessary for the Japanese to "maintain peace and order."

Japanese Make Final Drive.

The day's events, together with recent reports of a large force of Chinese troops stationed at Chinchow, strengthened the belief that the Japanese were making a final march on the way to drive Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's troops out of their last stronghold, and thereby extend their regime over all Manchuria.

Meanwhile, reliable reports from Harbin said the Japanese had made overtures to Gen. Mah Chan-Shan to install him as ruler of the Province of HeiLung-kiang, under Japanese influence and with Tsitsihar as his capital

Gen. Mah, who was acting governor of the province until he was driven out of Tsitsihar last week, still is regarded by the Japanese as the only Chinese commander of any worth in northern Manchuria, and his tactical skill in saving an army of 15,000 from destruction won high respect from his enemies.

The toll of yesterday's battle at KaoTan-shan, where two Japanese companies defeated 350 Chinese, was officially listed at 4 Japanese killed and 9 wounded, and 60 Chinese killed The fighting ended in the early evening, when the Chinese forces fled, leaving many rifles and a trench mortar.

Town's Fall Reported.

Peiping, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The strategic town of HsinMin-tun, situated on the Peiping-Mukden Railway about 50 miles from Chinchow, was captured by the Japanese forces today as they continued their advance on the latest Manchurian front.

The civil governor of Chinchow reported in a message to Marshal

Spain's Envoy Here MayGo in Shake-Up

De Madariaga Is Slated for London; Successor Is Sought.

Madrid, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Persistant reports circulated today that a shakeup is impending in the Spanish diplomatic corps, involving representatives at Washington, London, Paris and Rome.

It is understood that Perez de Ayala, now at London, wants to come home as director of the Prado Museum and that Salvador de Madariaga, Ambassador to the United States, is slated for the London post.

The government was said to be searching for the best possible man to take his place.

STIMSON-DAWES PLAN FOR PEACE IN FAR EAST WINS FAVOR OF LEAGUE

New Proposal Provides for Immediate Cessation of All Hostilities and Naming of Neutral Group to Make Manchurian Probe.

INFORMAL CONSENT OBTAINED FROM JAPANESE AND CHINESE

Formula Reposes on League Covenant, Kellogg-Briand Pact and Nine-Power Treaty; America Believed Certain to Be Represented on Inquiry Commission.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The United States has brought the full weight of its approval to a plan for bringing peace to warring China and Japan in Manchuria, it was announced here last night by Secretary of State Stimson. The peace plan announced on the eve of Thanksgiving was given American indorsement by American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes in Paris yesterday afternoon when he declared:

"This Government approves the general plan of settlement embodied in the proposed resolution and has so informed China and Japan."

Previously Ambassador Dawes had gone over the details carefully with all the other members of the league council, including China and Japan, who have been negotiating for such a compromise and obtained their informal assent. The nature of the "Stimson-Dawes plan" provides for:

First—Immediate cessation of all hostilities. The two governments will issue the strictest orders to their military commanders to refrain from all measures of activity which might exaggerate the present situation;

Second—The nomination of a neutral commission of inquiry to be appointed by the league council consisting of three members with, in addition, an "assessor" or representative from both China and Japan. The assessors will merely assist the commission.

That the United States will be represented by a member of the commission was believed to be a certainty in official circles last night. It was authoritatively confirmed that no official refusal to permit an American to serve if invited by the league council, would be expressed by this Government. Several names have already been put forward, but no choice has as yet been made. It is believed that after today's meeting of the council, when the text of the "Stimson-Dawes plan" will be formally approved by the representatives of the governments assembled in Paris, the names of the commission will be discussed.

Several Names Mentioned.

The Japanese had previously announced their choice for a member of any commission of inquiry as Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former chief of staff of the United States Army, now living in retirement in Florida. Other names mentioned have included Henry P. Fletcher, former chairman of the Tariff Commission; Frank B. Kellogg, author of the Kellogg-Briand Pact; Silas W. Strawn, of Chicago; Gen. John J. Pershing, Admiral Mark L. Bristol, now of the Navy General Board, and Maj. Gen. Frank R. MacCoy. It is generally conceded that both the Chinese and Japanese tend to the appointment of a military man rather than a diplomat or statesman.

The formula of the "Stimson-Dawes plan" represents a new departure in the settlement of major international disputes. The formula reposes on three basic international agreements—the League Covenant, the Kellogg-Briand Pact and the Nine-Power Treaty. However, the application of this formula has not been subjected to such a test since its invocation in the case of the Memel dispute, where Norman Davis was the American member, and in the adjudication of the status of Liberia. In both of these instances, however, the points at issue were only of unimportant significance as compared to the economic, political and commercial issues now at stake in the rich plains of Manchuria.

Stimson Played Big Part.

The influence of the jurisprudential mind of Secretary Stimson is believed to have played a large part in persuading the negotiators in Paris to adopt the legal form of com-

Text of Resolution For League Inquiry

The League of Nations resolution for an inquiry into the Manchurian conflict, according to best information available in Washington last night, is as follows:

1. The council recalls and reaffirms the resolution passed unanimously by it on September 30 by which the two parties declare that they are solemnly bound. It therefore calls upon the Chinese and Japanese governments to take all steps necessary to assure its execution so that the withdrawal of the Japanese troops within the railway zone—a point to which the council attaches the utmost importance—may be effected as speedily as possible.

2. Considering that events in Manchuria have assumed an even more serious aspect since the council meeting of October 24 calls upon the two governments:

(a) To give the strictest orders to the commanders of their respective forces to refrain from any initiative which may lead to further fighting and loss of life.

(b) To take all measures necessary to avoid any further aggravation of the situation.

3. Invites the two parties to continue to keep the council informed as to the development of the situation.

4. Invites the other members of the council to furnish the council with information received from their representatives on the spot.

5. Without prejudice to the execution of the above mentioned measures, desiring on the other and in view of the special circumstances of the case to contribute towards a definitive and fundamental solution of the questions at issue between the two governments.

Decides to appoint a commission of three members to study on the spot

The father and stepmother of Edith Riley, the closet girl who allegedly spent four years as prisoner in a small, cramped room, fled from their home at 1110 Rhode Island avenue northwest last night as two men kicked in the front door with the avowed purpose of "beating them up," according to police reports.

The men are Aloysius R. Murphy, 40 years old, 2140 Twenty-second street northwest, and Arthur Williams, alias Arthur Larrymore Dixon, 47 years old, Mount Rainier, Md.

INDEPENDENTS FAIL TO DRAW PROGRAM

Action Delayed by House and Senate Groups Because of Small Attendance.

The Independents in House and Senate met yesterday but postponed drafting final programs because of slim attendance. Both groups plan to hold later meetings.

It is recognized that the independents occupy an important position in the Senate, but the hearings of the agriculture committee precluded the attendance at the meeting of Senator Norris and several other members were unable to be present.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, jr. (Republican), of Wisconsin, was present, as were Senators Borah, Brookhart and Nye, who are also Republicans. Senators Norris and La Follette are cooperating in drafting an employment program, which they would have financed through a Federal bond issue.

The House group gathered in the office of Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia (Republican), of New York. The meeting was held behind closed doors.

At the conclusion of the session it was announced that the group had considered certain revisions of the House rules and means of getting legislation out of committees, but nothing definite was done.

Those attending included Mr. La Guardia and Representatives Howard (Democrat), Nebraska; Christgau (Republican) and Selvig (Republican), of Minnesota; Sinclair, of North Dakota; Campbell, of Iowa; Schneider; Boileau, of Wisconsin, and Kvale (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota.

Like the Senate independents, who called another meeting for tomorrow to continue their discussion of what they shall do in the coming session of Congress, the House independents also decided to meet again later, in the hope that the group attending then will be larger.

COUZENS THREATENS CHARITY DRIVE QUIZ

they had had a conference with department heads, which has been called for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Commissioners' pronouncement followed a brief, special meeting at which the situation was discussed.

But Mr. Gordon merely served as a shining mark, because of his frankness, in the revolution against the coercive methods which have been followed. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor and head of the personnel committee of the District which passes on all questions of promotions and boosts in pay and efficiency ratings, is said to have made out a list of his employes, marked against their names the amount of three days' pay and invited them to sign and report to the Commissioners a 100 per cent contribution for his office. William W. Bride, corporation counsel, is said to have done the same thing, and, probably because he presides over a smaller office, he beat Mr. Donovan to the Commissioners with his boast of 100 per cent contribution by his office force.

Same Stories Are Told.

In numerous departments and their divisions and in independent bureaus the same story has been told. The chief clerk of one bureau told his subordinates he was sympathetic with their personal troubles, but that he had been informed by the department to which the bureau was nominally subordinate that it would look very bad if there was less than 100 per cent subscription.

Into the ears of many bureau and division chiefs have been poured tales of economic stress under which Government workers are laboring and these tales often have been met with sympathy, but with the suggestion that the sacrifice might well be the course of wisdom.

Fighting to Stem Tide.

Fighting to stem the tide of revulsion against the attitude of collectors were Luther C. Steward, president, and Miss Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer, of the National Federation of Federal Employes; Gov. Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission and chairman of the President's special contribution collecting committee; the District Commissioners and others. All joined in deploring coercive methods, asking that the mistakes of minor officials be overlooked and the true objective be kept in mind by Government workers.

In denouncing the activities of the unfortunately frank Mr. Gordon, the District Commissioners said that they were willing to have an entire new deal and assured District employes who had signed under a feeling of compulsion, full freedom to withdraw their signatures immediately or at any time subsequently if they felt their financial status demanded withdrawal of their pledges. At the meeting with department heads tomorrow morning, Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners, announced:

In the midst of the fight over the coercion charge the Community Chest fell into additional difficulties when the executive committee of the District American Legion threatened to withdraw and stage a funds raising campaign on its own rather than bow to a Chest edict that it should supervise distribution of funds incident to legion relief work. The legion had developed its own relief organization, the executive committee said in disapproving of the suggestion that funds credited to the legion should be distributed under Chest supervision. Unless the Chest agreed to continue as before there would be a division of the ways, it was said by legion officers.

The dissatisfaction expressed by relief organizations in contiguous Maryland and Virginia because all contributions by Government employees would not be turned over to county organizations was emphasized last night by Harry A. Fellows, of Falls Church, Va., who is a Federal employe, a county official and Arlington County's unemployment relief committee chairman, appointed by Gov. Pollard of Virginia.

Mr. Fellows said that contributions made by Government employes who reside in Virginia should be assigned, arbitrarily, to the county relief organization, whether or not employes so indicated their will.

It is extremely unlikely that Mr. Fellows' sugegstion will be followed. There is considerable difference among charitable and relief leaders as to which organization in the counties should receive funds, and there is a determination among them that one or another organization shall not be given preference.

HOOVERS TO LEAD NATION IN THANKSGIVING TODAY

will be the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of the Foundry Church; Dr. Montgomery, the Rev. Harry Woolever, editor of the National Methodist Press; Eddy Ford, assistant pastor of the Foundry Church, and Justin Lawrie, musical director of the church, who will present a special Thanksgiving Day program of hymns and organ music.

Joint Jewish Observance.

A joint Thanksgiving Day service will be held at 11 o'clock at Adas Israel Synagogue, Sixth and I streets northwest. Carter Louis Novick will open the service with the singing of "America." He will then lead the choir in the singing of "Nah Tavu." Rabbi A. Volkman will deliver the opening prayer which will be followed by a responsive reading by Rabbi Abram Simon and Rabbi Solomon H. Metz. The address, "Thanksgiving in Light of Jewish Thought," will be given by Rabbi J. J. Loeb. Rabbi Simon will invoke the concluding prayer.

The Parish of St. Stephens and Incarnation, Sixteenth and Newton streets northwest, will hold two services this morning, one at 7:30 o'clock and one at 10:30 o'clock. Holy Communion will be given at each service. The Rev. George Tiske Dudley, pastor of the church, will preach at the second service. The vested choir of men and boys, under the direction of H. Norman Taylor, organist and choir master, will offer the anthem, "Give Thanks Unto the Lord," by Cuthbert Harris.

At Grace Lutheran Church, the Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski will preach at an 11 o'clock service this morning on "Our Greatest Ground for Gratitude." An augmented chorus choir, directed by Mrs. Marion St. John Aldridge will present a special program of Thanksgiving music.

Provisions for Needy.

The less fortunately endowed who are unable to afford the good things of Thanksgiving will find the day an important one in their bleak lives through the generous gifts of edibles from many groups of men, women and children.

Central Union Mission yesterday distributed 350 baskets of food to needy families. John S. Bennett and Mrs. Bennett, who presided at the distribution of the baskets, will serve Thanksgiving dinner to all homeless men who apply today.

Preparations have been made to serve 450 men in the mission lunch room, and the dinner hour will be prolonged until the last dish of roast pork and pie is consumed.

Gospel Mission Dinners.

The Gospel Mission distributed 300 bags of groceries to needy families yesterday. Dinner will be served from 12 o'clock until 2 o'clock at the mission, 214 John Marshall place.

Seventy-two poor families received heaping baskets of food yesterday from the District Playgrounds Department under the supervision of Miss Sybil Baker. Thirty of the baskets were prepared by the Women's Club, of Chevy Chase, while the others were filled through donations from the hundreds of children who patronize the playgrounds. The children furnished the names of needy families and assisted in the distribution.

Private and public schools and many churches are distributing baskets through the Associated Charities. One hundred families, vouched for by the Associated Charities, will be given dinners at different hours by the restaurant proprietor at New York avenue and Ninth street northwest.

Girl Scouts have prepared baskets to be distributed by the Council of Social Agencies. Troop 34, of Anacostia, will take toys to the boys and girls of the Children's Country Home and will present an entertainment at the home.

Girl Scouts' Pageant.

The Girl Scouts of the District will present a Thanksgiving pageant in connection with a service at the District War Memorial in Potomac Park at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

A Thanksgiving program will be given at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in Eastern High School Auditorium by the East Washington Community Center.

Travel over the Ludington Airline between Washington, New York and Norfolk was exceedingly heavy yesterday, 224 passengers being carried and 200 turned away because of lack of accommodations. Advance reservations for today were also heavy, it was announced by Gene Vidal, executive vice president of the line. Twenty-six schedules were completed on time yesterday. Earl Steel, veteran Ludington pilot, made the 145-mile trip from Washington to Norfolk in 50 minutes, aided by a northwest wind.

Overload of Turkeys Lands Youth in Jail

Thanksgiving won't be so bright a holiday for John Creamer, 46 years old, of Rockville, and Bernard Roas, 19 years old, of 1223 Half street southwest. Creamer will have to eat his turkey without the aid of one hand and Roas is likely to eat whatever Thanksgiving dinner he has in a police station, because, paradoxically enough, he had too many turkeys yesterday.

Creamer went to Emergency Hospital with a badly slashed left wrist received yesterday while killing turkeys.

Roas is accused of removing seven of the Thanksgiving birds from the market of Samuel Jewell, 1253 South Capitol street. He was picked up, police said, while walking along the street with the seven turkeys tucked under his arm. Police said he admitted taking them, telling them that he intended to have one of the birds for his dinner today and selling the other six.

Defamation Suit Filed for $25,000

Silver Spring Firm Is Cited in Action Begun in Montgomery.

Suit for $25,000 damages, alleging defamatory statements, was filed in Montgomery Circuit Court yesterday by John M. Hoffman, jr., 422 Butternut street northwest, assistant director of the Bureau of Rehabilitation, against the Wolfe Motor Co., 8617 Georgia avenue, Silver Spring, Md.

Mr. Hoffman alleged in his petition that Garland Wolfe stated in the presence of a number of witnesses "that plaintiff's credit is no good; that he has a bunch of people suing him; and that plaintiff owed a lot of bills he did not pay," and that these statements had impaired his credit and he had suffered pecuniary losses.

The plaintiff stated he rents, hires and sells taxicabs, and that the statements had cost him the sale of a $1,500 automobile. The contract, he said, had been made out, but that the prospective purchaser had refused to complete the deal after hearing the statement. Mr. Hoffman is represented by Joseph A. Cantrell, of Washington, and the law firm of Whiteford and Cissell, of Rockville, Md.

G. O. P. MAY SETTLE LEADERSHIP MONDAY

Struggle for Nomination as Speaker May Depend on Pennsylvania Group.

(Associated Press.)

Leadership of the administration party is the prize at stake in a conference of House Republicans Monday.

The bitter contest between Representatives Snell, of New York, and Tilson, of Connecticut, for the Republican speakership nomination is in reality a conflict to determine who shall lead the party in the probable event the Democrats organize the House.

In the meantime, Democratic organization is assured as a result of the party's victory in the Fourteenth Texas Congressional District at a special election Tuesday. The new line-up stands: Democrats, 218; Republicans, 214; Farmer-Labor, 1; vacancies, 2.

The outcome of the administration party leadership contest depends largely on the action of the powerful Pennsylvania delegation of 33 at its caucus tomorrow. The action of the largest State Republican group in the House is expected to forecast who will be nominated at the Republican conference.

State Group Is Split.

Pennsylvania's delegation is split. Representative Darrow claims a majority for Snell, but Representative Campbell asserts Tilson has the edge. Both candidates are looking to the group's decision for the effect it will have on other delegations not yet committed.

Both Tilson and Snell lay claims to the nomination. Tilson holds that since he was named leader at the Republican conference in March, he would remain in that position regardless of whether he wins the Speakership nomination.

On the contrary, Snell's backers assert that should he be nominated, he would assume the minority leadership under Democratic organization. Tilson was floor leader in the last three Congresses, while Snell was chairman of the rules committee.

Favorite Sons Backed.

Meanwhile, the Kansas delegation is sponsoring Representative Hoch; the California group, Representative Barbour; Michigan members are supporting Representative Mapes, and a number of Northwestern members are looking to Representative Ramseyer, of Iowa. Ohio Republicans expect to place Representative Cooper in nomination. How far the favorite sons will go depends upon the closeness of the Tilson-Snell battle.

Whether all the Republican Independents will attend the party conference has not been determined. At least a dozen are expected to remain away, as they did last spring.

Nine independents, inluding one Democrat, Representative Howard, of Nebraska, decided yesterday to call a conference of their group December 4, to "consider and finally decide upon necessary modification of the House rules" of procedure.

Economic Program Mapped.

In a statement issued at the office of Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, after the meeting, the group said it had formulated a program for economic relief to present to their bloc.

Neither LaGuardia nor Kvale, of Minnesota, lone Farmer-Laborer, who called yesterday's meeting, would divulge the program.

The selection of Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, as Democratic floor leader if Representative Garner, of Texas, is elected Speaker, was virtually assured yesterday when Representative Rankin, of Mississippi, withdrew from the race. The Mississippian indorsed the Illinois member, saying he had desired a "progressive leader."

O'Connor Only Opposition.

Only Representative O'Connor, of New York, looms as Rainey's opponent. The Tammany Hall member is an avowed antiprohibitnist, while Rainey declares he will follow the sentiment of his district on the prohibition question. The Illinois member has always voted dry, but said he had no objections to a referendum.

Six members of the Minnesota Republican delegation met late yesterday and decided to place Representative Frank Clague, of Redwood Falls, in the Speakership nomination.

Representative Knutson, dean of the group who are supporting Tilson, said three Republican members of the delegation were not present. He indicated the vote for Clague would be complimentary.

Whole Town to Observe Thanksgiving as a Body

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Twenty-one years ago the inhabitants of the little town of Mazie, in the hills about 50 miles east of here, revived the Pilgrim Fathers' custom of an annual community dinner, with prayer, on Thanksgiving.

Tomorrow the entire population of 63 will join again in the traditional manner.

The women of Mazie, "whistle stop" on the railroad, with one telephone and no postoffice, have prepared the meal. At noon every one will gather in the schoolhouse, sing a few hymns, be led in prayer, and gather around a community table.

BORAH TO ADDRESS EUROPE OVER RADIO

Senator's Disarmament Talk to Be Broadcast Tomorrow; Will Discuss Laval.

(Associated Press.)

Europe will hear directly tomorrow afternoon the views of Senator Borah on disarmament.

Casting his voice for the first time into the continent which he has never visited, the chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee will speak tomorrow at 5 o'clock, Eastern standard time.

The address will also be broadcast in the United States, but his chosen audience will be a gathering of European peace advocates.

Thus, Europe will have an opportunity to hear for itself the proposals advanced by Senator Borah in a recent talk with Premier Laval of France.

In those conversations, at which the two statesmen could reach no basis of agreement, Senator Borah told Laval if Europe would cut down its armament and cancel German reparations, he would favor cancellation of war debts owed America.

Senator Borah was invited some time ago by Edouard Herriot, former premier of France, to address the peace conference in person. Last night he agreed to speak over the air.

While the senator's voice has never been heard in Europe his influence was felt in the historic Senate debates on the Versailles Treaty and the League of Nations, American ratification of which he helped to prevent.

Senator Borah will be limited to five minutes in his transatlantic talk. Because of this, he will devote himself almost exclusively to disarmament, which he advocates.

Steck and Hoover Hold Conference

Speculation Over Tariff Body Post Is Renewed by Parley.

(Associated Press.)

Speculation over the appointment of former Senator Steck to fill the Democratic vacancy on the Tariff Commission was stirred again yesterday by a conference between the Iowa Democrat and President Hoover.

Steck has been prominently mentioned among those recommended to President Hoover for the post. Former Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, also has been spoken of frequently.

The former Iowa senator declined to discuss his conference with the President. He would neither affirm nor deny reports he had been offered the post, indicating he was not in a position to talk. Robert Lincoln O'Brien, who was named Tuesday as chairman of the commission, paid a call at the White House a few days before his appointment was announced.

Ballston Citizens Select Delegates to Federation

The Ballston Citizens Association at its meeting last night in Firemen's Hall elected Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, Grover E. Payne, Thomas J. Crack and Ray R. Cogswell delegates to the Arlington County Civic Federation. Alternates are Mrs. Clara Cogswell, Mrs. Ruth McC. Payne, Mrs. Lydia Smith and Herbert W. Smith.

Mrs. Samuel Lewis and Mrs. Smith were appointed a special committee to investigate why letter and package boxes have not been installed to receive all outgoing mail as provided by the Postoffice Department.

Arlington Citizens Elect Officers for Next Year

Perfecting a reorganization of the Arlington Citizens Association at the meeting held last night in the Patrick Henry School, the following officers were elected for next year: J. Vernon Smith, president; Rufus Trice, first vice president; Mrs. Ruth B. Lowell, second vice president; Roger Daniel, secretary; Mrs. C. V. Allen, Treasurer.

Delegates to the Arlington County Civic Federation are John P. Agnes, Henry S. Coe, sr., and Mrs. H. S. Miles.

COLDER WEATHER HOLIDAY FORECAST

ritory southward toward Newfoundland. In South Atlantic States, however, unusually warm weather is still in prevalence, and no near future change is expected.

Friday, weather officials expect a return to the warmer temperatures recently prevailing and which reached record prevalence for the period of the year. Overcast skies, with probable rains Saturday, are prophesied.

A marked business in alcohol and other antifreeze elements for automobile radiators was reported last night by filling stations and other business establishments. Weather officials would make no pronouncement as to the possibility of conditions that might cause water to freeze in automobile radiators, but said that temperatures generally must go to 28 or 29 before the hazard becomes great.

DAVIS AND PINCHOT FIGHT OVER CHARITY

Exchange Challenges Upon How Much Each Will Give to Jobless.

(Associated Press.)

What started as a jest has injected Pennsylvania's governor and junior senator into a tussle over which will give the most to charity.

Senator Davis yesterday challenged Gov. Pinchot to contribute his entire income. Pinchot had asked Davis to donate and loan as large a percentage of his income to unemployment relief as he himself would give.

In the counter-attack the senator suggested that "may not be enough for me" and said "Mrs. Davis and I will give all of our income if you and Mrs. Pinchot will do likewise."

Davis' Mortgage Offer.

Moreover, Davis offered to mortgage all of his and Mrs. Davis' realty holdings to purchase the executive's proposed issuance of so-called "prosperity bonds" by the State, provided the Pinchots "do the same."

The quarrel had its inception in a recent personal request by the governor to Secretary Mellon for a $1,000,000 subscription to the bond issue. Mellon refused.

Referring to that visit, Davis, in what he insists was "a jocular way," suggested that if Pinchot wanted $1,000,000 of the bonds purchased he could buy them himself. The statement was made at a meeting of Republican women at Harrisburg last week.

"You do my bank account too much honor," said a letter from Pinchot to Davis, in reference to the Davis statement.

Would Match Donations.

The letter, which addressed Davis as "Dear Jim," made four proposals which included the matching in percentage of income donations to unemployment relief, as well as in subscriptions for the bonds. Pinchot also proposed that each make public their contributions, as well as their income tax statements for last year.

Davis agreed to the suggestions, and raised the ante to the full income of the two families.

Reminding the executive of their different stations in life at the start of their respective careers, Davis said he started working at 11, soon after arriving in this country as an immigrant. Pinchot, the senator said, inherited "great wealth, not only from your parents, but other relatives as well."

FOUR INDIANS DEAD; MAROONED IN STORM

dians. Other searchers were enrolled in expeditions hoping to rescue three white men, whose fate was in doubt.

The Indians who brought the tale of suffering to Zuni, carried the body of Pushana, a Zuni brave, who was frozen to death in Coal Mine Canyon yesterday.

Four searching parties left Gallup today to search the Thoreau area east of here for United States Deputy Marshal Dan Padilla, of Albuquerque, and former Sheriff A. J. Crockett, of Gallup.

Fears were expressed for the safety of Jake Barth, of St. Johns, Ariz., a member of the Arizona State Highway Commission, who had gone from St. Johns to meet Padilla to accompany him on a legal mission to an isolated sheep camp.

Friends of the men feared greatly for their safety. The temperature at Thoreau was 28 degrees below zero yesterday.

There were 2 feet of snow on the level here today and a new storm was in progress.

Real Suffering Impends.

Anchorage, Alaska, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Hopes for the safety of the missing missionary-aviators, brothers George feltes and Marshall Lapeyre, were revived today with word they had snow shoes and supplies for thirty days when they took off Monday from McGrath, on a 150-mile flight to their base on the lower Yukon River, the Holy Cross Mission.

While two commercial planes swung over the desolate, frozen wastes from the headquarters of the Kuskokwim River to the broad Yukon Valley, the Army Signal Corps established communication with widely separated trading posts and Indian villages in the region and spread an alarm.

Miami, Fla., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Richard W. Gray, Government meteorologist here, said today that diminishing intensity of a storm reported 250 miles northeast of Nassau appeared to eliminate any possible danger to the Atlantic coast.

Chicago, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The first cold snap of approaching winter, ranging downward to zero in several sections, had spread over most of the Nation tonight and brought with it a prediction for a "clear and snappy" Thanksgiving Day.

Sudden drops in temperatures caused discomfort in many States. In the Midwest, where balmy fall weather had been general, the mercury fell from 60s and 70s to the chill levels of from freezing to 5 below zero.

Boyds Woman Is Hurt In Highway Collision

Mrs. Clara Youngerman, of Boyds, Md., was severely bruised and cut yesterday when her car was struck by an automobile driven by Donelson C. Glassie, of 117 Bradley lane, Chevy Chase, Md., on Rockville pike at Halpine, Md.

Mrs. Youngerman was treated by Dr. C. E. Hawks, of Rockville, Md., and taken to the home of Miss Arrie Davis, nearby, where she is visiting.

ARBITRATION LOOMS ON MEXICAN DEATHS

Decision on American Stand Awaits Formal Submission of Claim.

(Associated Press.)

The American Government may propose arbitration in any claim for damages by Mexico as a result of the killing in June of two Mexican students at Ardmore, Okla.

The Mexican government has not yet made such claims but has indicated its intention of doing so.

State Department officials yesterday were examining precedents. Several alternatives are open to the United States if Mexico claims damages.

The first and least likely would be a concession of American responsibility and payment of an agreed sum.

The second would be a concession of responsibility with a neutral arbitrator to fix the amount. The third would be to refer all evidence to a neutral arbitrator to fix both responsibility and damages. The fourth would be for the American Government to decline to accept responsibility.

Further evidence is expected by department officials from Oklahoma authorities.

No official would hazard an opinion as to whether the Federal Government, if it eventually did make reparations, would ask the State of Oklahoma to pay the sum.

Simon Tells Commons Outlook in East Better

London, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, speaking in the House of Commons, said today that information reaching him "indicated a more encouraging outlook on Manchuria."

"I think we may now assume there is no desire on the side of Japan to insist on the recognition of disputed treaty rights as one of the terms on which she is prepared to consent to a league inquiry," he said.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 117

THE above picture depicts a scene from "Going South," one of a series of three plays which inaugurated the opening of the Playhouse, which still stands at 1814 N street northwest. Originally founded as an exclusive social and dramatic club in 1911, its habitues included the most distinguished members of Washington society. On the night this play was produced the house was packed with the elite of Washington society and officialdom, together with the cream of the Diplomatic Corps, resplendent in their uniforms and decorations.

POWERS IS DENIED TRIAL SITE CHANGE

Must Face Harrison County Court on December 7, Judge Decides.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Harry F. Powers must stand trial in Harrison County December 7 on a murder charge in the death of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro, Mass., divorcee.

This became certain today when Criminal Court Judge John C. Southern denied his petition for a change of venue after several witnesses testified in support of the motion.

Powers' counsel contended he could not get a fair trial here because the public's mind was "poisoned" against him. Several witnesses told the Court they heard many persons here say the prisoner "ought to be hanged," "mobbed," or "treated rough."

Before the Court's decision was announced, J. Ed Law, defense counsel, was permitted to cross-examine 25 State witnesses who made affidavits that the "mail order Romeo" would get a fair trial here.

Powers is alleged to have killed Mrs. Lemke after luring her from her home on promise of marriage at his Quiet Dell garage. He also was indicted for the slayings of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, Park Ridge, Ill., widow, and her three children.

Japan Control in Harbin Is Near, London Hears

London (Thursday), Nov. 26 (A.P.).—The London Daily Mail today printed a dispatch from Tsitsihar, Manchuria, saying that small parties of Japanese troops had been going to Harbin during the last few days and it was expected the Japanese would take over the city shortly.

Harbin already is virtually under Japan's control, the correspondent said, and occupation probably would be quite peaceable.

Roumanian Parliament Breaks Up in Fist Fight

Bucharest, Roumania, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Today's Parliament session broke up in a fist fight between anti-Jewish and Socialist deputies.

The trouble started when one of the anti-Jewish deputies criticized Minister of the Interior Argetoinau, and soon there was so much uproar it was necessary to suspend the session.

STIMSON-DAWES PEACE PLAN WINS FAVOR FROM LEAGUE

ciliatory procedure now existing in so many countries of the civilized world. This is particularly the case in the English-speaking countries. A purely Occidental solution of this kind was a little difficult of acceptance both by the Chinese and the Japanese, and the arguments of Ambassador Dawes and Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary and believed to have had an important member at the League Council, are part in obtaining acceptance of this conciliatory step by Kenkichi Yoshizawa and the Chinese delegate, Alfred Sze.

The procedure of conciliation has already been effectively invoked in the Western Hemisphere in preventing war between Paraguay and Bolivia. Some thirty-five treaties of conciliation to which the United States is a party are already in existence and the League of Nations itself has already a "general statute" or "general act" to which many countries already adhere and which is purely a treaty agreement of conciliation.

Points In Its Favor.

In addition to the application of such modern and philosophical methods as conciliation in settling international difficulties, the plan also has the following points in its favor:

First, it anticipates the excuses that Japan has in the past alleged for her failure to evacuate the occupied territory in Manchuria, by insisting on complete observance of the agreement to evacuate made by Japan in her note to the League of Sep- specifically declared that it shall be tember 30. Then the agreement specifically declared that it shall be understood that the creation of the commission is not to be regarded as ground for "delaying the withdrawal by Japanese troops within the railway zone as laid down in paragraph 1 of the resolution."

Secondly, it affords both China and Japan a "cooling-off period" during which time, the members of the commission can exercise their supervision in the evacuation, although it is also provided that the commission will not give any orders, but merely make reports.

Will Prevent Undue Pressure.

Third, it will prevent the exercise of any undue pressure on China in the discussion of peace terms between her and Japan. Any direct negotiations which may follow the findings of the commission will be predicated on the free and liberal dispositions of China. The removal of Japanese military forces, which is contemplated and promised in the agreement, will enforce the principles of "national integrity" for which the United States and the counttries represented at the league council have been fighting.

The experiences of previous wars in Manchuria have clearly shown the tendency of Japan to maintain her military forces in the vanquished regions in order to wring out by their military presence the very utmost in the way of concessions from the Chinese. The present commission will forestall any such attempt from the Japanese military forces and will provide by the presence of neutral conciliators on the very spot where the inquiry is taking place, of an unbiased and candid explanation to the world of what is going on.

Removes Senate Interference.

The invocation of the conciliatory treaties in settling the Manchurian difficulty has removed to a very considerable degree the possibility of senatorial opposition to the agreement because of its league influence. The conciliation treaties played a very large part in the final preparation of the plan and although the league covenant was also invoked its presence was more than balanced by the inclusion in the authorities consulted of the American-born Nine Power Treaty and the more recent Kellogg-Briand Pact.

When it will be made fully known that the final compromise in the Manchurian incident was based on American conciliation treaties, the Nine Power Treaty, born at the Washington Conference, and the Kellogg-Briand Pact, the influence of the league covenant and its Article 11 will be overlooked in those quarters of the Senate foreign relations committee, where the league is anathema.

Text of Resolution For League Inquiry

and to report to the council on any circumstance which, affecting international relations, threatens to disturb peace between China and Japan, or the good understanding between them, upon which peace depends.

The governments of China and of Japan will each have the right to nominate one assessor to assist the commission. It is understood that should the two parties initiate any negotiations these would not fall within the scope of the terms of reference of the commission nor would the commission interfere with military measures taken by either party.

It is further understood that the appointment and deliberations of the commission are not to be regarded as any ground for delaying the withdrawal by the Japanese troops within the railway zone as laid down in paragraph one of this resolution.

N. B. The President after the adoption of the resolution will state:

(a) That each of the two governments will have the right to indicate to the chairman of the commission any question the examination of which it particularly desires.

(b) That the commission may, should it so desire, furnish the council with interim reports.

JAPANESE CAPTURE KEY CITY IN DRIVE TOWARD CHINCHOW

Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, that the Japanese had moved in and disarmed the Chinese police. He spoke of Sinminfu, the Manchurian equivalent for HsinMintun.

While no other details were given, it was known the Japanese troops were moving south and west from Mukden and they had war vessels laying at Chinwangtao, with others reported en route from there to Shanhaikwan.

HsinMin-tun is about 50 miles west of Mukden and is on the direct line of the railway to Chinchow and the Great Wall, in the vicinity of which the Chinese are reported to have concentrated 50,000 troops.

Way Is Kept Clear.

Tokyo, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The Japanese government's reservations in its acceptance of the latest league peace proposal were interpreted today as leaving the way clear for a general onslaught on the last Chinese stronghold in Manchuria.

Ambassador Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate in Paris, was instructed to approve the council's resolution with the understanding that it does not preclude "such military measures as may be required for the protection of Japanese lives and property from bandits and other lawless elements."

The Japanese conditions pertained to that part of the council's proposal which called on the two governments to instruct their military leaders to take no initiative which might result in bloodshed. It was emphasized in the reply that Japan could not agree to hamper its forces which it contends are attempting to bring "order out of chaos."

Chinchow Presents Problem.

Impartial observers were quick to see that the reservation was prompted by the situation at Chinchow, where the Chinese are said to have massed a large body of troops and which is described officially to be daily assuming a more threatening aspect.

Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed by the Japanese as war lord of Manchuria, was said to be "burning with a desire for revenge against Japan" and President Chiang Kai Shek was said to be prodding him to take direct action.

League Group Warns Tokyo Against Chinchow Fighting

Attack on City Reported as Imminent; China Wants Neutral Zone Created and Maintained by Council.

Paris, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The United States Government and the Council of the League of Nations stood side by side tonight behind the council's program to bring peace to Manchuria.

This was made clear by Ambasador Charles G. Dawes, who announced the Washington Government has approved the council's resolution asking that Japan evacuate occupied areas in Manchuria as soon as security conditions permit.

The effect of this agreement is that the United States and the 12 neutral members of the council are in accord in the belief that troop withdrawal within a definite time limit is not practicable.

In authoritative Chinese quarters, however, it was learned that Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese spokesman, still insisted upon evacuation by a fixed day.

Asked whether China, in the face of American indorsement of the council's resolution, might modify her evacuation demand, Dr. Sze replied dejectedly: "I don't know."

The position of the United States Government was set forth by Ambassador Dawes in a statement issued to newspaper correspondents.

Gen. Dawes' Statement.

"The United States Government approved the general plan of settlement embodied in the proposed resolution of the council and has so informed both China and Japan," the statement said.

"It urged upon them acquiescence in the general plan embodied in the proposed resolution."

The American Ambassador refused to amplify that statement.

The impression gained in international quarters that indorsement of the proposal by the United States probably would bring unanimous agreement from the neutral members of the council as well as the Japanese and Chinese delegates.

Washington's approval was regarded in league circles as a definite commitment to employ American influence in effecting Japanese withdrawal to the railway zone as soon as possible, and this was calculated to have a strong effect upon the Japanese government. China was considered not likely to stand out against America's position.

Chinchow Battle Feared.

For two and a half hours the council deliberated and shortly after the adjournment of a private meeting, which the Chinese and Japanese representatives did not attend, it was announced the council had authorized sending a telegram to Tokyo and Nanking, warning both governments to avoid an armed clash in the region of Chinchow. Throughout the day reports indicated an attack on Chinchow was imminent, and members of the council were plainly worried.

The council also approved a suggestion by Lord Cecil, the British delegate, that each of the twelve governments represented at the meeting send similar telegrams of admonition in an effort to prevent the impending hostilities.

Meanwhile the council received, but did not act upon a request from Nanking that the neutral powers send detachments of their troops in China to organize a neutral zone between the two armies at Chinchow and Mukden.

Neither did the delegates act upon a note from Dr. Wellington Koo, the new Chinese foreign minister, to the effect that China would approve a neutral inquiry in Manchuria but that an order for Japanese evacuation must be an essential part of it.

Smaller Nations Protest.

One more factor agitated the council today, reliable reports said. This was that the representatives of the smaller nations expresesd their displeasure at the apparent willingness of the big powers to let the articles of the League Covenant guaranteeing territorial integrity go by default.

These provisions have been their bulwark against aggression from stronger powers, they contended, and if they were to be ignored in the Manchurian dispute the bulwark would disappear.

It was understood that a number of the smaller European countries are anxious, lest by failing them in this emergency the league remove all hope of protection in case of aggression.

Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese member, informed the council that if it would establish a neutral zone between the present positions of the opposing armies near Chinchow, China would be willing to withdraw its forces inside the great wall.

He said the Japanese were converging upon Chinchow and that the movement could be halted if the council would act. The neutral zone he suggested would be occupied by British, French, Italian and other neutral detachments under the authority of the league.

HOOVER AID SOUGHT IN RAILWAY PUZZLE

Willard Is Breakfast Guest and Short Lines Present 4-Point Plan.

(Associated Press.)

A warning that adequate railroad service without governmental assistance is "clearly impossible" was placed on President Hoover's desk yesterday with a four-point program for relief.

It came from a delegation of 22 members of the American Short Line Railroad Association, asking particular aid for the 542 carriers of that class. Two hours earlier the President had talked of other railroad problems across his breakfast table with Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio.

Mr. Willard arrived at the White House before 8 o'clock. For more than an hour, over their coffee cups, he and Mr. Hoover spoke of subjects not disclosed, but guessed at.

Speculation centered particularly upon the wage controversy. Mr. Willard had just returned from a New York conference of Eastern railroad presidents, at which a virtual ultimatum was agreed upon, calling for a voluntary reduction of union wages or forcible action by the roads to effect such a cut.

Asserting the short lines were "suffering more acutely than the larger roads from automobile competition," the program presented to Mr. Hoover proposed the following:

1. The establishment by Congress, as an emergency measure, of a revolving fund from which loans could be made to small roads.

2. Repeal of the recapture clause of the interstate commerce act, under which half of all profits above 6 per cent must be turned back to the Government.

(3) Interstate Commerce Commission regulation of truck and bus transportation.

(4). The placing of the Inland Waterways Corporation and all other interstate water transportation under the commission.

Bird M. Robinson, president of the association, said the Chief Executive appeared sympathetic and had asked several questions indicating a thorough knowledge of the situation. He

CROP STABILIZATION LOSS IS $177,000,000

Farm Board Operations May Turn Deficit to Profit, Stone Testifies.

(Associated Press.)

A "paper loss" of $177,000,000 has been sustained by the Farm Board up to the present in its gigantic stabilization operations in wheat and cotton.

This information was furnished to the Senate agriculture committee yesterday by Chairman Stone, of the board, as farm leaders were providing ammunition for the 1932 presidential election, by demands for strengthening the agricultural marketing act.

Stone pointed out that the losses in wheat and cotton stabilization activities were not actual and might be entirely wiped out before the operations were completed.

Remedies Are Mixed.

Based on the current values of the board's holdings, however, it has incurred a loss of $102,000,000 in wheat and $75,000,000 in cotton.

Farm leaders forgot their differences as they mixed old remedies with new and demanded strengthening of the law by adding the export debenture, the equalization fee, or something else to take care of surplus crops.

The committee is considering whether to recommend extending the life of the board, abolishing it, or changing its functions.

Farm leaders, who asked the additional legislation included Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange; Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Farm Bureau Federation; John A. Simpson, president of the Farmers' Union, and Ralph Snyder, of the national committee of farm organizations.

Committee Is Divided.

A fifth witness, J. W. Garrow, of the American Cotton Shippers Association, bitterly attacked the board's stabilization operations and demanded a congressional investigation.

A dozen senators, some members of the committee, and others not, listened to the demands of the farm leaders and questioned them closely on their programs. The committee is sharply divided itself on the various relief plans.

Testimony covered a wide field including farm credit, money problems, unemployment relief and muscle Shoals.

Taber urged the committee to adopt the export debenture plan which President Hoover vigorously opposed two years ago, but pleaded for some legislation to strengthen the law in regard to the disposition of surplus crops, regardless of the name it carried.

Cost Guarantee Urged.

O'Neal advanced the federation's pet plan, the equalization fee which President Coolidge twice vetoed. He said his organization was ready to ("merge its position" with other proper plans.

The board's two-year record has revealed that the present law is not adequate, O'Neil said. He testified, however, that the stabilization activities were "an earnest endeavor to do something for the farmer" and added that "if any money was lost it was lost in a good cause."

Simpson advocated what he called "the equalization fee brought up to date," under which each farmer would be guaranteed the cost of production with a reasonable profit for the crops he produced which were needed for domestic use.

"Dishonest" Dollar Scored.

The Government would determine how much wheat was needed for home use and fix the price on it. Farmers would keep their proportion of the surplus on their farms until it was needed.

Both Taber and Simpson discussed the money problem.

Asserting the farmer was the "greatest sufferer from a dishonest money system," Taber urged an international monetary conference to stabilize the value of gold and silver.

"We have got to make this dollar cheap," Simpson said.

"It is a dishonest dollar, making us pay three times as much to pay off a debt as when we contracted the debt."

He added that the way for Congress to restore the dollar was for it to "take back the power of regulation" which he said had been allowed to get into the hands of "a small group of big banks."

DR. SAMUEL SMALL RESTS IN ARLINGTON

Ashes of Newspaperman and Evangelist Buried With Military Honors.

The ashes of Dr. Samuel W. Small, soldier, evangelist and newspaperman, who founded two newspapers and was an associate editor of the Atlanta Constitution when he died, were interred with military and Masonic honors yesterday in Arlington National Cemetery.

Dr. Small, who was 80 years old and made his home at Clarendon, Va., died Saturday in Atlanta, Ga. His ashes were lowered into a grave that overlooks the Potomac and faces the Arlington Amphitheater and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Dr. Small was a chaplain in the war with Spain. He founded the Norfolk Pilot and the Oklahoma City Oklahoman.

A flag at the amphitheater hung at half-staff and Fort Myer troops stood at attention as the procession, led by a military band playing a funeral march, stopped beside his flower-banked last resting place.

The Rev. George Fiske Dudley, rector of St. Stephen's Church, read the Episcopal ceremony over the ashes, a squad of soldiers fired three salutes, and then "Taps" was sounded as the remains were laid at rest.

Afterward fraternal brothers from Hiram Masonic Lodge gathered about the grave to read their ritual. They placed a Masonic apron and sprigs of evergreen.

Relatives present included Mrs. Samuel W. Small, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Berger, Mrs. Robert T. Small, Miss Elizabeth Small and Miss Marjorie Small, of Washington.

GOV. 'ALF' TAYLOR OF TENNESSEE DIES

'Sage of Happy Valley' Campaigned Against Brother; Served as Representative.

Johnson City, Tenn., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—"Uncle Alf" Taylor, one of Tennessee's most colorful political characters, who in 1886 engaged in the renowned race for the governorship against his brother, Bob, died here today at the age of 83.

"The Sage of Happy Valley" succumbed in a hospital early today of complications resulting from uremic poisoning—an ailment which had kept him in ill health since 1929.

Alfred Alexander Taylor rose to national prominence through his race for the governorship on the Republican ticket while his brother, Robert Love Taylor, campaigned as a Democrat.

They spoke from the same platform, they rode through the mountains and valleys of Tennessee together and at night they slept in the same bed. Each directed sharp barbs at the other's party, but throughout their spirited campaign they never made personal attacks on each other.

Alf had left a seat in the National House of Representatives to make the gubernatorial race and after being defeated by his brother, he later went back to Congress in 1889 to serve until 1895. Robert Taylor died in 1912 while a United States senator.

Although defeated for the governorship in 1886, Alf Taylor came back 34 years later, at the age of 72, to win the office with the greatest majority ever given a Republican gubernatorial nominee in Tennessee.

Politics and fox hounds were Uncle Alf's greatest hobbies.

He said the reason he and Bob were successful in politics was "because we played the fiddle, were fond of dogs, and loved our fellow man." As for fox hounds, he said:

Those surviving are his widow, six sons, Frank, Blaine, Nat, Dave, Robert and Alf, jr., all of Johnson City, and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Graf, Johnson City, and Mrs. Carter Williams, of Franklin, Tenn.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., Friday at the First Methodist Church here with Dr. W. S. Neighbors of Chattanooga, Tenn., officiating.

time. They called from a window and asked what was wanted.

One of the men replied that they were reporters and wanted to get in, police were told. Admission was refused and then one of the men is said to have replied that they would kick the door down and get in anyway.

The hammering continued and as a crash of glass signaled that part of the front door had given way, Riley and his wife fled from the rear door, according to police.

Mrs. Riley ran to a drug store around the corner and called for police and then went to a neighbor's house for protection. Privates N. P. Imlay and I. L. Murphy answered the call in a police radio car and found the two men in the house. Police said they admitted when placed under arrest that their purpose was to "beat up" the father and stepmother of Edith.

"I have a child of my own about Edith's age and nobody's going to mistreat a little kid like that and get away with it, if I can help it," Prisoner Murphy is said to have sobbed on Policeman Murphy's shoulder as the wagon bore them to the police station.

Williams is a brother-in-law of Edith's father, Harry Riley. He married Riley's sister Ella. At the station Williams gave the name of Dixon.

Charges of destroying private property and threats were placed by Mrs. Riley. She appeared at the Second Precinct station later in the night to make the latter charge. She told police she had received several threatening letters since her arrest and indictment in connection with alleged mistreatment of the child and she accused Williams and Murphy of writing them. She also told police that the pair threatened her life when they came to the house last night.

ELKS' GRAND TILER DIES AT LODGE BALL

Daniel R. Nihion Expires From Heart Attack After 11 o'Clock Toast.

"To our absent brothers."

Shortly after giving the traditional 11 o'clock toast of the B. P. O. Elks, at the twelfth annual charity ball at the Willard Hotel last night, Daniel R. Nihion, grand tiler of the order, suddenly collapsed.

He was taken to a room in the hotel where he was pronounced dead by physicians summoned from the ballroom.

No word of the tragedy was given to the 2,000 or more guests who were dancing in the ballroom, and the festivities continued uninterrupted.

Friends of Mr. Nihion declared that he had been in excellent spirits, and laughing and joking with his companions up to a moment before his death. As the 11-o'clock toast was finished, Mr. Nihion turned to speak to a friend and was shaking his hand when he suddenly slumped to the floor.

The Fire Department Rescue Squad was called, but Mr. Nihion was dead before it arrived. Three physicians examined the body. All pronounced him dead from a heart attack. They were Dr. J. Ward Mankin, Dr. W. Morris Woolridge and Dr. W. R. Haynes. Coroner Joseph D. Rogers ordered the body removed to the undertaking establishment of L. M. Gawler Co.

Entirely unknown to the hundreds who thronged the ballroom of the hotel, the body of the deceased grand tiler, who also was a past exalted ruler of the Washington lodge was removed.

Mr. Nihion was a native of Cumberland, Md., and had been a resident of Washington for many years. He lived at 457 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

For some time he had been a bailiff in the District Supreme Court, and was widely known in fraternal and social circles here.

Last July, following the Elks annual convention in Seattle, Wash., he was named grand tiler of the grand lodge.

He is survived by two sisters, one in Belair, Ohio, and another in Cumberland.

Early Action Asked On Electric Rates

Company Seeks Court Hearing on Petition in Near Future.

The District Supreme Court was asked yesterday by the Potomac Electrice Power Co. to advance to an early date the time for the hearing of the company's petition to restrain the Public Utilities Commission from putting into effect a new and lower scale of rates for power.

The company, through S. R. Bowen, its attorney, pointed out that the rates for electricity are made up on January 1, and that unless there is some decisive action on the rate question before that time, the old rate probably will be affected.

The case involves the sanctity of the "consent decree" entered into some years ago by the then Public Utilities Commission and the electric company, under which the company was to charge rates sufficiently high to pay a 7½ per cent return to the company. The rate was figured on a company valuation of $32,500,000.

Under that decree, the rates have been lowered each year, but the returns to the company have been more than 10 per cent annually despite the yearly reduction.

Walker, of New York, it was agreed that Mayor Walker would make a formal plea for a pardon for Thomas Mooney at 10 o'clock at the State Building here next Tuesday. Attorneys Frank P. Walsh and Aaron Sapiro also will make pleas.

Mayor Walker started his first full day in San Francisco with a visit to Mrs. Mary Mooney, mother of the convicted bomber.

To humor a cold he remained abed until nearly noon and then after a hurried breakfast drove to the staid old-fashioned Mission district, one of San Francisco's oldest sections, to call on the mother of the man he hopes to see released by the medium of executive clemency.

The appearance of the New York Mayor on the street in front of his hotel for the first time since yesterday afternoon was a signal for a hurrying crowd, and another crowd was in front of the Mooney home on Clipper street when he arrived.

Mayor Walker said he probably would visit Mooney at San Quentin before the hearing, but he had not decided on a definite date.

Walker's visit to Mrs. Mooney was brief but dramatic. Embracing the 83-year-old woman, he told her of the feeling felt for her by hundreds of thousands of mothers and added that he hoped she would soon have a "full family again."

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Editorial reaction ranging from wishes for his success to denunciation of his trip as a "stunt" has come from New York newspapers as a result of Mayor James J. Walker's trip to California to plead for the release of Tom Mooney.

CLEVELAND IN LINE FOR G. O. P. MEETING

sell the "Windy City" to the two big parties.

In a recent visit here Mr. Hurley said that Chicago was prepared to offer more money for the conventions than any of the other cities which are after it.

Atlantic City already has offered $150,000 for the convention. Right on top of that offer, Philadelphia said it was willing to go beyond that.

Kansas City, Mo., the scene of the last Republican convention, also is out to get one or the other of the conventions, as is Detroit, Mich., which recently was host to the American Legion.

The competition among cities, however, is not nearly so hectic this time as it has been in the past, and the reason is the business slump.

In 1928 there was an exciting fight for the conventions. Especially was this true in the case of the Democratic convention .

Jesse Jones, wealthy Texan, finally persuaded the Democrats to meet in the City of Houston. He did this by offering the Democratic national committee a check for $200,000 to help wipe out the Democratic deficit and to meet the expenses of the convention.

In addition to this, Mr. Jones and other Houston business men spent $300,000 to put up a convention hall and to cover otherwise the costs of the convention.

In recent political history, both Chicago and Cleveland have been lucky convention cities for the Republican party. It was in Chicago that Warren G. Harding was nominated, and it was in Cleveland that Calvin Coolidge was chosen.

NEW LUXURY DUTIES EXPECTED IN BRITAIN

Wheat Milling Quota Is Also Considered as Aid to Agriculture.

London, Nov. 25 (U.P.).—The Cabinet was understood tonight to have decided to act for protection of British agriculture by imposition of a milling quota and customs duties on luxury imports.

The decision was made under pressure of agricultural representatives after the board of trade's first duties of 50 per cent on foreign manufactures became effective. There was a sharp rise in the prices of American and other foreign articles as a result of the new duties to prevent "dumping."

The British agriculturists have recently demanded that the government impose duties on importation of farm products which may be classed as "luxuries," and that a quota be established for the percentage of British wheat which must be used in making bread.

It was understood the milling quota would be announced early next year and probably would be 15 per cent.

Next week a bill will be introduced in the House of Commons empowering the ministry of agriculture to order imposition of customs duties on luxury imports, including flowers, certain fruits, vegetables, &c.

The introduction of the bill probably will delay the parliamentary recess until December 11, instead of on December 4, as previously expected.

The first day under the Board of Trade antidumping duties, which will be widened in scope within a few days, resulted in increases in the price of many foreign articles. For instance, American-made vacuum cleaners which ordinarily sold for 12 guineas went up to 17 today. Typewriters and radio sets in some stores were quoted at 10 guineas more than previously.

The customs offices were busy, but the rush at British ports which occurred yesterday in an effort to escape the new duties had lulled. There was a drop of 80 per cent in the quantity of goods received at Folkestone from France and Switzerland.

Some ships which arrived late with taxable cargoes probably will not unload.

49 Days of Hiccoughing Are Ended by Operation

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Another case of a long suffering hiccough victim, and of a gall bladder operation apparently bringing relief, was disclosed at the Montgomery Hospital today.

Mrs. Lillian McDuffin, 33, had been hiccoughing for 49 days and attempting to stop the malady with scores of remedies offered by friends. Yesterday she applied at the hospital for treatment and after an operation today the hiccoughs stopped. A similar operation recently halted the hiccoughing of Ira King, of Mansfield, Ohio, whose case attracted wide attention.

Lindbergh at Controls As Clipper Is Damaged

Barranquilla, Colombia, Nov. 25 (U. P.).—The homeward flight of the flying boat, American Clipper, piloted across the Caribbean route of the Pan American Airways System by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was delayed today when the big ship struck an iron railing as she started to take off and damaged her port pontoon.

Col. Lindbergh was at the controls and upon learning that the collision had torn a hole in the pontoon, returned to dock for repairs. The flight across the Caribbean was postponed until tomorrow.

Point of Drill Taken From Lung.

Philadelphia, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The point of a dentist's drill was removed from the lung of Judge R. C. Bell, a member of the Georgia State Court of Appeals, in a bronchoscopic operation today at Temple University Hospital. Judge Bell was reported by the hospital to be in good condition.

NAVY LEAGUE MAKES NEW HOOVER ATTACK

and several days later, Secretary Adams criticized the organization.

Meanwhile, the league's board of directors voted to uphold Gardiner's statement.

The committee comprised the following: John Hays Hammond, chairman; Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman, retired; Eliot Wadsworth, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Undersecretary Castle of the State Department and Assistant Secretary Jahncke of the Navy Department. Hammond, Jahncke and Wadsworth were appointed from the league membership.

President Was Upheld.

The committee inspected records at the State and Navy Departments and submitted a report, in which all joined. This denounced the league's assertions and upheld the President.

The league's rejoinder tonight asserted Mr. Hoover had "not inaugurated a single move to provide replacements—not to mention upbuilding"\ in categories where "we are below treaty levels."

The league took particular issue with the committee's citation that the Gardiner statement had given the actual auxiliary ship-ratio of the United States to Japan as 10.0 to 13.1, declaring what was said was that the American-British-Japanese ratio was 10.0—13.1—10.0.

"It is astonishing that a presidential committee," the statement said, "set up as a tribunal of accuracy before which no representative of the Navy League was allowed to appear has permitted itself to make such an obviously incorrect statement * * *.

"It is to be deeply regretted that Mr. Hoover's committee, in its report repeatedly relies on this same misstatement to attack the accuracy of the assertions made on behalf of the league and adopts it as a basis for its findings of inaccuracy, false assertions, and erroneous conclusions.

No Demonstrable Doubt.

"If uncorrected, the committee's inaccuracy would have the unfortunate effect of placing in doubt figures of which the committee could have no demonstrable doubt. Such erroneous statements and conclusions appearing with the names of the distinguished committee have, if uncorrected, as unfortunate effect as if made with deliberate intent to misinform the public."

The statement said that the United States, with only about 69 per cent of its quota under the London Naval Treaty, as compared with about 88 per cent by the British and 102 per cent by the Japanese, would have to spend approximately $190,000,000 a year to complete the tonnage permitted at the expiration of the pact of 1936. The President has provided for an average expenditure of less than $60,000,000 during the current and coming fiscal years, the league added.

Refers to Navy Day Statement.

Referring to Mr. Hoover's recent Navy Day statement, the league said:

"To say, in effect, that our forces are now strong enough and should not be increased lest so doing arouse ill will in other countries seems to be to turn against treaty terms and ratios in view of our present incontestable inferiority when judged by treaty terms and ratios. Nor does Mr. Hoover's Navy Day statement seem to give any heed to the naval tasks of supporting our policies and safeguarding our vast interests upon the seas and in overseas countries."

Fire Fighters Gain Allies In Maryland Moonshiners

Publicity-Shy Gentry of Hills Find Resisting Flames Good Method of Keeping Out Undesired Visitors, Maryland State Forestry Body Reveals.

Southern Maryland moonshiners have gone in for forest fire prevention. They think it is a great idea. This has just come to light in a press release made public by the Maryland State Department of Forestry. And when it comes to fighting forest fires, moonshiners and prohibition agents are just a couple of pals, according to the announcement.

And it all came about in this wise:

Intrepid fire fighters of the State of Maryland last week forged too deeply for their health into St. Marys County's "moonshine district."

Mistaken for prohibition agents, they lived to tell the tale, and yesterday were boasting of new allies in the cause of fire prevention.

"It appears that neither bootleggers nor prohibition agents favor forest fires," was the way they expressed it in an official statement on the incident.

"Fires mean publicity for the bootlegger, placing him on the run, thereby increasing the difficulty of liquor distillation, and at the same time making more unlikely the Federal officers' chance of catching the man."

The official release, captioned: "Foresters Mistaken for Prohibition Agents; St. Marys Bootleggers Regret Their Mistake," discussed in all seriousness a State Forestry Department's insepction tour through remote backwoods districts of St. Marys.

It flaunted, with a touch of braggadocia, a statement from "one of St. Marys chief bootleggers," brought back by the adventuring forest wardens.

"Forest fires prove dangerous to still operators," he was reputed to have said.

"Fires attract people into the woods and make it difficult for liquor manufacturers to keep their stilling equipment in secret.

"St. Marys bootleggers believe in preventing forest fires. When fire occur they must move to new retreats, athough frequent moves are wise procedure, as they prevent accurate checks by Federal agents of all likely locations."

Here is how the publicity man for the State Department of Forestry told the story:

"Officials of the State Forestry Department this week, in company with Robert O'Keefe, district forest warden for Southern Maryland, visited the forest wardens of St. Marys County to inspect the forest protection organization.

"Upon reaching a remote wilderness community, Assistant Forester Walter J. Quick, jr., from Baltimore, decided to inquire regarding the prevalence of forest fires, and approached a typical woodland hut for information.

"A lanky, wild-eyed youth proved noncommittal, and the dark-skinned woman who appeared at the door declared she did not know whose house she was in, why she was in it, who owned the house, or where the owner had gone. Additional questions appeared futile.

"Upon driving a circuitous route to another dwelling, the occupant appeared to have been forewarned and was prepared, proceeding after a few questions to outline an obviously impossible route where, according to him, 'stills were sure to be found.'

"Not until District Forester C. F. Winslow, of Laurel, inquired regarding payment for last spring's fire-fighting services, did the St. Marys citizen realize his mistake. It was then inferred that messengers and telephone calls were speeding over the county, warning that two 'prohibition men and a Federal marshal were in the county.'

"Learning their mistake, one of St. Mary's chief bootleggers appeared on the scene for consultation. Friendly, courteous, good natured, this crafty violator of intensified prohibition enforcement, voiced interest in fire prevention."

Here the official release quoted the bootlegger at length, and returned once again to the mere matter-of-fact relation of St. Marys forest fire statistics, including the following pointed statement by State Forester F. W. Besley, of Baltimore:

"The 51 per cent wooded area of St. Marys County constitutes a natural resource which is of vital importance to the whole State."

(Associated Press.)

An injunction prohibiting Edward B. McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, from prosecuting divorce proceedings in any foreign country was continued in effect yesterday by the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Chief Justice Alfred Wheat, who issued a restraining order ten days ago, ordered it to remain in force until the publisher shows the court it should be vacated. McLean recently filed a divorce action in Latvia.

Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean brought action for the divorce injunction. She has a separation suit pending and last year was granted a maintenance decree by which she receives $7,500 a month from the John R. McLean estate.

McLean was represented by Julius I. Peyser, local attorney. Earlier in the day Peyser had filed a $100,000 damage suit against the American Security & Trust Co., cotrustee of the McLean estate, alleging breach of contract in the recent projected sale of The Washington Post.

Peyser claimed he had been promised $87,500 to find a purchaser for The Post and that David Lawrence, Inc., had offered $3,000,000 for the assets of the paper.

He contended the trust company recommended acceptance of this offer, but later withdrew the recommendation.

that he was not struck, beaten or abused in any way and that his confession came after they had broken down the alibi which he brought forward at the time.

The second of the "third degree" cases which were unearthed after exposure of the Harker trouble in The Post brought a Department of Justice investigation will open in Justice Proctor's court Tuesday.

At that time, Robert J. Barrett, headquarters detective, will be tried on charges of assaulting George Baber, a suspect in the Garden T Shoppe murder case. Baber was exonerated from suspicion.

Barrett is represented by Attorneys Russell Kelly and Harry Whelan. Assistant United States Attorney Julian Richards will present the Government's case.

TWO CRASH VICTIMS INTERRED TOGETHER

1,000 Attend Orange Rites for Miss Palmer and Henry Jenkins.

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., Nov. 25.—Close to a thousand persons attended the joint funeral services held here for Miss Katherine Palmer, of Washington, D. C., and Henry Jenkins, Madison County merchant, victims of an accident Sunday night on the Orange-Gordonsville highway. Officiating ministers were the Rev. Graham, pastor of the Madison Baptist Church; the Rev. A. C. Tucker, Christ Episcopal Church, Gordonsville; the Rev. Henry Davis, pastor of the local Baptist Church, and the Rev. Higgenbottom, also of Orange. The floral tributes filled the entire front of the church. The bodies were interred side by side in the Jenkins plot in Graham Cemetery.

The accident which cost the life of the two young people occurred about 3 miles from Orange, as they were en route here from Barboursville, where they were to have dinner with Mr. Jenkins' parents and then continue to Washington. It is thought that Mr. Jenkins was blinded by the lights of an approaching car, causing him to crash into the rear of a heavily loaded truck owned by the Columbia Gas Co., which was parked on the roadway.

Miss Palmer, a trained nurse, was 27 years of age. She is survived by her aunt, wife of Dr. E. N. Lillard, of Barboursville, by whom she was raised, and other relatives. Jenkins, aged 26, leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Jenkins; two brothers, Weldon and Willie, all of Orange, and one sister, Mrs. T. R. McConchie, of Charlottesville.

'Killings' Admitted By Naval Prisoner

Western Police Doubtful About Confession in New Hampshire.

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 25 (A.P.). An inmate of the Naval Prison here has told prison officials that he killed a woman in Salt Lake City and a man in Wyoming, it was learned from authoritative sources today.

The prisoner, Warren F. Pope, alias Frank Webster, told prison officials that he and a companion slew Mrs. Dorothy Dexter Moormeister in Salt Lake City, and that he alone killed a gasoline station proprietor at Rock Springs, Wyo.

The prison officials have communicated with the police in both cities. Salt Lake City police viewed the report with skepticism. They said a Warren Pope was arrested there last January for disturbing the peace and at that time had told of a supposed murder which investigation proved to be a myth. The Wyoming authorities also expressed doubt. They said there were no unsolved murder cases in the vicinity of Sheridan.

Gimbel Wins Step In Countess' Suit

Judge Refuses to Order Pretrial Examination of Merchant.

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Supreme Court Justice Isidor Wasservogel today vacated a notice served by Countess Stanislaus Popielawska to examine Frederic Adam Gimbel, wealthy merchant, before trial of her $2,000,000 action against him.

The countess charged Gimbel avoided marrying her by conspiring to have her marry Count Popielawski in France last summer.

In vacating the notice, the Court held the action was for breach of promise, despite the conspiracy charge. It was pointed out that examination of defendants before trial in breach of promise actions is, under appellate division rule, against public policy.

MAN ADMITS BOMB THAT PROVED FATAL

Contractor Shows No Remorse That Device Killed Wrong Person.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—With seeming pride in the ingeniousness of his death trap and little remorse that the man it killed was not the intended victim, Walter Nelson, 34, a building contractor, described to officers and newspapermen in the State Penitentiary here today the way in which he dynamited a store at Hot Springs Tuesday.

He was brought here for safe keeping after confessing he set up an elaborate arrangement of bombs connected by electric wires, which exploded and killed J. D. Downs, 27, the store manager, and injured Charles Weaver, the proprietor.

Death was intended for Weaver, Nelson said, but Downs preceded Weaver into the store by a few feet and was struck by the full force of the blast.

Weaver had threatened his life several times, Nelson said, because he was jealous of Mrs. Weaver. Nelson denied there was any basis for Weaver's jealousy.

A special session of the grand jury was called at Hot Springs for Friday to investigate the case. Although Nelson exonerated him of any connection with the explosion, Charles Widmer, a farmer from whom Nelson said he obtained some of the explosives, was held at Hot Springs as a suspect.

Police hurried Nelson to the penitentiary because they said they feared that when his confession became known friends of Downs and Weaver would seek reprisal against him.

Nelson told how two weeks ago he dug a hole through a grate to gain entrance to the building and make plans for the explosion in the building which he erected two years ago.

After working out the plans, Nelson said, he decided to abandon the scheme, but took it up again after Weaver had renewed his threats against him, he said.

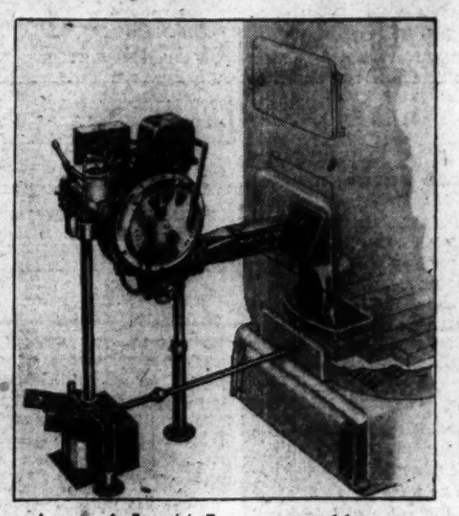
To acquaint the Washington public with the McIlvaine Method of Oil Heating the factory has authorized us to install a limited number of burners in the homes of users of Gas, Coal or Oil for 60 days' trial to show you the economical cost and money you can save by using the Balanced Heat method by McIlvaine.

BALANCED HEAT

The McILVAINE Method of OIL HEATING



Avoid "Jumpy" Heat of Other Methods

The indoor temperature fluctuates up and down, up and down, all winter long, with the "jumpy" heat supplied under other methods, because the heat supply when on is always the maximum, but the heat loss varies with the weather outdoors.

McIlvaine Method Always Maintains a Balance

The continuous graduated flame of the McIlvaine Oil Burner, under control of the perfected heat regulator, automatically follows the weather without any of the abrupt fluctuations that attend ordinary heating methods, and keeps your home continuously in the comfort zone. The result is an indoor temperature that is always just right—comfortable and healthful—no matter how the outdoor temperature may fluctuate. You enjoy balanced heat under the McIlvaine method.

With the fidelity of a well-balanced scale, the amount of heat supplied to your house under the McIlvaine method increases or decreases exactly as the temperature outside demands. Thus an even temperature is maintained indoors, hour after hour and day after day, all Winter long. Unlike all other heating systems, the McIlvaine method of oil heating maintains the entire heating plant throughout the house at a steady, even heat. This is done by means of a perfected heat regulator which insures exactly the right size of flame in a new type of burner that never quite goes out yet almost never is required to fire at full capacity. Almost imperceptibly, the McIlvaine flame is slightly increased or diminished by this automatic regulator and balanced heat is maintained, enabling you to live in the comfort zone all Winter long.

Free yourself from the hazard of FIRE or EXPLOSION which is possible with other types of oil or gas heating methods. Your property and family are too valuable to face this risk.

The savings run as high as 50%, and in some cases more, compared to most Oil or Gas burners—and a substantial saving to the users of hard coal.

Let us prove to your OWN satisfaction by a trial installation in your home.

Remember, this offer is only for a limited number of burners and will be considered in the order in which they are received. Call or write promptly.

LOW FLAME acts as a pilot light
SMALL FLAME for cool weather
MEDIUM FLAME for cold days
LARGE FLAME for severe cold

The McIlvaine Oil Burner is not an untried experiment. The McIlvaine Oil Burners have been successfully heating homes for nine years, and all of the original burners are still in use and giving perfect service.

Do not confuse the McIlvaine Oil Burner with other oil burners, for the reason that the principle of operation is entirely different and without troublesome complications.

No Gas Pilot

No Electric Ignition

No Fire or Explosion Possible

Clean—Odorless Smokeless

Graduated Flames Automatically Governed

NO INTIMIDATION.

The District Commissioners have taken cognizance of reports that employes are subjected to intimidation and coercion in connection with contributions to the Community Chest. Heads of departments are to be warned that strong-arm methods of extracting contributions will not be tolerated.

It would be well for the same warning to be sent to every bureau and division chief in the Federal service. In their eagerness to prove that they have not been slack, bureau and division chiefs may translate the President's plan for voluntary contributions into a command, with loss of positions as the penalty for failing to contribute.

The slightest turn of the screw from headquarters becomes ruthless strangulation by the time it reaches the individual clerk unless the President and the heads of departments take care that bureau chiefs correctly interpret the request. Nothing in law compels Government employes to contribute part of their pay to charity. They are as charitable as any other Americans, but like other Americans they resent a holdup. Unless the voluntary feature of the Federal contribution is kept inviolate the damage to the esprit de corps of Federal workers will cost more than the amount of the contributions.

RAILWAY WAGE CUTS.

A reduction of railroad wages seems to be unavoidable. The New York conference of railway executives and union heads failed to agree on the subject, but the Eastern Presidents' Conference, representing the leading railroads of the Nation, has decided that wages must be cut. Inasmuch as 1,500 general brotherhood chairmen will meet in Chicago on December 8 to discuss the matter, the executives will await their decision. If the employes again resist a 10 per cent reduction, immediate action will be taken through the wage adjustment machinery of the transportation act.

A strong incentive is held out for voluntary action on the part of the brotherhoods. If they agree to a 10 per cent reduction it will be considered as an emergency measure, subject to modification in one year. But if the carriers are forced to seek reductions through mediation, they will be considered permanent. Some of the unions are not actively opposed to cutting their own pay. It is notable that the brotherhoods on the Georgia & Florida Railroad have accepted voluntarily a 10 per cent cut.

Arguments against wage reductions for railway employes have lost much of their force in recent months. The cost of living has declined about 15 or 20 per cent since the present agreements were entered into. Furthermore, the railroads face a serious crisis. Arguments employed by the unions to secure higher wages may now be turned against them. Apparently wage cuts are the only means the railroads have of reducing their expenses. Maintenance of wages that are out of adjustment with living costs and the condition of the carriers would probably further weaken their position and add to the unemployment of railway men.

Strenuous efforts to avoid wage reductions have been made throughout the country on the theory that the purchasing power of the people should be maintained as a check against further depression. The maintenance of wages undoubtedly mitigated the effects of the depression, but it failed to stem the tide. Now a new economic level is gradually shaping itself on the basis of lower prices and wages. Adjustments to this level are inevitable, and there is considerable foundation for the belief that the sooner they are made the sooner the country will be prepared to go ahead with a new period of advancement.

The same is true of prices for various commodities and services. Rents, for example, remain abnormally high. Automobile prices have shrunk but little, in spite of the lower demand, the lower cost of raw materials and labor. Doctors' fees and the costs of other professional services have actually increased in many parts of the country. Since deflation is now unavoidable, it ought to be general, so that the economic balance may be reestablished.

There is much evidence to indicate that wages did not keep pace with productive capacity during the boom years, but it seems certain that the lack of balance in that respect is now more than overcome by the decline of commodity prices. Wages ought not to be reduced as much as prices, and where cuts are avoidable through increased efficiency the 1929 wage level can not be considered too high. But when high wages jeopardize the stability of an industry and threaten to produce further unemployment, their maintenance can not be defended on economic grounds.

THIRD DEGREE ASSAULT.

Two members of the police force have been found guilty of assault upon a prisoner to whom they applied the third degree in an effort to extort information and confession. The jury refused to convict on the charge of felonious assault.

The average citizen is apt to hold that if the policemen are guilty at all they are guilty of a heinous offense against peace, good order and human rights. The penalty for simple assault does not seem to fit the offense. But the verdict will be accepted for what it is worth, with the hope that the conviction will serve as a warning to every member of the force to refrain from indulging in the third degree against any prisoner, no matter how degraded, friendless or seemingly guilty he may be.

TARIFFS AND TRADE.

Senator Smoot's statement on world trade in 1930 indicates the emptiness of the claim that the American protective policy has "ruined" this country's foreign trade. It is only necessary to glance at the panorama of international commerce between all nations to realize that the United States has held its relative position, continuing to be the leading export nation of the world. Export trade of the United States has suffered no more than business within the country, or than the export commerce of other nations.

The value of American exports was 26.7 per cent lower in 1930 than in the boom year of 1929. But exports from all commercial countries fell 20.3 per cent. If the commercial nations are listed according to their loss of foreign trade the United States stands twelfth. Argentina is first, with a decline of 43 per cent. Then come Chile, Egypt, Cuba, China, Peru, Brazil, the Union of South Africa, British Malaya, Bolivia, Japan and the United States. Following close to the United States are Australia, Canada, Mexico, the United Kingdom and Italy.

Can the American tariff be blamed for the loss of trade in Japan, Italy and Argentina? It is worthy of note that the countries which suffered most—those of South America, where the decline in exports for the year was 35 per cent—are least affected by the American tariff. Into this world-wide shrinkage of trade may be read the collapse of prices for raw materials and agricultural products and reduced purchasing power. Tariffs cut no figure in this shrinkage of world trade.

Virtually every commercial nation has met the depression by raising tariffs to protect its own enterprise against a world-wide surplus of goods. Fortunately Congress gave American industry and agriculture a small additional margin of protection early in the depression. If that protection should be withdrawn the restricted markets of other nations would still remain closed to American exports and the deluge of cheap imports upon the domestic market would produce a calamity such as this country has never seen. Senator Smoot is right when he says that a reversal of the protective policy at this time would be suicide.

ITALIAN RECLAMATION.

Along the Appian Way, between Rome and Naples, stretches a vast expanse of waste land known as the Pontine Marshes. These lowlands, 37 miles long and 13 miles wide, were thought in centuries past to be infested with evil spirits. Today they are still feared, but their curse is known as malaria. Julius Caesar formulated plans for draining this land, but the project was forgotten after his assassination. Spasmodic efforts were again made under Augustus, Trajan and Theodoric, but they also came to naught. Pius VI decided that construction of a canal along the Appian Way would solve the problem. The canal was finally built, but the disease continued. Napoleon, after conquering Italy, decided to reclaim this land, but his empire crumbled before the work was even started.

Efficient plans for the draining are at last under way. Mussolini announces that the Fascists have succeeded where emperors, popes and Napoleon failed. Credit must be given, however, to modern engineering and science, which have facilitated and made possible many such undertakings. The survey, which was begun six years ago, reveal that parts of the marshes were actually below sea level. Modern equipment and direction have overcome such obstacles, and the Mussolini Canal is nearly completed. About 180 miles of road have been built through the territory, and six new towns exist where formerly there was none. Each of the settlements has a school, church, infirmary, movie, radio power station and an agricultural experiment station.

The government provides 75 per cent of the cost of reclamation; 12½ per cent comes from the local government and the remaining 12½ per cent from the owners of the property. Most of this land belongs to a few wealthy families. "Within the next five years," Mussolini recently stated, "there will be 5,000 homes for 5,000 families, or 30,000 persons living on the Pontine lands."

SECURITY FOR WORKERS.

Good resolutions have been formed during the course of every period of hard times, but as a rule they are forgotten when prosperity returns. It is evident, however, that never before has a depression caused such an earnest search for the elements of stability as is now taking place. Not only are college professors and other theorists at work, but employers and workmen of all grades are investigating questions of economic stability and security for employment.

In view of the disastrous attempts of England and Germany to cure unemployment, all elements of industry and society are convinced that they want nothing in the nature of a Federal dole. But the conviction also has been reached that proper measures must be taken by industry itself to mitigate any future economic disturbances and to put in force cooperative measures between capital and labor that will afford employes greater security.

Unemployment insurance does not need to become a hand-out for those out of work. It may be worked out on a sound basis of contributions from employers and employes. An excellent example of the practical working of this system on a broad scale is provided by the clothing industry in Chicago. In 1923 agreements were reached under which employers began deducting 1.5 per cent from weekly earnings of each union member for a special fund to which the employer added an equal amount, making 3 per cent. By subsequent agreement the employers' portion was doubled, making the total 4½ per cent of all pay rolls.

This fund provided benefits to workers at the rate of 30 per cent of their full-time earnings for a maximum of seven and one-half weeks in any one year. The benefit was restricted to those who lost their jobs through no fault of their own and were entirely unemployed. Up to the spring of 1931 the unemployment insurance fund of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers had paid out more than $6,000,000 to members in need, and at all times had maintained a reserve fund of from $500,000 to $1,000,000 as a protection for the 20,000 workers in the Chicago clothing factories.

In order to insure effective functioning of the insurance fund and to avoid fraudulent collections an employment exchange was established for clothing trade workers. Parasitic agencies and job racketeers were put out of business. Records of the exchange show that workers were willingly shifted from one position to another when necessary, and that this form of insurance did not promote loafing. The president of the Amalgamated Workers finds that this security for workers is conducive to contentment and efficiency. The plan for cooperative accumulation of funds for emergency unemployment bears nothing of the taint of either Government or private charity. Some such simple and practical arrangements may be expected to develop in numerous industries.

These panhandlers seem to know traffic signals—they all have their hands out waiting for prosperity to turn the corner.

"YANKEE DOODLE"

From the Boston Transcript.

The first incorporated city in the thirteen original States of our Union was Albany, N. Y., and it lived quite a long time—a town of "400 houses and 2,000 inhabitants all standing with their gable end to the road"—before it was incorporated. Albany unquestionably holds an honored place in our national history. New England may willingly concede that, though Albany stands a few miles beyond our sacred bounds. But why should Albany, at this late day, seek to rob us of "Yankee Doodle?" Why this Associated Press story in the papers, to the effect that a mythical old fort near that city, or at least in Rensselaer County, N. Y., hitherto entirely unknown to fame, called Fort Crailo, now proclaimed as "the birthplace of Yankee Doodle," is to be restored to its ancient state and rededicated?

Where, really, was "Yankee Doodle" born? In sober truth, nobody knows. In all probability, it was, like Topsy, never born at all. It just growed. Musical archeologists trace the tune to Cromwell's soldiers of the English civil wars. Its words then, as they have been ever since, were just doggerel. Never has it had any other words than variable doggerel, and for that reason it is deemed impracticable to include it among "national airs." Its first record, as a song, is included in a document to be found in the Boston Public Library, dated 1775. In his shocking melodrama called "The Devil's Disciple," dealing with Burgoyne's defeat, Bernard Shaw has the American rebel bands playing "Yankee Doodle," but as this same remarkable play has Burgoyne's army "marching southward from Boston to New Hampshire," and as it calls the British regulars "Continentals," historical accuracy can hardly be attributed as a characteristic to this dramatic pot-boiler. Undoubtedly the Yankee militia of 1775 and 1776 had "Yankee Doodle." Undoubtedly, ever since its recognized existence, it has always borne the name of "Yankee," which establishes the song as ours, for when the name was first used, "Yankee" meant New England. The song's authentic birthplace was certainly in New England.

If "Fort Crailo," outside of our historic domain, ever knew "Yankee Doodle," it must have known it as an importation from New England. It is said that this somewhat mythical palisado of defense against the Indians was erected in 1660. If so, it was raised four years before the transfer of Albany and the so-called fort to the English. Are we to imagine that it was sung in Dutch? Perish the thought. The original words of the song, if it ever had any original words, include the curious lines:

Yankee Doodle came to town,
A riding on a pony;
He stuck a feather in his hat
And called it macaroni.

Why did he call it "macaroni?" Because that, in the middle of the eighteenth century, was the common English word for what we call a dude, a dandy, a swell, an exquisite. Its use was based on the fact that the exquisites of the eighteenth century, whom the French called "incroyables," or unbelievables, were an imitation of the Italian dandies. The words prove nothing but the mid-eighteenth century origin of the words. But the word "Yankee" is ours. It stamps the song with the hall-mark of New England. The air, though it passed through many variations in its early years, is still popular, still significant, still vital. It helps to make of our heterogeneous aggregation of 120,000,000 the "universal Yankee Nation." With our feet on Plymouth Rock and our starry banner flying over Bunker Hill, we refuse to share it with even so old and creditable a town as Albany, N. Y.

Be thankful that you have saved so much on the November coal bill that you can give liberally to the relief fund.

There seems to have been something personal about the erstwhile custom in Texas of sending a lone Republican to Congress.

The election of a cowboy representative from San Antonio ought to be quite encouraging to neighbor Alfalfa Bill Murray.

Chairman Raskob slipped on his wet plank and fell for the referendum.

Our idea of putting the Democrats in a hole, if they should also organize the Senate, would be for the President to announce that he would sign every bill passed by a Democratic Congress.

Since Chinese soldiers, as soon as they are chased out of their barracks, become "bandits," their further annihilation is not considered warfare.

Solicit funds from Federal workers with genuflections; at most, employ inflections, but never commination nor intimidation.

Washington has had 922 degrees of excess temperature this year. How fortunate we did not get it all at once!

On general principles our bet would be that Japan is not going to get away with it without a more decided Anglo-Saxon gesture than has yet been made.

Has it ever occurred to the Vice President, in these days of equal party divisions, that a tie in the Electoral College, similar failure of the House to elect a President, and a tie in the Senate would enable the presiding officer to name the Vice President who would become President?

Senator Pat Harrison can put on the tariff blinders that Charlie Michelson keeps at publicity headquarters, and world depression and lower prices fade out for him just as they do for the little fellows.

The communist "hunger marchers," who are leaving their jobs to come to Washington by automobiles, seem very much concerned about food being provided for them here.

Mr. Raskob says some one told him that Al Smith said that Gov. Roosevelt was not opposed to Raskob as chairman in '28. So there you have it straight.

Another day in New York and Signor Grandi will have to phone Mussolini to learn whether he was supposed to favor war debts or private loans.

PAUL HUDSON.

DIMMING LESSENS DANGER.

A North Country newspaper asks: "Did you ever try dimming your lights, when automobiling at night, just to discover how many drivers of approaching cars will return the courtesy? . . . Not one operator in three will reciprocate." All drivers are not of this opinion, according to the Manchester Union. Indeed, some affirm that the courtesy is returned more times than it is not. The suggestion has been made that dimming be made compulsory. This would be a most difficult law to enforce. A better way to bring about the desired state of affairs is to appeal to the operators' good judgment. The dimming of lights, it must be admitted, relieves night driving of much of its danger.

Why Dread Tomorrow When You Are Safe and Sound?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

CHILDREN seldom are realists. They live in a dream world, where all is make-believe, and people it with creatures of their own imagination.

It is imagination that makes a child afraid in the dark. Older and wiser people fear the unknown and the unaccustomed, but it isn't ignorance that makes the lonely child afraid.

It knows, as well as it knows anything, that the rustling of the window draperies is caused by the wind; that the shadows on the wall are caused by familiar objects. But imagination overcomes reason and attributes the strange shadows and noises of the night to weird and dreadful creatures that threaten instant destruction.

A child realist, able to visualize nothing more than the commonplace truth, would say to itself: "The coming of darkness has changed nothing. I am warm and comfortable here in bed; the doors are locked against intruders; my father is in the next room within reach of my voice. I am safe and well now, and there is no reason to believe that the immediate future will lessen my good fortune."

It doesn't reassure itself in that fashion because it has a child mind, not yet schooled to accept the findings of reason.

When Paul became a man, he put away childish things; but imagination is not a thing to be discarded by force of will. Once developed and habitually used, it is established for life. It is rooted as firmly as the capacity for love or anger.

People possessed of imagination get more out of life than their matter-of-fact fellows, but they pay for their advantage. They alone can enjoy in full measure the delights of anticipation; but once they know a bitter dose is in store for them, they taste a greater bitterness through every hour of waiting. They forget fear in the lust of battle, but die a thousand deaths before the fight begins.

The sanest of people are the realists. They see the naked truth and nothing more.

Simple minds and great minds have this in common, that they accept the present reality and neither terrify nor console themselves with what may be or might be.

The troubles that break weak spirits are not the ones known and endured now, but the troubles yet to be—most of which never come.

Why be afraid of shadows? At this moment you are fed, warm, free of pain; and this moment is the only one that is real. If all that is real is endurable, why doubt your ability to endure the unreal that exists only in day dreams?

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Mrs. Caraway's Position.
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

In appointing Mrs. Hattie Caraway to fill the Senate vacancy created by the death of her husband Gov. Parnell of Arkansas spoke of her as "being rightfully entitled to the honor." While it may be taken for granted that Gov. Parnell did not mean it so, there was the inference in his statement that Mrs. Caraway deserved the seat, in the main, because she was the widow of the man who had just died. Most of the announcement spoke of her connection with her husband and his right to the post; only the last sentence mentioned her qualifications, and that was briefly nonspecific. For the sake of the record it should be said that in a democracy no woman has a special claim to her huband's seat, any more than a son may expect to fall heir to his father's office for no more reason than that he is his son. When Mrs. Caraway takes her seat it will be as a temporary senator, appointed by the governor on behalf of the people of Arkansas, to serve until the special election. Any other interpretation would be most unbecoming.

Baker's Visit to Boston.
Portland Press-Herald.

Newton D. Baker, President Wilson's War Secretary, visited Boston recently. Why he made this visit does not appear. Mr. Baker said he was not a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President. He didn't come to Massachusetts to discuss politics. It was just a friendly visit, he said. But it must be admitted that it was somewhat strange that Mr. Baker from Ohio chose to visit Boston for the first time when the leaders of the Democratic party in that State are lining up support for several men whose names are quite likely to be presented at the Democratic national convention.

Mayor Curley of Boston is an ardent supporter of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York. Gov. Ely of Massachusetts is not reckoned as a Roosevelt man. Senator Walsh is suspected of being lukewarm about the New York governor.

Is Domestic Free Trade in Peril?
Detroit News.

Inasmuch as the Constitution empowers Congress "to regulate commerce among the several States," no doubt a remedy lies in national legislation if the "Buy in Your Own State" movement goes too far. Although it has looked more like a passing product of overgrowth of the buy-at-home idea, disturbing facts begin to appear.

In home town clubs and in larger home commercial organizations, the boosters of home interests have had logical place and functions. But when the ultimate is reached, imposing discriminations in interstate commerce, we are called upon for pause and reflection, and, possibly, action.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Representative Beck Suitable Man to Head Wet Bloc in the House—He Would Give Practical Advice.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The suggestion has been made that Representative Beck, of Pennsylvania, formerly Solicitor General of the United States, be made the leader of the so-called wet bloc in the House of Representatives, displacing Representative Linthicum, who is now understood to hold that position. The reason for this proposal is that the high standing of Mr. Beck as a lawyer would give character to the efforts of the representatives who favor modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment and its enforcing statute. This is an excellent idea. Being an eminent lawyer, Mr. Beck is, no doubt, familiar with the controlling rule of construction which requires that the intent of legislation be effected. He would, no doubt, advise his associates that the traffic in beer and wine could not be legalized without repeal of the amendment, which, it is well known, was intended to include ordinary beer and wine. Therefore, he would necessarily advise them that their efforts should be directed to securing the submission of a repeal amendment to the States and the ratification thereof by 36 of the States.

Being also a practical and sincere man, Mr. Beck would undoubtedly advise his associates further that if repeal should be successful the result would be the practical nullification of all antiliquor legislation in the country; for under present conditions it would be impossible to confine the traffic in intoxicating liquors within State boundaries. He would point out to them, for example, that a liquor-laden truck could start from New York City and in six hours traverse six different jurisdictions, including the District of Columbia. Obviously, local option by smaller territorial units would be even less practicable. Therefore, in common honesty, he would frankly advise the abandonment of all restrictive legislation, local as well as national, excepting, possibly, taxation. The issue would thus be properly stated.

ORDINARY LAWYER.

United States Should Beware of Being Victimized by Greedy and Extravagant Neighbors.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: During several years past I have tried to digest the contention of those who say that, for the more or less prompt restoration of prosperity, the United States must assume a benevolent responsibility in regard to the economic ills of Europe. I am now less than ever inclined to grant its validity.

I think that in the present crisis it is proper to view the situation of the United States as similar to that of a private individual. Within reasonable limits, I will best serve my own ends by recognizing a community of interest with my neighbors in the business world. But if my neighbors are short-sighted, extravagant or unduly grasping, the obvious conclusion is that, in consideration of the public welfare, as well as my own, I should be very careful how I become involved in their extravagance.

Without reference to any other aspect of world economics, it is enough to say that peoples who plead for the abatement of war debts while at the same time maintaining burdensome war establishments will prove unsafe business associates. I am with those who assert that America has resources which make us economically self-sufficient and that it will only retard our business recovery to indulge in diplomatic dickering with the nations of Europe so long as they approach us in the guise of consecrated mendicants.

Something like this has already been said from time to time in convincing elaboration. It is well worth repeating, however—in fact, should be repeated constantly—as an offset to the persistent and clever official as well as private propaganda by which it is sought to mislead us in international policy.

THANKSGIVING.

If in the cold, bleak days of old
Our Pilgrim fathers thought
Upon God's blessings manifold
And all His wonders wrought;
If they amid the pain and smart
Of constant strife with care
Could pause and set one day apart
For gratitude and prayer,
Are we so cruelly beset
That all God's mercies we forget?

If they who walked with death each day,
And poverty and toil,
Could bare their heads and kneel to pray
Upon the snow-clad soil;
If they could feel God's presence near,
Despite their thinning ranks,
And at the closing of the year
Return to Him with thanks
For all His blessings should not we Today His grateful children be?

As once they prayed, so let us pray;
"Dear Lord, for all Thy care;
For Thy great love from day to day
Accept our grateful prayer.
For the rich harvest of the field,
For fruit of vine and tree,
For the eternal truth revealed
In all that comes from Thee;
For all Thy mercies while we live
Acknowledgment once more we give."

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

RELIGIOUS observances of Thanksgiving Day will be broadcast throughout the land today. Locally, WMAL will transmit a national Thanksgiving service from Washington Cathedral at 11 o'clock this morning. The service will be conducted by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, assisted by members of the Cathedral staff of clergy. Bishop Freeman will preach on the spiritual significance of Thanksgiving. The Cathedral Choir of men and boys, directed by Edgar Priest, will participate.

The 11 o'clock service from the Fourth Presbyterian Church will be broadcast by Station WJSV.

Bishop Charles K. Gilbert, of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, will conduct a service to be broadcast from the N. B. C.-WEAF studios at 1 o'clock.

Football will dominate the afternoon programs. The Nebraska-Pittsburgh game will be described over WRC by Bill Munday and George Hicks, beginning at 1:45 p. m.

At the same hour Ted Husing will start a description of the University of Pennsylvania-Cornell football game. John S. Young and Ford Bond will cover the same game for the N. B. C.-WEAF network.

A TRANSCONTINENTAL radio debate between teams representing Harvard University and Leland Stanford University, on the subject, "Resolved, That America Needs a Stronger Central Government" will be broadcast by WMAL tomorrow afternoon. Francis Rufus Bellamy, publisher and editor, will act as chairman of the debate.

In the meantime the N. B. C. is rapidly completing plans for the first international collegiate radio debate, arranged for Saturday, December 5. War debt cancellation is the question Oxford and Harvard will fight out on the air at that time, with James W. Gerard, former United States Ambassador to Germany, acting as chairman.

Count Dino Grandi, the Italian foreign minister, will broadcast a farewell address on the eve of his departure from America this afternoon (WMAL, 5:45 o'clock).

The Music Appreciation Hour, directed by Walter Damrosch, will be omitted tomorrow, Christmas, New Year's Day, Lincoln's Birthday and Easter.

Washington's well-known contralto, Hazel Arth, will be heard here in a half hour recital tonight (WMAL, 10:30 o'clock) for the benefit of the Community Chest.

Each Saturday morning, beginning this week, Peggy Clarke will present a guest artist during her regular 10 o'clock period over WJSV.

A CONSTRUCTIVE program having as its objective greater stability for the broadcasting industry was formulated during a two-day meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Broadcasters.

Legislation which would further restrict the operations of broadcasting stations or result in additional burdens being placed upon the industry will be vigorously opposed in the Congress, the committee decided. Likewise any other method of reallocation of wave lengths will be opposed.

Any attempt on the part of Congress to classify radio receiving sets as a luxury for the purposes of taxation will be resisted by the association on the ground that a radio receiving set has now become a luxury in the American home.

The meeting was attended by Henry A. Bellows, Minneapolis, Minn., chairman; Frank M. Russell, NBC, Washington, D. C.; William S. Hedges, WMAQ, Chicago; Harry Shaw, Waterloo, Iowa., president of the association, and Philip G. Loucks, Washington, D. C., managing director.

All singing auditions at Station WRC are in charge of James Wilkinson. These auditions will occur on Friday nights—but appointments must be made in advance.

The tenor soloist, Paul O'Tree, with Al Kamon's Orchestra (WRC, 6:15 p. m.) will sing "O, Lovely Night." Orchestra selections include a medley from "The Cat and the Fiddle," and "Roll on, Mississippi."

George Olsen and his orchestra will be heard over WMAL every night, except Sunday, at 11:45 o'clock, beginning tonight.

THE haunting tango, "La Maleva," will be offered by Hugo Mariani in tomorrow's WRC period * * * A program of dance music from Grosvenor House, London, is an added attraction over WMAL today * * * Harvey Firestone, jr., has a reputation for good radio diction * * * The Landt Trio and White enjoyed their first taste of fame in the small town social affairs of Scranton, Pa. * * * "Sunset," a play by Jerome K. Jerome, will be given by the Northern Dramatic Co. tomorrow night (WOL, 7:30 o'clock) * * * James Wilkinson has chosen "La Paloma" and "Song of the Volga Boatmen" for his 6 o'clock broadcast tonight * * * All announcers on the NBC staff in New York will be invited to a Thanksgiving dinner prepared by the Mystery Chef, who lives close to the studios * * * Basil Rathbone will be soloist with Nat Brusiloff's Orchestra (WJZ network, 8 p. m.) * * * Lancelot Ross is his real name. But his classmates at Taft School put up a great howl when they heard it. That is how he came by "Lanny."

"There has been a great deal of complaint about the advertising ballyhoo that comes over the radio, and my sympathy goes out to the unfortunate victims," a reader of the New York Times writes. "I have discovered an extremely simple remedy which I wish to pass along to others. Perhaps if the broadcasters learn that a sufficient number of people are cutting out the junk, some changes for the better may result.

"The device consists in the use of what the electricians call an extension cord with a switch or key socket attached. One can be purchased or made up for about 50 cents. Remove the radio plug from the base outlet and replace it with the extension cord plug. Attach the radio plug to the socket of the cord and carry the end of the cord from the radio to the seat from which you customarily listen. As soon as any advertising comes through, just switch it off, and after it is over, throw the switch again.

"I admit this little contraption is not the ideal of perfection for solving this vexing situation, but we have found it a genuine comfort."

A LION'S ROAR in the studios is produced, not by a lion's vocal chords, but with a bass viol bow drawn across a length of hemp, covered with resin.

Dare Interprets the Mode

On Caribbean Sea, Nov. 25.

OH, these sleeves! Believe me, they keep many a hardworking Fashun Cricket awake nights, trying ot successfully predict what they'll be doing next! It seems as though, with all hats tilted in the same direction, and all waistlines snug, and all shoulders wide and military this winter, sleeves are designed, each one different from all others, to help us tell our friends apart.

The way you carry out your idea of chic on your sleeve is the most important indication of your style importance, according to some authorities. Your frock may be worthy of no particular comment on all points but the sleeves, and still get by—but if the sleeves aren't noteworthy, then your frock is doomed to instant oblivion.

And, though every sleeve in the world differs from its neighbor, there are four general types of sleeves, and yours must come within one or another of these types to be chic. There's the sleeve tight to the elbow and puffed above; the long, tight sleeve with fullnes only at the elbow; the loose, flowing sleeve, and variations of the graceful Bishop sleeve. But if your sleeve shows that it had one of these ideas in mind when it started, there is no objection to its attaining its end in any way it pleases.

For instance, you may have your puffed sleeve attained by means of intricate bias cutting and a row of fagoting, or the sleeves may be set in at the shoulders with rows of gathering to become an entirely different kind of puff. In a black satin dress from a prominent French designer, the sleeve is straight up to and above the elbow, but with four diamonds of the material inserted at the elbow to give the necessary puff.

* * * *

I want you to just look at the sketch I made to day, to see the possibilities in black velvet, fine Valenciennes lace, and the proper coiffeur for a heavy blonde. Yes, the heightening of the figure with the smooth braid at the crown of the head, the particular neckline both front and back, the long sleeves, and the way the skirt is cut into triangles, are all thought out and all put into the picture with just one thought in mind—to make a statuesque blonde out of the too plump, fluffy haired and baby-blue-eyed type. Note, too, the extra sleeves of black velvet lined in turquoise, and the long lapis lazuli earrings, and the slippers and fan of blue and gold brocade. And think over my suggestion for turning a little plump blonde into a statuesque beauty, until tomorrow, when I have a lot more to tell you about this same thing.

* * * *

The neglige that is all draped and requires no cuting and fitting! That's what this week's illustrated leaflet tells you how to make, and that's what you had better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope for right this minute—what with negliges being an important part of a lovely lady's make-up, and Christmas about to happen before you know it, and this making such a ravishing present even for a woman to make who has never sewn a stich in her life! Address your letter, inclosing a stamped, self-adressed envelope, to Dare Department of The Washington Post.

Au revoir!

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A RULE AND ITS EXCEPTION.

THE minimum requirement for converting a Takeout Double of a suit bid of one into a Penalty Double is the possession of at least four sure trump tricks in the hand of the defending player who accepts this responsibility. This requirement has been found necessary because against suit bids honor-tricks, absolutely sure to win a no-trump, lose much of their certainty.

Holding four sure trump tricks and partner holding a minimum of 3 honor-tricks, generally speaking, and contract of one should be set, but there are exceptions and today's hand is a case in point.

Both sides vulnerable.

North-South 80 on the rubber game.

South—Dealer.

	♠ Q 7 6 5 ♡ 9 7 6 3 ◇ 8 6 5 4 ♣ 6
♠ A K J 10 ♡ Q J 10 8 ◇ Q J 9 3 ♣ 5	N W E S	♠ 9 8 ♡ 5 4 ◇ 10 7 ♣ Q J 10 8 7 4 3
	♠ 4 3 2 ♡ A K 2 ◇ A K 2 ♣ A K 9 2

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♣	Dbl.(1)	Pass	Pass(2)
Pass

1. A Double for a Takeout, of course. West is well prepared for a response of either spades, hearts or diamonds.

2. East has visions of a tremendous penalty and converts the Takeout Double into a Penalty Double.

Against the contract of one club doubled, West led the King of spades, following it with the Ace and another spade in response to his partner's "echo." To echo is to play a higher card of the suit when holding a lower one and thus request the continuance of that suit. East on the first round had played the 9 of spades and on the second round the 8 telling his partner that he could win the third round of the suit. East trumped according to his promise and led the Queen of clubs. South won with the Ace and next laid down the Ace and King of hearts and the Ace and King of diamonds. He continued with a heart and East was forced to trump as his hand at that time contained nothing else. South refused to win the first trump trick but won the second and thus made three club tricks, two hearts and two diamonds for his doubled contract and game.

It was well that South was not misled by the possession of six honor-tricks all Aces and Kings—into making an unsound bid above the game score in hopes of reaching a Slam. His hand, it is true, contained the requisite honor-tricks, but playing-tricks are essential to the making of high contracts, and aside from his 6 tricks in Aces and Kings South's only hope of another is the establishment of a long club. Had he opened with two clubs and the bidding followed the same course as it did in the actual game, instead of scoring game and rubber, his opponents would have scored 200 points as a bonus for defeating the doubled contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: What is the 8 to 5 yardstick?

Answer: In every deal about 8 of the tricks will be won by honors as counted by the honor-trick table; the other 5 tricks will be produced from low cards developed under the control of the honors.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF November 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:15 a. m. to 9:45 a. m., from noon to 2 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:30 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 9:50 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Astrological influences will be forceful today—November 26—and will supply both energy and courage. The period of talk will be over and the time for action has arrived to push cherished plans. Do not let hesitation, cowardice or uncertainty thwart your schemes any longer!

Children born on this November 26 will be fearless, nervy individuals, anxious to play to the public. No inferior role in life will be acceptable to one of their pride and ambition. They will love show and display, and will have superficial tastes. The character of their work will depend upon their moods.

Born on a November 26, your eyes may express Puckish humor, the gravity of a judge, the gentleness of a lamb, the severity of a lion, the innocence of a child, or the shrewdness of a financier, at will. Your moods are adaptable to the moment and occasion, and you can be all things to all people. You are not a poser, however, and your words, face and actions express your deep and genuine feelings. There are times when a "poker face" is an advantage, but your face is as open as a book.

If you be a woman, you are a clinging vine, effeminate type, with brains. Your gentle manner, however, is not a symbolism of weakness. You are perfectly capable of holding your own under any and all conditions. You do not like to assert your authority, and you naturally like being a petted and protected being. You attract those of the opposite sex, but you have no flirtatious tendencies.

If you be a man, you always like to feel that you are boss, both at home and at work. You are not a tyrant, however, and are a very easy taskmaster. You are a born disciplinarian and can rule without temper or bullying methods. You are shrewd, careful and thorough. You are particular about your work, without being too fussy. Those of both sexes have the ability to extract the most benefit, joy or happiness out of commonplace events.

Successful people born November 26:

Octavius B. Frothingham, clergyman.

John B. Irving, artist.

Susan Hayes Ward, author.

George Cary Eggleston, editor.

Thomas G. Jones, lawyer and governor.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me what to use to mulch strawberries; also blackberries and raspberries.

A NEW GARDENER.

Mulch strawberry beds with straw or salt hay. The other berries you mention can be mulched with rough manure. If you should use manure for strawberries, the crown of the plants would rot.

Please tell me how to grow cinerarias. MADGE McM.

Sow the seed in May. As the seedlings develop, keep shifting the plants into larger pots. Usually three shifts are necessary before the plants reach maturity. A cineraria requires a rich soil, plenty of fresh air and a great deal of sun and water.

Please tell me when to plant some fruit trees. WILLIAM G. R.

Most fruit trees can be set out in the fall. Exceptions to this rule are the stone fruits, such as peaches, plums and cherries. Be sure, when planting, to firm the soil well about the roots. It is also well to go over the trees a second time and again firm the soil about their roots and trunks.

Is it true that lilacs transplant well in October? Because I read this some place, I planted three last month. Now I wonder if I should have. MRS. HENRY G. D.

Lilacs transplant best during October, doing better by far than those transplanted in the spring.

Please tell whether it is best to leave the dead stalks of hollyhocks on the plants or to cut them down at this time. Also, is it well to heap up the soil about the main stems of roses? AN OLD READER.

Better remove and burn all dead or dying foliage from all the perennials. This prevents in a large measure the spread of disease. Always pile the soil well up about roses. Do this after the first light frost.

Please tell me how often to water my crassula and sedum acre. JANET G. L.

Water your crassula once a week, but give it enough at each application to moisten all the soil in the pot. Water a sedum acre, if in a sunny window, once each day. In dull weather it may not dry out so fast, in which case every other day will be often enough to give it water.

I have a coleus, which is making rapid growth. Does this plant do best in a southern window? MARIE G. T.

Yes. Sprinkle the top at least wice a week to keep ahead of the mealy bug, which is the worst enemy of the coleus.

I have a large date-palm, which is several years old and has never developed but one set of leaves a season. Is there any way to increase the number of leaves? MRS. JAMES B. P.

Never in the house. And even in the open, in its native state, it is not likely to develop more than the one set of leaves.

I have six primulas, which did well last winter. Now they are not doing so well. Do you think if I placed these in a southern window it would improve their condition? I have always kept them in a northern window. MRS. PERCY H.

Yes. Primulas should always have all possible sunshine if they are to set buds and blossom.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

NEW GLANDS FOR BALD PEOPLE.

A RECENT report by Dr B. N. Bengtson offers more hope for the bald than any other recent proposal. The report covers two years' experience in treating certain kinds of baldness with pituitary extract and thyroid extract. He reports cases in which hair grew on bald heads in a surprising way.

One man started in with a billiard ball dome, before long he had a fine fuzz. Then followed a very good crop of white hair. Finally his patience was rewarded by a very good growth of black hair of good quality. One case continued bald for five months, then followed five months of fuzz, after which there developed good, normal black hair which continued to improve in quality and appearance for one year. Some of the cases had been bald for years—one for about sixteen years.

The medicine used is the front half of the pituitary gland and, in some cases, some thyroid gland. When this preparation was given by the mouth alone there was almost no effect. Given by hypodermic, it had considerable effect, but the best results followed combined treatment by mouth and by hypodermic.

Dr. Bengtson began with cases of spot baldness, or alopecia areata, later he tried the treatment in other forms of baldness, with good results, as far as he has gone. It is not yet possible to say in what kind of baldness it is most useful, and, on the other hand, in what types it will prove of service.

Primarily he tried to select cases where the baldness seemed to be due to trouble with some ductless gland. He finally came to the conclusion that it was too uncertain which cases were of that type, and the only plan was to try cases of different sorts and see what results followed.

Incidentally, he has found that the treatment directed at baldness has cured some cases of headache, including some that were said to be of the migraine type. He makes no claims for the method and warns his readers that it is on trial and results cannot be promised.

Triflers need not expect anything from it. There is no magic about it. One bottle will not cause the hair to grow several feet in length.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

T. Y. writes:

1. What is the cause of Bright's disease?

2. What are the symptons?

3. Can it be cured?

REPLY.

1. There are several kinds of Bright's disease, and each has its group of causes. Among the kinds is acute nephitis with albumin and casts and tendency to edema. The answers will apply to that kind only. Among the causes are mineral poisons, such as corrosive sublimate, acute disease, such as scarlet fever and pneumonia.

2. Abundance of albumin and casts in the urine; also some blood. Puffiness of the face, other edema. Convulsions may occur.

3. Yes. Light diet, protection of the body against cold, warm baths and sweats, and rest generally result in cure.

FRANCES M'DONALD

THE WORM THAT TURNED.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: I would very much like to have your opinion on a state of affairs that have come to the point where there must be something done or one miserable human being not worth much to any one but herself will blow up and "bust."

I am deaf, depending upon the lips to hear. Six years, six long years ago I, a widow, married a man who represented himself as a Tech graduate and a mining engineer. He had recently come back from the West and talked as if he knew the inner workings of mines. He started a lavish campaign of courtship, spending money for flowers, candy, &c.

I was well dressed, had a $1,000 diamond and some money, left me by my husband. I had teeth, health, optimism, freedom, but was so lonely I took to this fellow and allowed him to call frequently. I was living with friends at the time. We married after six weeks.

Come to find out he was not working, had left his position when he met me. I, of course, to show my good sportsmanship, put my money in food and room rent, finally taking him to California to a friend who promised to get him work. He did not like the friend and we started back home after staying there one night. He was afraid to stay. That man never worked a stroke until I had pawned and sold and spent the money for the diamond and what other money I had left.

He has a really dangerous temper, breaking pipes, tearing his clothing, &c. He has called me all sorts of vile names. He continually "knocks" my family, who have kept me clothed since I met him. I have worked for six years and have paid for most of my furniture by taking part-time work with people whom I knew.

Now comes the depression; he is laid off and I guess the firm was glad for the excuse. He wants and is trying to make me hustle around and find more work to help him until he finds something to do. He sits in a corner and smokes a vile pipe all day long, and maps a course for me to pursue in quest of work I refuse.

I am broke, practically, have two little "jobs," but think I can capture a dollar or two reading handwriting, as I am a graphologist. People like my readings. But while I am with him I refuse to lift my hand to look for anything more. I am waiting until we have come to the place where we must necessarily move.

If you were I, would you be afraid to tackle the world alone? In a small room somewhere I might be able to "get by" until things took a turn for the better. I have lost everything, including most of my lower teeth, and I look like nothing at all. If it was not for this I would not be so horrible looking. My spouse needed so many things this summer I could not get my teeth fixed.

Please talk and talk hard! I need moral support, for I am very much afraid I am going to quit "cold" and let this creature look out for himself. I may be a coward and mean. Some people think so, but last night I was told I was worthless, had no brains (which I admit, naturally), and finished off with a hope that I would starve.

What would you do and how would you do it? I have courage, for I am Scotch. I have stubbornness. Can I use these to face the world alone? Thanks. THE WORM THAT TURNED.

Hurray! Three lusty cheers for the worm! Take your furniture, move to quarters where you can rent first one then later more rooms to girls or other business people, which will not interfere with part-time work, and where your Scotch spirit will thrive instead of starve. Deafness will be no hindrance in making people comfortable, and as time goes on you will have a good income and a sure one.

You must be firm about the man who has spent your cash and now abuses you for your stupidity. Show him for once that you are not as brainless as you have thus far given him cause to believe. You have nothing to lose in getting rid of the scoundrel, but will lose everything worth having if you accompany him on his chosen road to the scrap heap. Trouble with worms that turn is that they sometimes do not keep on going after they turn, and just turning does not mean a thing. So keep going—and go far, Scotchy.

By the way, would you like to do some graphological readings for me? Send me your name and address and I will send you some to do.

DEARBORN DIAGNOSIS.

(Man must be a self-starter. The trouble is that so many are waiting to be cranked.—Henry Ford.)

I.

I MET a man upon the street,
He hadn't any shoes;
And had no stockings on his feet,
And he was steeped in "blues."
He asked me for a crust of bread,
I said to him, "How come?"
He gave a weary look and said:
"My starter's on the bum!"

II.

"Why are you now in such a plight?"
I asked. "What brought you low?
You are a most pathetic sight
And fill my heart with woe."
"Please help," he very softly cried,
And creaked in all his joints.
"Just what is wrong?" I asked. He sighed,
'It's my ignition points!"

III.

"'Tis plain to see," I said to him,
"By looking at you there,
That you were once in better trim,
And free from such despair.
Oh, tell me, fellow, if you will,
What dealt you such a blow?"
He said: "I was successful till
My batteries got low!"

IV.

"I know life was not ever thus,"
I said, "You are no scamp;
Explain to me, I prithee, Gus,
What made you such a tramp?"
He looked at me with tearful eyes
That tore my heart to bits
And chirped, "Kind sir, I'll put you wise—
My plates are on the fritz!"

V.

"There is no spark," the fellow said,
"No spark, no spark at all;
My motor is completely dead,
And all I do is stall;
But when this Henry Ford goes broke
I hope—and this goes double—
That somebody will tell the bloke
It's simply engine trouble!"

THE DELICATESSEN DEALERS HAD A NAME FOR IT.

THE children of rich parents grow taller than those of poor families, the National Academy of Sciences has discovered. Take Abraham Lincoln, for example——

Mr. Courtney Ryley Cooper hears that the Christmas theme song this year will be, "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby."

Clare Shilt reports things so bad that you need influence to get into the poorhouse.

THANKSGIVING ANALYSIS OF A POPULAR BIRD.

The turkey is a noble bird,
It has a lot of points,
But still it lacks—and how absurd—
Sufficient second joints.

The turkey makes a nation glad—
Much happiness it brings
But still I somehow wish it had Less neck and tail and wings!

Jonathan says the trouble with many people is that they're here today and here tomorrow.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WITH the closer and closer approach of the latest edition of the Ziegfeld "Follies," booked to open at the National Theater next Monday night, it becomes more and more apparent to those with memories in any sort of fair working order that Harry Richman, Mitzi Mayfair, Hal Le Roy, Jack Pearl and the other principals in the twenty-third production in the line that was inaugurated in 1907, bear the weight of a tremendous responsibility upon their shoulders.

I mean to say that it devolves upon them to uphold the traditions established by many of the most distinguished stars, in their respective fields, of the past three decades.

At mention of the "Follies" there will spring to the mind of every veteran theatergoer spirited visions of the earlier contributions to this succession of brilliant spectacles of such artists as Grace La Rue, Bickel & Watson, Mlle. Dazie, Valeska Suratt, Nora Bayes, Billy Reeves, Leon Errol, Bert Williams, Lillian Lorraine, Will Rogers, Ina Claire, Jack Norworth, Bernard Granville, Andrew Toombs, Eddie Cantor, George Le Maire, John Steele, Dolores, Sam Hardy, Don Barclay, Gilda Gray and many others beyond the number you can count on all your fingers and all your toes.

So, when they say that the current "Follies" is the best of the lot, they really have said something!

The remainder of next week's attractions of a so-called "legitimate" nature are for the most part concerts.

For instance, the National Symphony Orchestra, of Washington, Hans Kindler, conductor, will be heard in two concerts during the week, the first Sunday afternoon at 4, in Constitution Hall; the second, in the same auditorium on Thursday, December 3, at 4:45 p. m.

On Tuesday afternoon, December 1, Fritz Kreisler, the world's foremost concert violinist, will make his only local appearance of the season, and on Saturday night, December 5, Grace Moore will be heard in Constitution Hall as the stellar artiste of the third of Mrs. Wilson-Greene's Saturday evening concerts there.

On Friday evening, December 4, at 9 o'clock, in the Shoreham Hotel, Elena De Sayn, Russian violinist resident in the Capital, will be heard in concert with three noted composers, Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, A. Walter Kramer and John Powell, in their own compositions for violin and piano. A reception will follow the program.

For the week beginning with a matinee performance Sunday afternoon, the burlesque attraction at the Gayety will be "Tally-Ho Girls," a new aggregation of singers, dancers and comedians, headed by George Carroll, Eddie Lloyd and Angeles Lee. The week after that, "Jimmy Lake's Own Show." Whoopee!

Incidentally, it will be of interest to music lovers that Arturo Toscanini, the great Italian conductor, wields his baton over the N. Y. Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra in Carnegie Hall, New York, tonight for the first concert he has conducted in this country this season. He introduces as his soloist, Adolf Busch, German violinist, known principally in this country as the tutor of Yehudi Menuhin, San Francisco's boy prodigy. Herr Busch will play two concertos with the orchestra.

It is further worthy of note that the program played in New York tonight will be rendered in its entirety in Washington upon the occasion of the Philharmonic's first concert here on December 15.

It will be a source of regret to the theatergoing public of the Capital that after its unfortunate booking for the current week, the Belasco, at time of writing, has no attraction in sight for next.

John McCormack, world-famous Irish tenor, will make his first concert appearance in Washington in several seasons when he appears at Constitution Hall on Saturday evening, at 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. McCormack's program will include at least one group of the Irish folk songs, which he sings so matchlessly. Two of these—"The Forlorn Queen," an arrangement by Herbert Hughes, based on an old Irish fairyland tradition, and "The Spanish Lady," also arranged and adapted by Hughes—will be sung here for the first time, as will Ernest Torrence's song, "Smiling Kitty O'Day."

And if it is the film bills you have been worrying about, next week's roster in the downtown, first-run houses will be approximately as follows: Columbia, Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper in "The Champ;" Earle, Tallulah Bankhead in "The Cheat" and Eric Zardo and his band headlining the vaudeville bill; Fox, Warner Baxter and Leila Hyams in "Surrender" and Fanchon & Marco's "Marches Militaires" idea, with Les Stevens and "The Diplomats;" Palace, Richard Arlen, Peggy Shannon, Jack Oakie and Regis Toomey in "Touchdown," and Benny Davis' Birthday Party Revue; Metropolitan, Dolores Costello in "Expensive Women;" RKO-Keith's, "Bill" Boyd and Ginger Rogers in "Suicide Fleet;" Rialto, Colin Clive, Mae Clarke, John Boles and Boris Karloff in "Frankenstein," second week.

With regard to "Frankenstein," at the Rialto, records are being smashed by the crowds pouring into the theater to have their blood chilled and their nerves shattered! Box-offices grosses, up to the present point in the picture's run, at least, have exceeded those compiled by "All Quiet on the Western Front," the gold medal film of its season, if you remember.

Horace Greeley's advice, "Go West, young man, go West," seems to have been lost on Mr. Keogh, of the District attorney's office.

Evidently he couldn't quite go her!

New Cinema Offerings

RKO-KEITH'S

"SUICIDE FLEET." RKO picturization of the story, "Mystery Ship," by Commander Herbert A. Jones, starring "Bill" Boyd, supported by Ginger Rogers, Robert Armstrong and James Gleason. Directed by Albert Rogell. Reviewed Wednesday night by Don B. Reed.

Supplied with a highly colorful story, a cast capable of carrying both serious and comic moments with the same enthusiasm and a background of splendid sea photography, "Suicide Fleet" will be highly entertaining to the vast majority of cinema patrons.

While its melodramatic nature may not pull any heartstrings or win for it any medals, it is never dull and is well enacted. The Navy has given the producer considerable assistance and the shots taken from and around the Mosquito Fleet are almost enough to make the picture a success, regardless of plot or story.

In "Suicide Fleet" the adventures of three Coney Island buddies, all in love with the same girl, are followed from the outbreak of the war through enlistment in the Navy to the point where they volunteer for a dangerous task in water infested by German submarines. The trio consists of "Baltimore," "Dutch" and "Skeets," "Bill" Boyd, Robert Armstrong and James Gleason, respectively. "Sally," the girl, is Ginger Rogers.

Sally is in love with "Baltimore," the shooting gallery proprietor, but is loved by "Skeets," the sightseeing barker, and "Dutch," the Coney photographer. As they leave for the scene of action, "Dutch" and "Skeets" frame "Baltimore," leading him to think Sally no longer cares. However, having seen service previously, "Baltimore" is an officer aboard and evens all scores through his orders to the other two.

The three men are members of a picked party on a decoy ship attacked by three subs. Before the old ship sinks they manage to get one U-boat while the rescue party arrives in time to get the other two. It is here that the real thrills of the film are produced, what with screaming shells, exploding powder magazines, cries of wounded and scalded sailors and the sight of flaming vessels. There is a real punch packed into a short space with the Navy and the cast both doing magnificently.

The picture has several touches of fine directing. The German officers in the story talk German. The dialogue, written by F. McGrew Willis, has a sea tang. And Ginger Rogers is decidedly appealing in her distress over "Baltimore's" failure to speak of his love. As for Boyd, Gleason and Armstrong, their comedy is rough and ready but thoroughly amusing. An excellent supporting cast consists of Harry Bannister, Frank Reicher, Henry Victor, George Berliner and Hans Joby.

A touch of "premiere" was to be seen at Keith's last night. Many Navy officials attended the opening performances.

The best Mickey Mouse cartoon in recent months, "The Beach Party," which had the audience in hysterics; a Gay Girls comedy, "Easy to Get," and a stirrinf Pathe newsreel completed a swell evening's amusement.

Motorcyclist Injured In Collision With Auto

William Beall, 20 years old, of Forest Glen, Md., was injured last night when his motorcycle was struck by a hit-and-run driver on the Seventh street pike near Forest Glen road. He was taken to Washington Sanitarium Hospital and treated for a fractured knee and a deep cut on the head. His condition was reported not serious last night by hospital authorities.

The car which struck Beall was abandoned by the driver, who fled afoot. A wheel was broken from the car when it struck the motorcycle.

By JACK ESPEY.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY eleven at its peak both mentally and physically, arrives at the end of its schedule this afternoon in Griffith Stadium when it meets the powerful North Dakota University team in the third intersectional football game of the Capital's 1931 season.

Arrayed against the well-prepared Colonials when the whistle signals the start of action at 2:15 o'clock will be probably the strongest club a G. W. team ever has been called on to encounter at home. That, at least, is the opinion of Head Coach Pixlee and his aids of the Colonial coaching staff who have obtained much information, first-hand and otherwise, of the green-clad charges of C. A. West, the Nodak mentor.

Disregarding North Dakota's defeat at the hands of Duquesne last Saturday in the heat of Pittsburgh, George Washington anticipates stronger opposition than it met from Tulsa University, which inflicted the only loss it has sustained on local soil this year. Having repulsed a mediocre Butler team last week, the Colonials will sport a record of two wins in three intersectional games at home if they subdue the rugged Nodaks.

Pixlee Holds Hope Of Victory.

Coach Pixlee, however, is confident George Washington will win if it maintains the high standard of play uncorked against Butler. Despite the weakness of Butler's attack and defense, the efforts of Pixley's players were impressive.

A devastating off-tackle thrust with five-man interference is the weapon with which G. W. expects to make its bid for victory. This play when smoothly executed—as it was against Butler—will cause trouble aplenty for any team. The brunt of the ball-carrying duties will be borne by Lee Carlin, Joe Carter and Johnny Fenlon, a trio of speedy, elusive half backs. All possess the knack of "cutting" back from the first-adopted course of the play in order to elude would-be tacklers in the opposing secondary defense.

The all-important blocking without which the off-tackle thrust is practically worthless features Johnny Fenlon and Finish Parrish, quarter and full back, respectively. These two backs devote their efforts to clearing the way for the ball-toter almost to the exclusion of forays of their own. Dike and Stewart, guards, also contribute heavily to the interference.

Pierce Chief Threat Of Dakotans.

North Dakota will present an outstanding back in Ralph Pierce who runs, passes and kicks with equal facility and perfection. Admittedly their best offensive threat, Pierce did not perform when the Nodaks held Oregon scoreless earlier in the season. With Pierce in the line-up today, North Dakota's strength is readily realized.

It is likely that North Dakota will, according to those who have followed its games, attempt to use the pass, forward or lateral or both combined—as much as any other attacking means. The Nodaks have a great pass receiver in Fred Felber, a six-foot-two end. Last winter Felber played on the All-Western team that met Notre Dame's stars on the Coast.

Capt. John Burma and Lloyd Richmond, other backs, are expected to figure prominently in the Nodak attack. The last-mentioned is an especially fast runner whose open field dashes have rung up many a touchdown for North Dakota this year.

In the line the invaders have abundant beef as well as speed. Their tackles, Wick and Long, and Steinhover, a substitute, all hit the 200-pound mark on the scales. Dablow and Malo, the guards, are said to be two of the fastest men in their positions in the Mid-West.

Stribling Asks Delay Of Fight With Schaaf

25th Battle Today Of Howard, Lincoln

Marshall Bears Hopes of District Team Against Rivals at Philly.

Special to The Washington Post.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 25.—The battling Bisons of Howard University and the Lincoln University Lions are set to stage their twenty-fifth annual Thanksgiving Day battle tomorrow afternoon at Shibe Park, the home of Connie Mack's Athletics.

Since 1924, Lincoln has been unable to defeat the Howard gridmen. Howard won four tilts in that period and two ended in scoreless deadlocks.

Lincoln has won five games this season against one defeat, that at the hands of Hampton. Johnson C. Smith, St. Paul, Union, North Carolina A. and T. and Mortan are the elevens conquered by the Lions.

Howard places most of its hopes around the versatility of its captain, Tom Marshall, former New Jersey high school ace, who has been touted as the greatest football player in Negro college ranks; Lee and Mack, two veterans, also are expected to help the Bisons against the high-scoring Lions.

Melinkovich Returns To Notre Dame Line-Up

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—George Melinkovich, big Notre Dame full back who was so sorely missed in the Southern California game, will be back on the firing line Saturday for the Army game.

Melinkovitch injured his shoulder in the Navy game but he appeared ready to go tonight and Coach "Hunk" Anderson said he would use him against the Army. Steve Banas, his successor, probably will start at the full back post, however.

The entire squad went through a stiff workout today. Defense was stressed while a few new plays were tossed in. Coach Anderson said he would take 35 players with him, leaving tomorrow.

Washington Gun Club Holds Special Shoot

Scheduled for 10 o'clock this morning, the Washington Gun Club will hold a special Thanksgiving shoot until noon, it was announced yesterday by Parker Cooke, president of the local organization.

Marksmen who are not members of the club are invited to participate for the several prizes at stake. The traps are located on Benning road, adjoining the Pepco power house.

8th Straight Win Sought By C. U.

Loyola Eleven Likely to Be Favorite in Game Today.

Baltimoreans' Passing Attack Is Fear of Cardinals.

SEASON'S RECORDS.

TWO powerful and well-matched elevens will clash today when Catholic University's greatest "homecoming" attraction in history is launched at Brookland Bowl. At 2:30 o'clock Baltimore Loyola's "Fighting Irish" will challenge the supremacy of Dutch Bergman's winners of seven straight games.

Though backed by a brilliant record, C. U. probably will take the field the short-ender. Possessing a passing attack that is comparable with the East's best and which brought results against Western Maryland and Holy Cross, Loyola will be ready to strike where Catholic is weakest.

Whether the Cardinals have rected this heretofore glaring shortcoming will not be known until the mixing starts. Head Coach Dutch Bergman has labored tirelessly in bracing this department of the game and may surprise with a visibly tightened defense against the overhead game.

Old Grads Arrive For Game.

Enthusiasm was everywhere in evidence yesterday afternoon and last night. Old graduates arriving from all sections colloborated with the student body in stimulating interest that already had reached a high pitch. A mammoth "pep" meeting involving some 300 team followers created a bedlam of din last night. A huge bonfire flamed picturesquely on the Brookland campus.

That today's will be a record turnout for a C. U. homecoming was the prospect. Catholic U., emerging from the doldrums after a period of years, will send into action a representative that will be seeking its eighth win in a row, while Loyola, beyond question of a doubt, this season has turned out its finest eleven of all time, which held Western Maryland to a 7-7 tie and lost to Holy Cross only by 16-14.

Upon the launching of hostilities today Loyola likely will take to the airway in short order. Catholic, on the other hand, is expected to employ a diversified attack.

Whelan Is Threat Of Cardinals.

Reserving Johnny Oliver for the passing, the Cardinals are expected to depend upon straightaway football at the start. Tom Whelan, one of the East's high-scoring backs, and outstanding in District college ranks, again will be featured in the ball rushing, while "Bus" Sheary and Carl De Mello, too, will bear watching.

The "Irish" will center their attack around the passing around Larry Dallaire, a southpaw chucker, and Ken Curtis, one of the cleverest receivers in the South Atlantic section. This duo very nearly wrecked Holy Cross last Saturday, Curtis making no fewer than four circus catches of unusually long shots for substantial yardage.

In weight and line strength the two factions are well matched. If anything, C. U. should hold a slight edge in the formidability of its forward wall, having checked virtually every running attack directed against it this season.

Injured Duke Captain Watches Team Drill

Durham, N. C., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Capt. "Kid" Brewer, star Duke full back, who suffered a concussion of the brain in the Duke-Carolina game last Saturday, watched from the side lines this afternoon as the Blue Devils staged their final hard workout before their game with Washington and Lee at Lexington, Va., Saturday.

After regaining consciousness early Sunday morning the Duke captain improved steadily and was dismissed from the Duke Hospital today at noon.

NORTHERNS FLAY REBELS.

The Northern Preps will journey to Fredericksburg, Va., today for a game with the Rebels at 2:30 p. m. Manager Ted Otte wants all members of the team to report to his home, 5213 Georgia avenue northwest, at 10:30 a. m.

Loyola's Passing Threat

left-handed forward passer of the Loyola Team which faces Catholic University today, who is reputed to be one of the outstanding toss throwers in the East. His passes played a prominent part in Loyola's two touchdowns against Holy Cross last Saturday.

VERDICT WON EASILY BY ANTONELLI

Mohawk Fighter Beats Tramberia in Fast Alexandria Bout.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

ALTERNATING a rib buckling right with a left that jabbed and jolted his man from start to finish, Nick Antonelli, a gnarled-muscled battle-scarred young featherweight, recently come to Washington in general and the Mohawk Club in particular, batterd his way to a free swinging eight-round decision over Jimmy Tramberia, peppy Baltimore battler, last night in the feature fight at Portner's Arena, Alexandria.

The occasion for all the chin-clouting was an Elks' charity smoker, and the 700 members of the order who attended did so for the benefit of a trio of charities—the Alexandria Day Nursery, the Salvation Army and the fighters.

Pierce in-fighting, which made their bodies redhot little bags of lightning, was the order of the day in the final, as fine a bout as many of the confirmed ringworms in the audience have seen since the first twitch of an elderly seven-year itch. Out of the huge tally of gloves thrown and received, not 30 were to either's head, so flawless was their upper defense and so obsessive was their body attack.

Five Rounds Credited To Antonelli.

It was even, ofttimes ferocious, battling, with the winner taking five rounds, losing two by split hair margins and breaking even in the other one. It was a unanimous decision, and met with approval.

Tramberia was off to an early and short-lived lead when he drew the freer swinging Antonelli in close, inflicting severe punishment in the legalized clinching. The Mohawk battler, who used to be a New York amateur and later a semipro around the Eastern Shore region, drew Tramberia out cleverly thereafter, stiffened him up against the ropes in the fourth and and a little more than held his own otherwise.

Antonelli went down once, missing a right, and his glove slid through the gritty resin in the ring. He rubbed

MARYLAND U. READY FOR HOPKINS

Old Liners Warned of Surprises in Fray at Baltimore.

JOHNS HOPKINS' grid team, with little to lose and everything to gain in today's game with Maryland University in the Baltimore stadium at 2:30 o'clock, is "going to shoot the works from the start," its coach, Ray Van Orman, announced yesterday at the conclusion of the Blue Jays practicing for the year.

Nevertheless Maryland doubtless will go through with its intention of sending a complete shock-troop team into the fray at the start of the game. But it was held certain last night that the Maryland No. 1 outfit, a thin line of fourteen players who have carried the school to unprecedented heights in football this year, will be ready to go in anytime after the first play of the game.

Maryland just does not know what to expect from Hopkins, and the entire squad was warned yesterday to be on the lookout perhaps more than in any game in which the Terps have appeared this season. Comparative scores, which sometimes do mean something, can be manipulated so that the Jays look very good, when taking into consideration the fact that Hopkins whipped Lehigh, who beat Princeton with a larger score than did Washington and Lee beat Princeton. Maryland was barely able to nose out Washington and Lee.

Suffice to say that the Jays, with a record of six wins on their calendar, are enjoying their greatest season in years and have no intention of lowering their colors today. Their 40-0 loss to Western Maryland still rankles, but the team emerged with all its stars intact. Maryland was not quite so fortunate in its Washington and Lee game, out of which Pease and Krajcovic, sterling linemen, emerged with stiff legs.

Schmeling-Walker Bout Draws No Bids

Los Angeles, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Los Angeles promoters said today the talk in New York of a proposed fight between Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker here is only to "bid up the affair to bait some Eastern promoter."

No Los Angeles promoter has been approached on the matter, and there is none here who believes such a fight would pay.

Injured Youth Star in Win Of Central

Gibbins Scores Only Goal; Is Removed to Hospital.

Is Hurt About Head; Washington-Lee Beaten, 6-0.

PLAYING perhaps the greatest individual game of the high school footbal year, Hank Gibbins, Central High's great utility gridman, rolled the stumbling Blue and White Team into its first C Club victory in five years yesterday, almost single-handedly beating Washington-Lee High, 6-0, before being removed from the game at the start of the second half with injuries to his head.

Gibbins, showing unprecedented leg drive, and as true a passing arm as has been seen here this year trundled Central 70 yards in the opening minutes of the game, after Washington-Lee had kicked off to Dunlop, who was grounded on his 30-yard line. Four passes from Gibbins' hands to Buscher and McKenzie, moved the ball down the field to the 15-yard line, interspersed with three line-shattering bucks, also by Gibbins.

Gibbins Accounts for Touchdown.

Continuing his competitive fury, Gibbins personally accounted for the touchdown, covering the last 15 yards in four battering assaults on the stunned Washington-Lee line, which could do nothing but yield to this lethal force. His drop kick for the extra point was low.

Backing up the Central line with some airtight secondary defense work, Gibbins helped to hold Washington-Lee well near the center of the field the remainder of the period. On the first play of the second quarter he was kicked in the head while tackling Simpson. He rallied to smelling salts, but when Central gained the ball immediately thereafter on its 35-yard line, Gibbins called for three successive forward passes. All were incompleted and Coach Bert Coggins, realizing that all was not well, ask the officials to stop play.

Gibbins, unable to recognize his father, Col. Henry Gibbins, a spectator at the game, was taken to Walter Reed Hospital, where an X-ray failed to show any concussion. He will remain at the hospital today under observation.

A determined Central line, which seemed to take new cohesiveness when Gibbins was led away, staved off four thrilling rallies on the part of Washington-Lee to tie the score. Shortly after the start of the second half Washington-Lee, on an exchange of kicks, camped on Central's 25-yard line, when Schroff recovered Dunlop's fumble. Simpson charged around right end to a first down on Central's 11, where Central held valiantly. Buscher's kick spiraled only to Central's 38-yard line, and successive rushes brought it to the 4-yard line when Mr. O'Meara's fish-horn announced a providential half.

Central Picks Up on Attack.

Central's offensive picked up a bit in the third period, but it still was

"Big Ten" Elevens Play Round Robin

Chicago Plays Iowa, Indiana Faces Illinois, With Winners Meeting.

Chicago, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The "under dogs" of the 1931 Big Ten football wars will have their day at Stagg Field tomorrow. All four of them—Iowa, Indiana, Chicago and Illinois—engage in a round robin foursome, with one eye on charity and another on a definite escape from the conference cellar.

Indiana, the trial horse of the campaign, tonight was rated as the favorite to emerge with a victory in the strange football festival, which pitted Chicago against Iowa in the first game and Indiana against Illinois in the second. Both games will be of 30 minutes duration, with the two winners meeting for the tournament championship later in the day.

As all of the charity games count in the final Big Ten standings, officials were somewhat undecided tonight as to how much credit should be given for tomorrow's games. The best guess was that one-half a game would be given for each game, the winner of both thus receiving one full game on the win side of its record.

None of the temas spent much time in their final workouts. Chicago held a light drill on signals while the other elevens did likewise and boarded trains for Chicago, arriving early this evening.

Old Rivalries To Feature Grid Card

Quakers and Cornell in 38th Battle at Franklin Field.

Colgate vs. Brown; Holy Cross Plays Boston College.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Thanksgiving Day, usually marking the fag end of the football season, but this year practically a mid-season date with the long list of charity games running through December, offers a prime bill of fare tomorrow for the pigskin-minded.

From 11 o'clock in the morning at Providence, R. I., where Colgate and Brown renew a rivalry begun in 1908, until night closes in at Los Angeles on Florida and the University of California at Los Angeles, meeting a newborn intersectional engagement, there will be a lot of football played between the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Topping the Eastern schedule is the 38th meeting of Cornell and Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, the oldest continuous major football rivalry in the East. The two schools have missed only one year—1918—since 1893, with Penn holding 27 victories to 8 for Cornell. Two have been tied. The big red team from Ithaca is the favorite this year to add one more victory to the Cornell string. Each team has lost only one game, Cornell bowing to Dartmouth and Penn being slaughtered by Notre Dame.

Violets and Crusaders Favored.

Carnegie Tech-New York University and Holy Cross-Boston College play two other traditional Eastern games, with the Violets of the big town favored to take Carnegie and the Crusaders holding an edge on the season's record over the Boston school.

Nebraska and Pittsburgh, each defeated only once, offer the most tempting fare on the day's intersectional menu, meeting at Pittsburgh in the renewal of a recent but nonetheless bitter rivalry. The Panthers, one of the strongest teams in the East, are a slight favorite.

The Big Ten charity circus at Chicago, with Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Chicago playing three 30-minute games in a round-robin, draw holds the major interest of the Middle West.

In the Southwest, Texas makes its biennial visit to College Station to play Texas A. and M., with a tough job ahead of it to upset both tradition and a strong Aggie team. The Fighting Farmers are a tough proposition on their home grounds, having lost only a few times to the university squad at College Station.

Oregon, St. Mary's To Clash.

Oregon meets St. Mary's at San Francisco in the only major sectional game on the Pacific Coast. The Gaels smarting from reverses at the hands of the Olympic Club and U. C. L. A., will be a handful for Oregon's conquerors of New York University.

Utah and Utah Aggies will fight it out at Salt Lake City for the Rocky Mountain title, with the Utes favored to add another to their long string of sectional championships.

SAKS VS. ST. MARY'S.

The St. Mary's Lyceum five opens its basket ball season Saturday night against the Saks Clothiers in the Alexandria Armory at 9 o'clock.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

ACCORDING to custom dating from the garnering of the first harvest by the Pilgrims in the New World, today is set apart to give thanks for temporal and spiritual blessings.

But on hundreds of football gridirons today the harvest will be measured in touchdowns and the day set apart for the renewal of old and cherished rivalries and some not so old but just as cherished.

Washington is the scene of two of these rivalries not yet ripened by the hallowed tradition of bygone matches but Catholic University is none the less eager to express itself in touchdowns against Loyola, of Baltimore, and George Washington will give devout thanks for a victory over the invading host from North Dakota.

Catholic University and George Washington have entered the bidding for the Washington football patronage with a flourish this season. The bulk of the attendance which formerly was commanded by Georgetown and Maryland has been weaned to the contests of the Colonials and Cardinals in no inconsiderable measure this year.

Both the Colonials and the Cardinals are eager to close their seasons with a victory today. Both, however, would not be disgraced if beaten. North Dakota and Loyola, off their records, are worthy opponents. Victories for either of the Capital schools would be a distinct feather in their caps. North Dakota has lost to Duquesne alone this season and Georgetown was held to a scoreless tie by the Dukes. Loyola catapulted into fame last week by holding Holy Cross to a 16-14 score, indicating that the Baltimoreans possess both an attack and defense.

Fans at the George Washington-Dakota game tomorrow are presented with an opportunity to buy choice seats for the Alabama charity game here December 12 in which the Crimson Tide team which played in the Rose Bowl last year will oppose Georgetown. Catholic University and George Washington in three 20-minute games.

A special ticket booth will be open at Griffith Stadium for the convenience of persons wishing to buy tickets to the Alabama game. The sales of the past week ate in heavily on the choice seats but hundreds of fine tickets are still available.

The Alabama game has captured the imagination of District fans like no other game in history. The advance sale far exceeds the Maryland-Navy sale at this date. More than ten times as many tickets have been bought for the George Washington-Dakota game today. With the proceeds to be devoted to the relief of the freezing and starving of the Capital, ticket buyers will have expressed the spirit of the day in the manner that will help most.

Tom Thorpe, who yesterday was named to referee the Army-Navy game, and is one of the most highly respected officials in the country, has detected a variance in the play of the Notre Dame teams under Rockne and the Notre Dame teams under Anderson.

With no intention to criticize the play of Anderson's team, Thorpe expressed the belief to this column that the Notre Dame Team of 1931 plays far rougher football than the Notre Dame teams under Rockne and therein lies the story of the lack of the same high-powered effectiveness.

Anderson's team lacks the same

Booth Develops Bronchitis; Out of Princeton Contest

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Albie Booth, Yale's diminutive football captain, developed a case of bronchitis today which will keep him out of the Princeton game Saturday, physicians said.

At the Yale infirmary his illness was first diagnosed as a "severe cold." Alarmed football followers still hoped for his recovery in time to help conclude the Eli season with a decisive victory over Princeton, but their hopes were dashed by later announcement that he was definitely out of the line-up.

Thus Booth's career in football appeared ended at its high point, the game with Harvard which he won with a field goal in the last minutes of play. No indication was given as to whether he would be able to participate in the charity round-robin tournament December 5.

Two years ago injuries forced him to remain on the bench in the Princeton game. Last year he was handicapped in the game against the Tigers for the same reason.

Tennessee to Meet N. Y. U. For Benefit of Unemployed

(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The University of Tennessee's volunteers, who have compiled the best six-year winning record of any major college football team in the country, today accepted an invitation to play New York University for charity at the Yankee Stadium, December 5, thereby adding a brilliant attraction to the already impressive post-season gridiron program.

The game was arranged through the initiative of the mayor's committee on unemployment relief and announced by Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown of N. Y. U. The City of Knoxville, where Tennessee is located, will receive a percentage of the gate receipts, which are expected to exceed $100,000 at prices of $1, $2 and $3.

The services of the two teams, as well as the use of the stadium, have been donated without expense so that the proceeds will go 100 per cent for

Hibala Loses In Stretch Drive

Long Brings Gelding Home in Front of Favorite.

Allez Vite Wins Over Problematical by Four Lengths.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to the Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 25.—L. Strube's Don Pedro won the Capital City Handicap, feature here today, a signal victory for Jockey L. Long and the horse, the jockey outriding Kelsay on Hibala, the favorite. Greentree Stable's Measure was third. Jockey Long outgeneraled Kelsay by taking up at the 6 furlongs, when Hibala was rushed to the front only to tire in the stretch.

At the sixteenth Long flashed by Hibala with Don Pedro and won by a length. Measure was close up all the way. The winner paid $15.10, and the time, 1:53 3-5, was within a second of the track record for 9 furlongs.

Six horses started in the feature. It was an enthusiastic throng that passed the afternoon in the perfect weather.

Man o'War Fillies Run One, Two

The Meadows, secondary feature for all-aged fillies, proved a battle royal for two daughters of Man o' War. Walter M. Jeffords' Allez Vite proved an easy winner in the end, with a margin of four lengths. The Glen Riddle Farm's Problematical, who had set the pace, was second. Zosara got third money, in which seven bat-

Bowie Advances Start Of First Race to 12:45

Bowie, Md., Nov. 25.—Racing starts tomorrow and for the remainder of the meeting at 12:45. T. K. Lynch, assistant manager, said the change was necessary to accommodate the large attendance expected for the remainder of the meeting, which includes two holidays and the charity racing Monday, the final day of Eastern racing.

tled. Allez Vite ran a mile and 70 yards in 1:45 4-5. Allez Vite was well ridden by E. Steffen. The winner paid 2 to 1.

Walter J. Salmon's colt, Brave and Bold, was also fast in the first race, winning by a neck from Carlton Clay's High Proof, while the favorite, Frederick, was third. The defeat of Frederick, running for his new owner, J. T. Kermath, was a blow to the majority of the large crowd which backed him. Richards, who had the mount on the winner, laid behind the leaders in the early running, in which Jambalaya and Frederick were in front, but finished strongly. The three leaders were bunched near the stretch. The winner paid $17.50.

The Heathen led all the way to win the second race for his new owner, the B. B. Stable. C. V. Whitney's Smear, which was the favorite, came very close, but weakened slightly in the stretch, and finished second, three-fourths of a length away. Sophia Lee Stable's Ironsides, an outsider, was third.

Sixth Maryland Victory For the Heathen.

The Heathen, which has won six races this fall in Maryland, paid $9.90. He ran the 6 furlongs in 1:11 4-5, and yet they have been starting him in claiming races, and Harvey Pierce lost a big bread winner when he was taken by the halter route.

The stewards later handed down an order barring the B. Creech colt, Philip, from further entry at this meeting for "unsatisfactory racing" in this event.

A. C. Schwartz's Flag Trick beat some fast fillies in the Scandal, for 2-year-olds, in which only fillies were eligible. She won by a half-length from S. W. Labrot's Boscobel. P. S. P. Randolph's Lady Blue was third. G. Fields rode Flag Trick and she paid $6.60. Except for a brief span from the gate in which Lady Blue was in front, Flag Trick led the field of six throughout. The time for the 6 furlongs was 1:12 2-5. It was a close race at the sixteenth when Boscobel came on almost even terms with the leader, but Flag Trick responded gamely. At Sunrise ran a poor race.

Hickey Beats Big Field In Sixth.

Hickey won the sixth race from a large field of platers, with M. Lew's up. Torealong was second and Dark Ray third. The winner was always in striking distance behind the early pace of Accotink. Blue Banner had early speed. Parnisp got a bad ride by M. Garner. The winner paid $20.20.

The Branncastle Farm's bay colt, Swatter, the favorite, rewarded his backers in the final race today, winning handily a length in front of Strongheart, with The Doctor taking third money. Swatter was close to the leaders from the start. He was forced wide when he made his run but had plenty in reserve and was going away at the finish. He paid $8.10 for the usual $2 investment.

Huntingdon was the early leader, but Strongheart assumed command coming into the stretch and appeared to be the winner until Swatter challenged and finally passed him. The Doctor closed strongly after getting off to slow start.

GEORGETOWN BOOKING.

The Georgetown 115-pound grid team would like to arrange a game with a strong team in its class for today. Teams interested should communicate with Manager John Kerins at West 2147.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRAVE AND BOLD, $17.50, $6.60, $3.50; HIGH PROOF, $6.70, $3.50; FREDERICK, $2.70.

BRAVE AND BOLD, going forwardly from the start, took a brief lead when entering the home stretch, continued resolutely under vigorous pressure and just lasted long enough nearing the finish. HIGH PROOF, shuffled back early, improved his position stoutly when put to a drive, fought his way through tight quarters during the stretch run and was going the fastest at the end. He raced as if best. FREDERICK, hard ridden from the start, held on gamely when put to punishment. JAMBALAYA showed a good effort the entire trip. GENERAL COURT made up ground fast in the final stages. SAN KAI had no excuses. PLAIN BEN was outrun. ALTMARK and MENELIK quit.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 1:35. Off at 1:41. Winner, B. B. Stable's b. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE HEATHEN, $9.90, $4.60, $2.90; SMEAR, $4.10, $3.00; IRONSIDES, $9.60.

THE HEATHEN, rushed into the lead at once, stalled off keen early contention from GAY PAL and, holding on stoutly, outstayed SMEAR. Latter, kept close up, slipped through on the inside entering the home stretch, but was held safe during the closing stages. IRONSIDES, taken to the outside for the final test, finished with good speed. GAY PAL forced a good pace for the first five furlongs, then weakened. OUTBOUND could not reach the leaders. FAIR JACK tired when nearing the home stretch. PHILLIP and IRON HEELS were away poorly and had no chance.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The Scandal. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:12. Off at 2:12½. Winner, A. C. Schwartz's ch. f. (2), by Pennant—Troque. Trained by M. Hirsch. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:12 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLAG TRICK, $6.10, $3.30, $2.90; BOSCOBEL, $3.60, $2.50; LADY BLUE, $3.80.

FLAG TRICK, forcing a fast early pace, wore LADY BLUE down when midway of the turn, was placed to severe pressure through the home stretch and had enough in reserve to withstand BOSCOBEL. Latter, reserved for the first half mile, came determinedly on the outside and was wearing the winner down gradually in the final test. LADY BLUE displayed good early speed, saved ground and held on gamely. DIANE DE POITIERS was unable to improve her position when called on. AT SUNRISE lacked early speed. SISTER LILLIE quit.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,600; allowances. The Capital City Purse. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:40. Off at 2:41. Winner, J. Strube's ch. g. (4), by Spanish Prince II—Eureka. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DON PEDRO, $15.10, $4.20, $3.60; HIBALA, $3.10, $2.80; MEASURE, $7.00.

DON PEDRO, well handled, was not hurried when displaced by HIBALA midway of the back stretch, was kept close up and, responding willingly when moving into the home stretch, wore the pacemaker down and was going away under pressure. HIBALA went into an easy lead when going five furlongs, saved ground, but could not withstand the winner's final effort in the final drive. MEASURE, rated along early, was unable to menace the leaders when put to a drive. ANNIMESSIC raced evenly throughout. QUARTER DECK showed a dull effort. TINITA quit.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The Meadows. For fillies and mares, all ages. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:11. Off at 3:16½. Winner, W. M. Jeffords' ch. f. (3), by Man o' War—May Allez. Trained by P. M. Burch. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $225; third, $126; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:43 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALLEZ VITE, $6.00, $3.30, $2.50; PROBLEMATICAL, $3.00, $2.60; ZOSARA, $2.70.

ALLEZ VITE, steadied for the first five furlongs, went into the lead without effort, was kept under mild urging and was never in the final stages. PROBLEMATICAL, placed on the outside at the start, went into a brief lead when entering the back stretch, was placed to punishment thereafter, but was not good enough. ZOSARA could never improve her position. BATTY and the others were outrun.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:47. Off at 3:52. Winner, C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HICKEY, $20.20, $13.00, $7.60; TOREALONG, $8.10, $4.10; DARK RAY, $5.20.

HICKEY, closest in pursuit of ACCOTINK early, responded stoutly for the final drive and, taking command inside the final furlong, had enough left to stall off TOREALONG. Latter entered contention with a rush at the far turn and closed gamely. DARK RAY, slow to get going, slipped through on the inside rounding the final turn and closed fast. BLUE BANNER improved his position early but could not reach the leaders. ACCOTINK sprinted into a good lead, but tired badly when straightened into the home stretch. ROCKY POINT raced well. PARSNIP could not get to the leaders.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:27. Off at 4:30½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SWATTER, $8.10, $4.30, $3.30; STRONGHEART, $4.90, $4.10; THE DOCTOR, $7.40.

SWATTER, favored by improved handling, raced close up from the beginning, was forced wide when approaching the leaders, but continued stoutly during the final drive and was going away after disposing of STRONGHEART. Latter, a keen factor from the start, took command rounding the far turn, but could not resist the winner's effort. THE DOCTOR closed stoutly from a slow beginning. HUNTINGDON was used up racing with TIMON. BIRD OF PREY raced forwardly and had no mishaps. ANCODA stopped.

ALEXANDRIA GETS GRID TREAT

Fraters, St. Stephen's in Capital City Fray Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 25.—Alexandria football fans will be treated to a real "Turkey Day" attraction tomorrow at Baggett's Stadium, when the St. Stephens gridders, one of the leaders in the Capital City League, invade this city for a battle with the Alexandria Fraters at 2:30 o'clock, at Baggett's Stadium.

The Praters will present a new line-up in this game. Coach Driefus has shifted his club to get better results, due to several of his players being on the hospital roll, and is looking for a victory over the Washington aggregation.

Zumbo Expected to Star.

Fans will watch with interest the work of Zumbo, hard-hitting full back of the St. Stephens Club. Zumbo was rated on the all-District team last season. He also plays a great game in backing up the line.

The St. Stephens Club will have Warring, Shore, Clagett, McMahon, and Nile in the line. This club held the Mercury A. C. to a 7-6 score two weeks ago.

Eliet Cabell, the Fraters' back field threat, probably will be in the starting line-up. Cabell has been on the shelf for 10 days with injuries. He has recovered and is raring to get into action.

In the Fraters' front line will be Jack Sampson, former Devitt star tackle, and Dave Henderson, all-State guard with the Alexandria High School team. These two boys are rated as the class of the league.

Fraters in Final Drill.

Dreifus put the club through a long drill tonight and is confident the team will show a reversal of form after the let down in Sunday's tilt with the Brookland A. C. This battle ended in a scoreless tie.

Officials for the contest are "Reds" Sweeney, referee; Eddie Stevens, umpire, and Jack Tulloch, head linesman.

VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA AWAIT GRID CLASH TODAY

Branch Back In Tarheel Line-Up

Thomas Carries Hope of Cavaliers; Real Battle Foreseen.

20,000 Crowd Looked for at Chapel Hill This Afternoon.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 25.—With Johnny Branch back at the helm of the first team, the Tarheels finished up their preparations for their Thanksgiving classic with Virginia with a light drill this afternoon, and tonight the Carolina campus resounded with the cry, "Beat Virginia!"

Students and alumni are on edge as the game, to start at 2 o'clock, draws near. Virginia has been coming up remarkably fast of late, and the Cavaliers, who will spend the night in a secluded spot near here, in their final drill this afternoon appeared to be strong, in good shape and in high spirits.

Branch Back With Tarheels.

Carolina has Branch back, but it is still doubtful whether Stuart Chandler, regular full back, will be ready, and the Tarheels are expected to have a tough fight.

The Tarheels have the State title in the bag again, but their season record shows three victories, three losses and three ties, and it will take another victory to make the season look right.

Staudents and alumni—and lots of them had already come in tonight—reflected the feeling. The alumni even quit their reminiscing to join in the mammoth pep rally in Memorial Hall tonight. Coach Bob Fetzer, director of athletics, and R. ". House, university executive secretary, were the speakers. Billy Arthur led the yells and the university's big band furnished the music.

Ticket sales have taken a decided jump since the turn of fate has made it appear Virginia is going to make it a close game. Last reports from the ticket office indicated a crowd of 20,000 to 25,000. Athletic authorities said tonight that there were still plenty of good seats available, however.

Capt. Bill Thomas, one of the South's best backs, and Lewis Reiss, Virginia's great center, led the Cavaliers through a short but snappy final workout today, and Coach Dawson whisked them away to the seclusion of a nearby town. Dawson said his squad was in the best shape it has been in for several games.

N. C. to "Shoot Works" In Game.

Only two or three men could be classed as injured, he said, and these could be used if needed. It was obvious he meant to shoot the works to break Carolina's stretch in his first year as Virginia coach.

Carolina's strength, on the other hand, was problematical. Johnny Branch, the Tarheels' most sensational and colorful star, was back in the fold, but chances were that Stuart Chandler, who played the best ball of any Tarheel against Duke, would be out with a bad leg. Staton McIver, first string guard, and Frank Smith, second string tackle, held out of the Duke game due to injuries, were said to be ready, but it was doubtful whether these two or Juno Underwood, first string tackle, would be able to stand the gaff long. Rip Slusser, half back ace, may have to run behind a mask, too.

The probable line-up:

Virginia.	Position.	Carolina.
Condon	L. E.	Walker
Poss	L. T.	Hodges
Bryant	L. G.	McIver
Hains	Center.	Gilbreath
Dix	R. G.	Fysal
Burger	R. T.	Underwood
Wager	R. E.	Brown
Thomas	Q. B.	Branch
Myers	L. H.	Phipps or Croom
Zasar	R. H.	Slusser
Brewer	F. B.	Chandler or Lassiter

Improvement Is Shown By Injured Sandlotter

The condition of George Dyer, 21-year-old sandlot football player, who was injured in a game Sunday, was reported as being much better at Gallinger Hospital last night, where Dyer was removed after first being treated at Georgetown University Hospital. The youth spent a restful day, and attending physicians were encouraged when he was able to slightly move his right arm. His entire body was paralyzed by the injury Sunday. Although his condition is still critical, high hopes are entertained for his complete recovery. The respirator is being used to aid the youth's breathing.

Leaders Clash Sunday In Burroughs League

Football fans who have been following in great numbers the Burroughs Citizens Association games at Eighteenth and Otis street northeast on Sunday afternoons are pointing with great interest and enthusiasm to the Burroughs-Colonial contest next Sunday at 3 o'clock.

The Colonials are leading the league with two victories, while Burroughs and McMillan Park are runners-up with one victory and one tie game. The opening game at 1 o'clock will bring together McMillan Park and St. Pauls, whose recent victories will have them geared for a hard-fought, spirited battle.

fine timing and precision that Rockne taught, according to Thorpe, and the difference is illustrated in the blocking of the team on the offense. Whereas Rockne's players specialized at merely brushing an opposing player out of range of the play and kept their feet in an effort to provide more interference, Anderson's players are taking the opposition out bodily and fail to provide the added bit of interference that so often paved the way to touchdowns for Rockne's backs.

Japanese Golf Pros Arrive for Winter

Invaders to Match Strokes With Best Players in Various Tourneys.

San Francisco, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Three smiling Japanese smacked three amazingly long drives down the fairway of the Lake Merced course today and the first golf professionals from the Orient to invade these shores had fired the opening shots toward an American campaign they hope will lead to some glory, some gold and, much experience.

Tomekichi Miyamoto, 29, of Osaka; Kokichi Yasuda, 26, of Tokyo, and Rakuze Asmai, 23 of Yokohama, will match strokes with America's leading pros in the chain of winter tournaments that begin with the $7,500 open match play event here December 7. They speak but little English, but hope to hold their own in the universal language that requires accurate shot-making on the fairways and the greens.

First practice on the Merced course, where the tournament will be held, produced impressive results for Miyamoto and Yasuda, the former having a 75 on a par 72 layout and Yasuda a 76. Asami, youngest, but usually the steadiest of the trio, was off his game and took several strokes more.

They play methodically, almost mechanically. Each puts everything into his drive, with a tremendous swing. All putt alike, feet together, deliberate.

Loyola-Santa Clara In Day-Night Contest

New Orleans, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—For the convenience of those who wish to linger over their Thanksgiving turkey, something new in the way of combination day and night football will be inaugurated in the game between Loyola and Santa Clara, of California, here tomorrow.

The game was originally scheduled to start at 2:15 p. m., but out of consideration for holiday diners, the hour was moved back to 3:30, Central standard time.

The first half will be played in daylight and then the floodlights will be turned on the last two quarters.

Washington-Baltimore Soccerists in Battles

Washington and Baltimore soccer teams will engage in three games today with two to be played here and one in the Monumental City. British United will play the Imperial Club here on Monument Field No. 2 and Columbia Heights will meet the strong Wingfoot eleven on Monument Field No. 1.

Concord will travel to the Maryland city where it will play the Locust Point Rangers, one of the strongest teams in Maryland. In the games here Ed Kruse will handle the British United-Imperial contest and Melly Carleton the Columbia Heights-Wingfoot game.

Maryland U. Harriers Beat Hopkins, 26-29

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 25.—University of Maryland's State champion harriers outran the Johns Hopkins squad in their annual cross country competition this afternon at Homewood. By finishing in first, fourth, fifth, seventh and ninth positions, the Old Liners gained a total of 26 points, against 29 for the Blue Jays.

Cronin of Maryland, was the first to traverse the 4½-mile course, he covering the route in 24 minutes and 46 seconds. Two Hopkins men closely followed him across the line, Sneeringer being nineteen seconds behind and Hopkins 22.

The contestants, with their times, follow:

Cronin, Maryland, 24 minutes 46 seconds; Sneeringer, Hopkins, 25 minutes 5 seconds; Hopkins, Hopkins, 25 minutes 8 seconds; McGlathery, Maryland, 25 minutes 15 seconds; Hammerlumb, Maryland, 25 minutes 20 seconds; Holtzman, Hopkins, 25 minutes 29 seconds; Brown, Maryland, 25 minutes 30 seconds; Juax, Hopkins, 25 minutes 45 seconds; Naughton, Maryland, 25 minutes 58 seconds; Devendorf, Maryland, 26 minutes 9 secnods; Lewis, Hopkins, 26 minutes 19 seconds; Jones, Maryland, 26 minutes 38 seconds; Alpert, Hopkins, 27 minutes 45 seconds; Mele, Hopkins, 28 minutes 19 seconds.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

WAY back in the seventeenth century when the Pilgrim fathers were first thinking about this Thanksgiving Day idea, it was customary for a man desiring to have a nice, juicy drum stick for dinner to shoulder his trusty flintlock and saunter forth into the wilds in search of his feathered quarry.

Last night Larry Fitzgerald, of the Knights of Columbus League, furnished the modern version of how dad gets the main course on today's menu. Larry picked up his trusty bowling ball, walked into Convention Hall, and figuratively speaking, bumped off two, plump turkeys. Larry's game was 140, which counted for the first and his set was 386, which accounted for Mr. Gobbler No. 2. However, not anxious to have too much Thanksgiving, Larry passed turkey No. 2 along to the next high set man, and Freddy Moore won.

The matches resulted in Champlain's 2-1 victory over Trinidad, De Soto's clean sweep over Palos, Columbia's odd game win over San Domingo, Ovando's trio of wins over San Salvador, and Genoa's 2-1 margin over Marquette.

The Hecht Co. continued its wild antics in the Business Men's League at Convention Hall with a three-game win over Fitzpatrick's Service Station. Call Carl put the skids upder Brodts and won the odd game. Colonial Ice Cream talked Convention Hall out of the odd game, and C. & P. Telephone did the same to Briggs Meat Products. S. Kann's Sons relieved Edmonds of the final tilt to win, 2-1, in the final. Claude Ringer, of Brodts, bagged the high game honors with his 140, and Rosenberg's 362 set took the set laurels. Hecht's 573 and Brodts 1,648 accounted for the team awards.

A new individual set record for the Bankers League was established by Doying, of Washington Loan & Trust No. 1, in the nightcap of a double-header at Arcadia last night. Doying's new mark is 395. He was followed by Geier, of the Bank of Washington, who rolled a game of 139 and set of 372. The Bank of Washington took the game honors with a 580 and missed tying the Washington Loan & Trust's set of 1,618.

Ed Hurley, Ralph Hunter and the Calvary M. E. team starred in the Georgetown Church League at Arcadia. The first named garnered high game with a 130, Hunter took the set prize with a 344 and Calvary's 544 and 1,603 were good for the team laurels. In the matches Mount Vernon M. E. and Peck No. 1 were recipients of swell whitewashing jobs received at the hands of Calvary M. E. and West Washington Baptists. Covenent No. 1 and Grace Episcopal took the odd one from Peck No. 2 and Peck No. 3, respectively.

The Lions, Monarchs, Reciprocity and Cosmopolitan teams all won 2-1 victories in the Civics Club circuit at Arcadia. Newcomers was the only quint able to put over a three-game win, and their triumph was rather dull, coming as a forfeit from Round Table. Optimists, Civitans, Rotary and Kiwanis were the losing aggregations.

In winning from Meyer Davis, the Blicks hung up a new all-time set record for future greats to shoot at with a mark of 1,613. That should give the dopesters something to chew on in addition to the well-known bird today. The other matches rolled in this league resulted in Lucky Strike's 2-1 win over the Bill Woods, which is a victory for Bill Wood anyway you take it; Recreation took Takoma Park for the odd game; Columbia oddgamed its way to victory over King Pin; Georgetown treated Deal Service to the same brand of hospitality, and Convention Hall stopped Rendezvous. Helen Windbeck's 342 set and Frances Heil's 136 game provided the outstanding scores.

Central Armature No. 2 won the only clean sweep recorded in the Electrical League at Convention Hall. Creel Bros. No. 2 furnished the opposition. What opposition? Central Armature No. 1 escaped with the odd game in its match with Exide Battery. Miller-Dudley took a 2-1 win over Graybar, E. B. Warren won two from Pepco Service Station No. 3 and Pepco Service Station No. 1 won the odd tilt from Creel Bros. No. 1.

The Convention Hall Afternoon League got off to a flying start yesterday afternoon with The Washington Post pinspillers winning the lion's share of the honors. The Post Circulation five topped Occidental Hotel, 2 to 1, and the Composing Room did itself proud with a clean sweep over the Evening Star. Boy, that one's worth its weight in ten pins. The Post Press Team will probably be ostracized for losing its final tilt with Bond Vitamin D. That Vitamin D must have exerted itself on the Breadmen. Scott, of The Post Composing Room, won high game honors with 129, and Sherwood, Post Circulation, took set laurels with a score of 343. Composing Room won both game and set awards with scores of 532 and 1,553, respectively. Following the games the team managers put their heads together, got over in a corner and elected "Chick" Darnell president, George Bergling, vice president, and Charley Bell, treasurer-official scorer.

Bonzai took most of the marbles in the Nautical League matches at Columbia last night, winning two from Anchor and knocking down high team game and set with scores of 563 and 1,582. Purdy, of the same team, packed away 356 bottles for individual set laurels, and Ryder, of Washington Canoe No. 3, rolled the highest game of the evening, 136. All of the matches were decided by the odd game. Washington Canoe No. 1 downed Drifters No. 1, Drifters No. 2 turned back Potomac, Colonials nosed out Washington Canoe No. 2, and Washington Canoe No. 3 won from El Dorado.

The Rs had it in the Bureau of Standards loop at Columbia last night. Roser and Rudy hit the maples for games of 132 each to tie for that honor, and Roser continued his good work to chalk up high set with a mark of 363. B. T. U., which knocked Ceramists off for a 2-to-1 victory, won team honors with its 550 game and 1,631 set. In the other matches Industrial won all three from Technologists, Chemists downed Engineers, 2 to 1, and Mimeos flattened Files by the same margin.

It's Thanksgiving Day for everybody but the Meyer Davis team in the Ladies' District League. Last night John Blick's representatives took most of the thankfulness out of the Davis women by winning all the turkey and all the games at King Pin. The scores were: John Blicks, 537, 541, 535; Meyer Davis, 468, 470, 501. Mrs. Jessie Viehmeyer's game of 118 and 324 set were high for the evening. Well, the Meyer Davis team should at least be thankful there were not six games in that set.

A 39-pin handicap may be a big help to some teams, and a big hindrance to their opponents, but 39 pins turned out to be just so much extra and useless work for the official scorer of the King Pin Business Men's League, as the Five Greeks walloped the Maccabees for a clean sweep last night. The Greeks' games were 527, 531 and 540, and the Macs, 507, 483, 521. Another crew, First Americans, starting from scratch, won all three despite its Union Wallpaper opponents' advantage of four pins.

Central Plays Today In Charlottesville

Central High's grid team, a 6-to-0 victor in yesterdays' C Club game against Washington-Lee, winds up its season today in Charlottesville, Va., where the light, but rugged, Charlottesville fives will be met.

Central will make its final appearance without the appearance of either Frank Cumberland or Hank Gibbins, its outstanding players. The team will be guided by Emmett Buscher, end, and will have McKenzie, Myers, Porter and Dunlop in the back field, with Buddy Nau as reserve.

HOON CALLS SIGNALS AT NAVY

Hawaiian Star Is Impressive in Trial as Quarter Back.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 25.—That Edgar E. (Rip) Miller, generalissimo of gridiron work at the Naval Academy, is determined to have three or more capable field generalissimos for possible emergency service in the two remaining big games of the season, Pennsylvania on December 5, and West Point, December 12, was indicated in today's practice session when he made the surprise shift by placing Gordon Chung Hoon, the Hawaiian, at quarter back, this shifty youngster having been a first-call substitute half back all season.

"Bert" Davis, the regular signal barker, who contracted a rather severe cold since last Saturday, again was absent from practice. Yesterday his place was taken by "Jack" Denny, who filled the position in most of the early season games. Today, however, Miller and his chief half back coach, Christy Flanagan, concentrated their attention on Chung Hoon and Moncure, who alternated in directing the play of the regulars in a scrimmage session against the shock troops of Squad B.

Chung Hoon's Work Outstanding.

The work of Chung Hoon attracted particular attention. He got away for substantial gains time and again. The Hawaiian weighs 160 pounds; and aside from shiftiness, he is fast, a mighty clever passer as well as receiver, good at off-tackle thrusts and capable in the secondary defense as well as "safety" man. He has performed noteworthy service as a substitute half in most of the games this year and was at his best in the game against Notre Dame.

Chung Hoon also is one of the best kickers of the squad. With these attributes, if the experiment of the mentors in converting him into a quarter is successful, indications are that Davis will have a hard time holding on to his job.

Except for this change, the line-up of the big team remained the same as yesterday, Thompson continuing at left guard in place of Reedy, who is on the injured list. Offensive and defensive work in the overhead game again featured today's practice. Northwest winds brought the first chill temperature that has prevailed here in nearly a month, and as a result the players went at their task with lots of zip.

Tomorrow is a holiday for the entire student body, and the squad will be enabled to engage in a lengthy practice session. The team of Squad B and the University of Maryland Freshmen will stage a holiday attraction for home fans. The game will start at 10:30 in the morning.

TENNESEE MEETS N. Y. U. FOR CHARITY

unemployment relief here and in Knoxville.

The game eliminates the chance of the proposed play-off between Tennessee and Tulane, undefeated rivals for the Southern Conference championship, but it embellishes a post-season slate in which the crack teams of Dixie take a conspicuous part, ranging all the way from New York to Los Angeles. Both Tennessee and Tulane also are under consideration for an invitation to play in the Rose Bowl classic New Year's Day.

Tennessee's game here marks the Vols' first trip outside the South since they began their victory march under the coaching of Maj. Bob Neyland, old Army star, in 1926. Their last intersectional contest with an Eastern opponent was in 1923, when they were walloped by the Army, 41-0, at West Point.

Record Unmatched By Any Team.

Since Beyland took charge at Knoxville, aided by Paul Parker and Bill Britton, the Volunteers have traveled through six seasons with a record of 52 victories, 3 ties and only 2 defeats. No major team in the country can match that record, even though a share of it has been compiled at the expense of minor foes. Their last defeat was at the hands of Alabama in 1930 and the other setback was administered by Vanderbilt in 1926, the first year of the Neyland regime.

Tennessee Plays in East First Time Since 1923

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The University of Tennessee's appearance in New York December 5 in a charity football game with the New York Violets will be its first game in the East since 1923 when it was defeated by the Army, 41 to 0, at West Point.

In 1921 Tennessee played Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H., and was beaten 14 to 3. These have been the only major intersectional games played by the Volunteers.

Tennessee first gained football prominence in 1926 with the coming of Head Coach Bob Neyland and his assistants, Bob B. Parker and William H. Britton, former Army players.

Since then their teams have won 52 games, lost 2 and tied 3. Vanderbilt University defeated Tennessee in 1926. After that, Tennessee went for 33 games without a loss, but was tied three times during that period, once by Vanderbilt and twice by Kentucky.

Alabama, the team that played in the Rose Bowl last year, was the last team to defeat Tennessee, beating it in 1930. Since then the Tennessee Team has won all games. Trouncing Alabama, 25 to 0, and Vanderbilt, 21 to 7, this season.

Besides its record of victories in the South, Tennessee boasts one of the best six-year defense records in the country. Only 170 points have been scored against Tennessee, while a total of 1,408 points have been amassed.

below the strength of Washington-Lee. Washington-Lee started a major offense late in the period when Eaton intercepted a pass from McKenzie in midfield and ran it 10 yards in the direction of Central's goal. Successive bucks brought it to Central's 4-yard line, led by Bunch, Simpson and Eaton, but here Pistolis broke up the attack with a sledge-hammer tackle of Eaton. McKenzie pulled Central out of the hole with a nice 20-yard run.

The final whistle ended Washington-Lee's fourth offensive on Central's 15-yard line.

It was the final local high school game, and was witnessed by a crowd of a little more than 1,000, who contributed in the neighborhood of $250 for the benefit of the District's needy.

Florida Prepared For Coast Battle

Meet Los Angeles Eleven Today in Attempt to Uphold South's Record.

Los Angeles, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Two football teams which tomorrow will stake their chances for victory on passing attacks, Florida's 'Gators and the University of California at Los Angeles Bruins, made final preparation today for their Thanksgiving football fiesta at the Olympic Stadium.

Coach Charles Bachman, after taking his team on a tour of Hollywood this morning, sent them through a secret workout at the Olympic Stadium, brushing up the attack he promises to launch through the air.

Meanwhile, Coach Bill Spaulding had the Bruins busy at similar tactics. The U. C. L. A. chief threat this year has been passes, and while the best tosser, Leonard Bergdahl, will be unable to play, the Bruin mentor has been grooming Capt. Norman Duncan in hopes of defeating the team from below the Mason-Dixon line.

Florida has a remarkable record to uphold tomorrow, for no team from the South has ever accepted defeat on the Pacific Coast. Fifty thousand persons are expected to watch the game.

TakomaPark Seeks Legalized Boxing

Legion Would Stage Ring Shows; Move Failed Last Year.

Cooperation in a campaign to secure legalized boxing in Takoma Park, Md., was asked in a letter from the local post of the American Legion read at a meeting of the Takoma Park, Md., Volunteer Fire Department last night. The request was turned over to the committee on ways and means for study.

The letter was from L. E. Beacock, commander of the recently formed Takoma Park Legion Post, and asked the firemen to appoint a committee to cooperate with the legionnaires in securing permission from the county and town authorities to have legalized boxing for Takoma Park.

The fire department for nearly a year carried on a campaign before Mayor Ben G. Davis for legalized boxing to permit the fire department to earn money for its debt, but was unsuccessful and the firemen felt dubious about the possibility of the veterans changing the mayor's mind.

J. S. Barrows, W. M. Green, O. W. Scherger, H. P. Ware and A. L. Reynolds were elected a nominating committee to prepare a slate of officers for the annual election in January.

Don George Tosses Zarynoff for Goal

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Ed Don George, of North Java, N. Y., defeated George "Count" Zarynoff, Russian heavyweight, in the main wrestling bout at St. Nicholas arena tonight when his opponent was thrown over George's head, landing heavily on his back, and was knocked unconscious. Zarynoff landed on the boards at the edge of the ring. He was removed from the ring unconscious and taken to the hospital. The extent of his injuries was not immediately determined. The bout lasted just ten minutes. George weighed 219 pounds, Zarynoff 200.

Other results: Len Macaluso, 208, East Aurora, N. Y., threw Tony Rocco, 200, Italy, with a flying tackle in 28:55; Carlos Henriquez, 190, Spain, threw Paul Kochanski, 192, Poland, with a flying tackle in 24:30; Harry Cornsweet, 204, Cleveland, and Mihaly Orgovanyi, 203, Hungary, drew, 30:00; Billy Bartrush, 220, Chicago, threw Fritz Herman, Germany, with a body scissors in 10:35; Joe Green, 201, New York, threw Yamka, 200, Chicago, with a flying tackle in 4:05.

Baker's Mother Gets Ball Won by Trojans

Los Angeles, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—To the mother of Johnny Maker, University of Southern California guard, who kicked the field goal in the last few minutes of play to defeat Notre Dame, 16 to 14, Saturday, went the victory football when it was returned here today by the Trojans.

The team by unanimous consent informally presented it to Mrs. John W. Baker at the train.

COALMEN WIN FIRST.

The Delaware & Hudson Coal quint got off on the right foot at Central High School last night with a 14-7 victory over the United Typewriter Grays in a game featured by the close guarding of both teams. The Grays held a 7-2 advantage over their opponents until the Coalmen's second stringers were inserted in the fray. Sunday the Delaware & Hudson crew take on the Knights of Columbus five in a practice game on the Caseys' floor.

NORTHERNS TO DANCE.

The Northern Athletic Club will give a dance next Wednesday night, starting at 10 o'clock, at the Arcade Ballroom. Proceeds derived from the affair will help defray medical bills incurred by players injured while playing with the football team. Admission will be 50 cents.

POP WARNER RETURNS TO EAST

Husky Stanford Team Arrives for Dartmouth Battle.

BELMONT, Mass., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Glen "Pop" Warner, making his first visit to this football sector in twenty years, today put his squad of 30-odd Stanford football huskies, who will clash with Dartmouth in the Harvard Stadium on Saturday, through a long workout on one of the level fairways on the Belmont Spring Country Club course.

Old Pop, here last with the famous Carlisle Indians, said the long trip from California did not harm his players and that all but two, Milton Hand, regular left tackle, and his substitute, George Grey, were ready for the return engagement with the Indians from Hanover, N. H.

Warner does not expect that cold weather, reported to be heading East, will hamper his Californian athletes.

Rain Only Fear Of Coach.

"Unless it gets so cold that the ground is frozen, I don't think low temperatures will make much difference with us," he said. "What I do fear is rain, muddy weather and a wet ball would do us a lot more harm than cold, for we have not had a bit of practice in mud all fall."

This year's Stanford Team is rated by Warner as slightly less powerful than the 1930 outfit that defeated Dartmouth at Palo Alto.

"Defensively, this year's team is one of the best," he said. "We have kept down our opponents' scores all season. But on the offense it has not shown the punch of last year's team."

It is unlikely that the Stanford Team will have a pregame workout in the stadium. Warner has not been inside of that sports arena since 1911, when his Indians gave Harvard an 18-to-15 licking, thanks to the drop-kicking of the great Jim Thorpe.

Plans to have the Stanford squad journey to Providence for tomorrow's Colgate-Brown game were changed, and instead the Cardinals will attend the Boston College-Holy Cross charity game in the stadium.

18 Gridmen Awarded Letters by Devitt Prep

Eighteen Devitt Prep gridders were awarded major letters for the 1931 football season yesterday in an assembly held just before the school was dismissed for the Thanksgiving holidays. It concluded the worst year Devitt has had on the gridiron, despite the presence of Charley Mehlor, full back; "Punch" O'Hara, center; Bill Childress, end, and Don Bradley, quarter back, all seasoned high school players.

Insignias were presented to Capt. Childress, Bob Hutchinson, Don Bradley, Charlie Mehlor, Moe Mayer, Buster Fawell, Eddie Clarke, Slim Bateson, Don Knessl, Mike Gatti, Fred Chesley, Gene Kelly, Max Long, Harold Slick, Paul Campbell, "Punch" O'Hara, Bill Wheeler and Jack Armstrong.

The team finished its season under the coaching of Don Childress, former Central High and Wesleyan end.

A. A. U. Head to Urge College Meet Shift

San Francisco, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Voicing the opinion that the 1932 intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field meet and the American Olympic trials were scheduled for dates too close together, Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, said today he would recommend a change in date of the collegiate championship.

The I. C. A. A. A. A. meet is scheduled for Berkeley next July 8-9, and the Olympic trials for Stanford University Stadium July 15-16. Such a short lapse of time, Brundage believes, would work to the disadvantage of those athletes competing in the collegiate event who also will try out for the Olympic Team.

While Brundage has no connection with the I. C. A. A. A. A., he said he would telegraph officials in charge in an effort to have the date of the meet moved up to the latter part of June.

ANTONELLI WINNER IN ALEXANDRIA BOUT

it off on Heine Miller's corpuscle-pocked polo shirt and a moment later all three of them went down in a flurry of blows while the referee was separating the boys. Tramberis came back in the final round, chin wide open and slugging like mad, but Antonelli held on and finished even up.

Finnazo Winner Over Leonard.

Sam Finnazo, 155-pounder, of the Baltimore Finnanzos, had no trouble beating Bobbie Leonard, a local gob, in the best of the other bouts. Leonard has a right that starts down around the rear end of the cellar furnace, and Finnanzo, who is improving tremendously, cut him up so badly that Leonard seconds tossed in a very soiled towel late in the fourth chapter.

Kid Groves, Mohawk boxer, made a series of red ribbons of Gene Campbell, of Baltimore, in the semifinal, 6 rounds; Bobby Eusnick, Baltimore welterweight, gave Billie Hooe, a local lad, his first licking in a year, and Lynn King, a Warrenton boy, outjabbed Bill Welton in another four-rounder.

A taffy colored boy named Leo Dixon won the free-for-all, and $6.38 in cash, from four assorted colleagues.

ANACOSTIA TO PLAY.

The Anacostia Eagles 135-pound team will clash with the Congress Heights eleven today at 3 p. m. on the latter's field. The two teams are carrying on a rivalry inaugurated several years ago. Manager Yde Webb requests all members of the Anacostia team to report at Thirteenth street and Good Hope road southeast promptly at 1:30 p. m.

DIXIANAS WIN.

The Dixiana quint took the measure of the Monroe A. C. by a score of 26-20 last night. Levin, of the winning team, was high scorer of the night, with 8 points to his credit.

Sandlot Stars Play Sunday In Mohawk-Celtic Battle

WHILE a majority of the players who will comprise the Celtic and Mohawk elevens Sunday when they clash for the South Atlantic League crown are former college gridmen, and in some cases outstanding stars, the "sandlotter" has not been chased out of the "big time" Sunday football hereabouts. It is an interesting fact that Joe Sweeney, who learned most of his football on the cinders around the Washington Terminal, is coaching the Celtics.

Sweeney, who reached his peak in football with the Apaches, never graced a college eleven. He mixed education and football for short periods at Eastern and Gonzaga High, but oddly never gained the role of a star.

It is a tribute to Sweeney's natural ability and his football sense that he is coaching a team which includes a long list of varsity lettermen, at least one of whom was ranked All-American by a number of selectors.

The added burden of coaching has not affected the play of the Northeast boy. In fact, Sweeney is playing better football this year than he did for the Mohawks last season, despite the fact that he has been a target for opposing teams in every game.

There will be a number of other sandlot players in Sunday's game that the higher-learning gridmen can not seem to push back on the bench. Among others are Admiral Dewey, Clinton Price and the Hensley brothers, of the Celtics, and Fee Colliere, Snall DeLabre and Eddie Eddinger, of the Mohawks.

Art Browning, of the Mohawks, is the oldest man on either team in point of service if not in actual age. Browning has been getting in many games this year. His place kick for a point after touchdown gave the Mohawks an important victory last season.

RAIL BONDS SLUMP TO NEW LOW LEVEL

Market Weakness Mystifies Traders; Utility Issues Join List's Decline.

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The bond market today greeted the holiday eve with a long list of rails at new lows, and utilities and industrials following on the downward trail.

Dealers were somewhat mystified by the weakness displayed in various loans, as no especially disturbing news appeared during the day. The general decline, however, was attributed in part to sympathy with the ailing stock list.

Total bond sales were $8,279,000, or about $2,000,000 less than yesterday's which indicated to some traders that much of the weakly held securities had been liquidated and that there probably would be fewer offerings at lower prices after the holiday.

Cause of Decline.

The downward action of the railroads was said to indicate that many traders and investors have little hope the unions will agree to a voluntary wage reduction at the general meeting of the brotherhoods in Chicago, December 8, and that the carriers may enter a long and costly battle to obtain relief.

The average price of 20 utilities and 20 railroads touched bottom for the year, and the total average of 60 corporate bonds registered a new low.

Among the carriers that hit bottom were Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s and the same road's 4½s of 1933; Boston & Maine 5s, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul general 4½s, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Pacific 5s, most of the Chicago & Northwestern issues, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific refunding 4s, Kansas City Southern refunding 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s, series F, most of the New York Central list.

Federal Loans Quiet.

One sale of Indianapolis & Louisville 4s, 1956, the first since last February, showed a loss of 51½ points, to a new low of 35. This, however, was considered as a "freak" sale and not indicative of the market trend.

Today's sharp slump followed several days of pronounced weakness in various prominent issues, although the rails generally are blamed for the reactive tendency in other obligations.

United States Government obligations were rather quiet, slight losses and gains being about equally divided between the Liberties and Treasuries.

Most of the foreign loans showed an inclination to follow in the wake of the domestics and closed irregular, although Japanese government bonds were taken at somewhat higher quotations. European and South Americans were mixed.

STOCKS AGAIN YIELD TO SELLING LOSSES

Rails Continue Heavy Drops in Prices; Copper Sags to New Low.

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Security and commodity markets gave ground easily today under light selling, and on the eve of Thanksgiving Day a number of primary markets found themselves near the October bottoms.

Selling was stimulated in the stock market by disappointment over indications of a protracted railroad labor wage controversy. Weakness of wheat, corn, cotton, bar silver and other commodities added to the movement. Except around midday there was no quick pace to the downward drift, but its persistence continued right up to the close and stocks were close to the day's extreme low points at the finish of trading.

Heaviest losses in the rail group were recorded by Santa Fe, New Haven and Union Pacific, which were down 3 to as much as 4 points. Losses of a point or more occurred in Pennsylvania, Lackawanna, Rock Island and Southern Pacific.

Pennsylvania broke through 25 to the lowest price at which it was ever traded on the New York Stock Exchange. United States Steel, American Can, Westinghouse Electric and International Telephone led the decline in the industrials.

Trade news was, in the main, not favorable, although it was by no means surprising. Estimated capacity of the Nation's steel mills at 29 per cent was a shade less than generally expected, but decline of 2 per cent for the week was said by steel men to have been in line with their anticipations. Further scaling down of production seems probable as the industry goes into December with its year-end holidays in the offing. Ingot production as low as 25 per cent is considered entirely probable.

Foreign cables contained little new. According to some Wall street advices there was little likelihood of the German government permitting the Berlin Boerse to reopen, because of the delicate situation now faced, before the turn of the year at the earliest. The resolution of the Russian Diet calling for release from the Young plan was regarded as an adverse development.

Foreign Exchange Rates.

Foreign exchange rates were mixed with considerable selling of sterling reported from London. The cable quotation closed at $3.62 off 7 cents. Modest gains were scored by Scandinavian currencies and by the Japanese yen.

Copper went to a new low price of 6¼ cents, but wheat while it reacted around 2 cents or more continued considerably above its lowest quotations of the year. Corn gave way more than a cent while cotton practically erased its gains of yesterday with declines of 90 cents to $1.20 per bale.

Money rates showed no important change, although bankers acceptance rates were quoted ⅛ of 1 per cent higher. There has been considerable selling of bills by banks to take care of holiday and month-end requirements. The week's Federal Reserve statements will be deferred until next Friday and all American markets will be closed tomorrow.

Ohio Bank Closes.

Westerville, Ohio, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The Bank of Westerville was closed today by a resolution of its board of directors, and the State Banking Department was asked to take charge of its affairs.

The closing was attributed to withdrawals of deposits and depreciation in securities held by the bank. In its last public statement the bank reported capital of $50,000 surplus and undivided profits of $59,000, and total resources of $825,351.

Chase National Plans New Bank Consolidation

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—A plan for consolidation of the American Express Bank & Trust Co., an affiliate of the Chase National Bank, with Chase National and its affiliates was announced today.

The move is in line with previous steps taken by Chase National Bank interests toward concentration under one corporate organization of business activities of the same general nature. It is proposed that the banking business of the American Express Bank & Trust Co. be consolidated with that of Chase National Bank, effective about December 19, and that its trust business be consolidated with that of the Equitable Trust Co., of New York, a Chase affiliate, organized in 1930 to preserve the name and to carry on a general trust business.

TEA HOUSE SLAYING CLEAN-UP IS JOINED BY JUSTICE AGENTS

Experts Brought to Aid Drive Against White Slavery Believed Disclosed.

INVESTIGATORS ARRIVE FROM DISTANT POINTS

Five Women Witnesses to Bladensburg Killing Held in Peril of Lives.

A score of the most expert agents of the Department of Justice, stationed in outlying districts, have been called in to take charge of a general white-slave clean-up along the Eastern Coast, it was learned yesterday.

Investigation of the Bladensburg roadhouse shooting early Monday morning is declared to have disclosed a well-organized traffic and the Department of Justice is understood to have been working for some time to break this up.

While none of the officials of the bureau would comment on the situation yesterday, it is known that a number of the most competent research investigators of the department have been recalled to Washington from distant points for assignment to the case.

Specialist Brought Here.

It was learned definitely last night that the Department of Justice has placed at least one veteran agent on the case, and that several others have been told to come to Washington for orders. The agent already assigned to the illicit traffic behind the shooting is a specialist on white-slave cases. He was brought to Washington from the Kentucky city where he has been stationed.

Although they have been unable to break the silence maintained by most of the many witnesses held, Detectives Cornelius Roche and William Feehley, of Baltimore, have learned that the battle was started when one of the inmates of the house fired at the holdup men. As the bandit gang was collecting its loot from the six women and fourteen men, John Bartlett turned to the manager, Charles Leavitt, and whispered:

"They're going to put me on the spot! Let's get them!"

The two men then attempted to draw their guns, it was said. The five bandits opened fire, killing one man. Efforts made by the Baltimore detectives to learn from fingerprints on the five guns found who had used them were fruitless, however. A number of persons handled the weapons after they were picked up.

Three Cabmen Freed.

A car which was found on the Bowie road early yesterday was believed to have some connection with the case. Its license tags were listed to R. G. Megandt, of 2125 Huntingdon avenue, Baltimore. Mr. Megandt said that the car was disabled near the Bowie race track and that he left it beside the road last Saturday.

He had no explanation for the broken glass in the car, which was apparently shattered by a bullet, nor for the three dents in the side and back of the machine. In the back of the heavy coach are two dents, close together, from which the paint has been scraped. There is a similar mark on the side of the machine. The right rear pane of glass is broken.

Three taxi drivers arrested in Washington Monday night were released yesterday morning. They are Carl Prinkert, who was wounded in the battle; Fred Prinkert, his brother, and John D. McComas.

Two Freed on Bond.

Two of the men who were held as material witnesses were released on bond of $250 each, which was furnished by Elmer Pumphrey, a professional bondsman. They were Raymond Sisler and Arthur Crockett. Others who are being held are Jean Gordon, Mae Dix, Mary Wilson, Helen Conley and Margerie Kushner, who are being held for bail of $1,500. Two men still held in bond of $100 each are Sam Kushner and George Osborne. The Kushner woman, when arrested, gave her name as Dorothy Jordan, but she now claims to be the wife of the Kushner being held.

Authorities agreed to release the nine on bond yesterday when they came to the conclusion that the women had been threatened with death if they talked. Having given up hope of getting a clue from them there was no reason to hold them any longer, it was felt.

There are now five women and two men being held in Prince Georges County, three men in Philadelphia, two men under guard at Casualty Hospital, and two men and a woman are patients. The dead man, Grover Amick, of 1116 Monroe street, was buried at his former home in Winchester, Va., Tuesday.

Grover Amick Buried; Shot to Death at Holdup

Winchester, Va., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The body of Grover J. Amick, 27, who was shot and killed Monday in a holdup of the Colonial Tea Room at Bladensburg, Md., was interred today in Mount Hebron Cemetery. Funeral services were conducted at the home of his father, James L. Amick.

Mr. Amick had been employed at a filling station in Washington.

He is survived by his father and three sisters, Mrs. W. J. Jones, of Milford, Conn.; Mrs. William Aiken, of New Haven, Conn., and Miss Margaret Amick, of Winchester.

Wrong Address Printed In Case of Assault

Through an error, a story in The Post of last Monday gave the address of William Anderson, colored, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, as 2133 L street northwest. Anderson gave his address as 2123 L street northwest. The Post regrets the error. Elbert G. Hubert lives at the former address. He had no connection with the case.

Anderson was sentenced to a year in jail yesterday. He was charged with having snatched a revolver from the holster of Private E. R. Waters, of the Third Precinct, while being searched at the police station. He was disarmed by Privates C. W. Feagan and J. H. Quinn, of the Third Precinct, after a scuffle in which the policemen were slightly injured. Anderson had been arrested for assaulting another man with a knife.

Playful Horse, Running Wild, Upsets Traffic

A dashing white steed last night disrupted traffic along Georgia avenue northwest, scattered pedestrians, upset the customers at a barbecue stand and finally stumbled into a parked car, damaging it, before walking calmly into the stables at Walter Reed Hospital to give itself up.

The horse's first public appearance, at least the first reported to police, was at Georgia avenue and Varnum street, where it lurched across the pavement, scattering about twenty young men and narrowly missing a woman who was walking along Georgia avenue.

It lurched against the wall of a confectionary store at 4300 Georgia avenue and nearly smashed the plate glass window. Then the steed rebounded and continued down the sidewalk to the Parkview Service Co., where it decided to take to the road again.

In cutting between two parked automobiles, it stumbled against one owned by H. R. Clements, of 5414 Eighteenth street northwest, parked in front of the service station, bending the lights and fenders and giving Mr. Clements a repair bill of about $40. It dropped its saddle and a shoe in this collision, but went on without them.

The horse cut through the heavy traffic along Georgia avenue. Reaching a barbecue stand at Georgia avenue and Gallatin street, it again decided to go exploring and dashed through the yard, scattering customers.

Its play ended at Walter Reed, where it calmly walked into the stables. The owner of the horse appeared at the hospital later and claimed it, but hospital attendants failed to get his name.

ADOLPH NEUBECK, 56, DIES IN STAIRS FALL

Daughter Finds Painting Company Head With His Neck Broken.

Adolph Neubeck, 56 years old, of 4333 Kansas avenue northwest, head of Neubeck & Co., painters, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when he slipped and fell down a flight of stairs at his residence. Physicians found his neck was broken in the fall.

Mr. Neubeck started upstairs about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and had almost reached the top step of the second floor when his foot slipped. He fell backwards down the entire flight. His head struck the floor at the bottom.

His daughter, Miss Gertrude Neubeck, 18 years old, who was on the first floor, heard her father fall and rushed to the stairs to find his body. She called Dr. Alfred Norcross, of Ninth and Taylor streets northwest, who pronounced Mr. Neubeck dead. A certificate of accidental death was issued by the coroner.

Mr. Neubeck's wife, Mrs. Ella G. Neubeck, was not at home at the time, and did not learn of his death until her return about an hour later. In addition to Gertrude he is survived by two other daughters, Mary and Ella, and a son, Francis, all of Washington.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning from St. Gabriel's Catholic Church, where requiem mass will be said at 10 a. m. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Contractor Freed In Death of Infant

Child Succumbed to Fumes From Heater, District Inspector Said.

The District grand jury yesterday refused to indict Charles Broome, plumbing contractor, 614 F street northeast, on a manslaughter charge in connection with death of Frances Daniels, an infant, of 1016 Seventeenth place northeast.

The child, according to testimony at a coroner's inquest, died in Sibley Hospital and on strength of statements by a District inspector, the contractor was ordered held for action of the grand jury for allegedly having improperly installed a hot water heater in the Daniels home.

Alleged negligence was believed to have permitted gas fumes to escape into the house instead of directing them out of the house. Daniel Curtin, the man who actually installed the heater, died of injuries received when he fell from an automobile last week.

Broome, testifying at the inquest, declared that all of his workmen had been ordered to pipe the exhaust from gas heaters so that fumes would go outside the houses.

Park Board Seeks To Keep Secretary

To Ask Civil Service to Set Aside Customary Procedure.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission is endeavoring to set aside the customary procedure of the Civil Service Commission in order to retain its newly-appointed secretary, Thomas S. Settle, it was learned yesterday.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the commission, said the civil service body will be asked to qualify Mr. Settle despite any hitches which have come up. He suggested that a loophole might be found in the law to permit the appointment.

As far as the examination itself was concerned, Mr. Settle led the list of 79 applicants, and even with the five credits given for military service, he was tied for high mark with the leaders. The hitch in his certification lies in the fact that he was credited to Virginia, which is beyond its quota for appointments. He is serving a six months' appointment.

Rapid Transport Hearing Deferred.

The public hearing on the valuation of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. properties was postponed again yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission from November 30 to December 14.

TWO THIEVES HOLD LAUNDRY EMPLOYES AT BAY IN ROBBERY

Take $50 in Cash and Loot Safe of Valued Papers; Make Escape.

WOMAN AVERTS SEIZURE OF ADDITIONAL MONEY

Keeps Keys Concealed With Arms and Tells Intruders "Boss Has Them."

Threatened by a gun in the pocket of one of two robbers who entered the establishment shortly before closing time last night, three persons in the office of the Conger Laundry, Twenty-third street and New York avenue northwest, were forced to stand by helplessly while the invaders took $50 in cash from a cash register and looted the safe of valuable papers.

Quick thinking on the part of one of the young women in the office prevented the robbers from obtaining additional money, for she concealed with folded arms, a string around her neck on which were the keys to the drawers of the safe.

Knocks Down Telephone.

C. H. Conger, jr., 2718 Twenty-seventh street northwest, a member of the firm; Miss Helen Standback, 22 years old, 618 A street southeast, and Miss Edna LaCorte, 21 years old, 930 Twenty-sixth street northwest, were in the office when the robbers entered. Mr. Conger was at the telephone.

The larger of the two intruders leaped over the counter as the second, a small man, covered the trio with a gun concealed in his coat. Knocking the telephone from Mr. Conger's hand, the larger robber ordered him to lie on the floor.

He then took $50 from the cash register and went to the safe, the doors of which were open. Finding the drawers locked, he demanded the keys. Miss LaCorte had the keys on a string around her neck, but successfully concealed this and told the robber "the boss has the keys and he is out in the plant."

Threat of Violence.

Miss Standback endeavored to reach a desk on which a series of bell signals is attached in an effort to summon aid, but the robbers ordered her away from it under threat of violence.

As Mr. Conger lay on the floor, he pleaded with the robbers not to shoot his brother, Jay Conger, manager of the laundry, should the latter come into the office from the plant, as was expected momentarily during the five minutes taken up by the theft.

In addition to the papers taken from the safe, the larger robber took an old pistol. The men disappeared south on Twenty-third street after issuing a warning to those in the office not to move for a "full minute."

Report Upon Reno School Site Is Near

Davison Hurries Study of Protests of Board Over Delay.

Maj. D. A. Davison, Acting Engineer Commissioner, is making a thorough study of the Reno School site controversy and expects to report his findings to the District Commissioners either the end of this week or the first of next.

While he had previously decided to postpone the purchase of the secondary site, for which there is $180,000 available, Maj. Davison is making the second investigation because of the protests of the Board of Education to the Commissioners over the delay.

As Congress convenes within ten days, however, the further delay to obtain more specific instruction from congressional committees would not seriously hamper the school authorities in their efforts to obtain an appropriation for a senior high school, the Commissioners believe.

BICENTENNIAL CHIEF DENIES HE WILL QUIT

Kruckman Says Report of Intention to Resign Is "Untrue."

Arnold Kruckman, director of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission, positively denied last night that he plans to resign from the commission or that his retirement is contemplated.

Mr. Kruckman made the denial after published reports appeared that his resignation had been arranged. Beyond refuting the reports the director had nothing to say, explaining that his statement required no amplification.

"The report is untrue," he said. "I have not intention of resigning."

Mr. Kruckman said that he was in conference several times yesterday with Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, chairman of the local commission, and Dr. George C. Havenner, recently appointed vice chairman, and added that the subject of his retirement was not discussed. Neither Dr. Marvin nor Dr. Havenner could be reached late last night for comment.

Prior to the recent appointment of Dr. Havenner, Mr. Kruckman was center of a fiery dispute with Representative Sol Bloom, director of the Federal commission, over a policy regarding sale of commission stamps. Representative Bloom attacked the policy of the commission keeping part of the receipts from the sales and giving the balance to a commercial concern and salesman.

Disagreement was smoothed out after Dr. Havenner's appointment when Representative Bloom announced that he was pleased with the appointment and wished to work in harmony with Mr. Kruckman and the commission.

Judge Adjourns Rheem Hearing Until Monday

With Edmund D. Rheem, former executive officer of the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., on the stand all day yesterday, attorneys for a group of persons attempting to have Rheem adjudged an involuntary bankrupt covered almost all of Rheem's activities with the mortgage firm during the past few years.

Rheem was still on the stand when Justice F. Dickinson Letts adjourned court until Monday of next week.

Mae West Show Is Closed As Rover Threatens Arrest

Mae West's play, "The Constant Sinner," will not show again in Washington, L. Stoddard Taylor, the manager, announced yesterday afternoon after United States Attorney Leo Rover had threatened to arrest all members of the cast if another performance were attempted.

Censors, three First Precinct policemen and Michael Keogh, Rover's assistant, attended the Tuesday night showing and decided that it was lewd and lascivious.

The play opened at the Belasco Theater Monday, so the action of the authorities means that four days of its run will be lost. It was to close Saturday.

Keough, with Lieut. Horace Lineburg and two detectives, witnessed the play and afterward went over the script in Rover's office.

"The Constant Sinner" has been staged in New York, Atlantic City, Newark and Philadelphia. In it, Miss West, who served a jail sentence in New York for participation in a banned drama there last year, takes the part of Babe Gordon in the presentation of sixteen scenes, which include murder dope selling, miscegenation, and lots of sex.

WIMBLEY INDICTED IN TWO DROWNINGS

Crowder Is Named in Deaths of Mother and Child; Five Murder Counts.

First degree murder indictments were returned against five men yesterday by the grand jury.

Howard C. Dickerson, alias Harry C. Wimbley, and John M. Crowder, two of those indicted, were charged with the murder of Wimbley's wife and 3-year-old stepdaughter, Wilma Traylor, who were drowned in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal September 17.

Crowder, who is 24 years old, and Wimbley, who is 32, are alleged to have plotted to do away with Mrs Wimbley and the child in order to collect on a $13,000 insurance policy Dickerson had taken out on his wife.

An alleged confession, obtained by police from Crowder, laid bare the details of a scheme by which the woman was lured to a spot where she could be drowned. She and Crowder and the baby were in a canoe when it upset, throwing all three into the canal. Despite his alleged confession, Crowder insists that the upsetting of the canoe was an accident.

A plan whereby Mrs. Dickerson and the child were to have been burned up was also related by Crowder, who said that he got "cold feet" and refused to go through with the proposition. He admitted to police that the plan had gotten to the stage where hey had bought gasoline with which to set fire to the woman, and had made improvised sandbags with which to atttack her.

Others who were charged with murder were Eldridge White, colored, charged with striking Charles C. Robinson, also colored, on the head with an ax, fatally injuring him, a week ago in a fight in Snows Court; Andrew Ingram, colored, declared to have shot James Taylor, also colored, November 15, at 1503 Eleventh street northwest, and Robert Ford, colored, who allegedly shot James Turner, also colored, at 78 Q street northwest, the same day.

Henry, of Baltimore, as the first matter to pass over the new wire.

A material aid to effectiveness of policing in both cities is seen by Glassford with installation of the teletype device between here and Baltimore and he so stated in his message to Chief Inspector Henry, who replied in strong agreement.

The teletype machines will also be installed in Maryland State police substations between here and Baltimore at an early date.

TREE DESTRUCTON ON 'HILL' DEFENDED

Lanham Asserts Entangled Roots Prevent Transplanting of Elms.

Replying to recent criticisms concerning the destruction of beautiful and historic elm trees on the grounds of the Capitol, Clifford Lanham, District superintendent of trees and parking, yesterday said that "it has been found impractical to transplant the trees elsewhere due to the fact that the roots have become entangled in underground pipes, and it was necessary to remove some of the trees at once as they were leaning at a dangerous angle, making it dangerous to pass under them."

Three old elms which have seen history made on Capitol Hill for more than 50 years have been cut down during the last three days and more are slated to go. As was the case when the trees on Connecticut avenue were removed, The Post has received numerous complaints regarding the sacrifice of trees which can not be regrown for many years. It was suggested that it might be possible to remove the trees with a ball of protecting earth around the roots, but according to Mr. Lanham this was considered before the trees were taken out and found to be impractical.

It was explained that it is only possible to remove trees and transplant them when they are found in the open, such as is the case in the parks.

While the trees were being removed yesterday David Lynn, Architect of the Capitol, explained that present plans call for the development of East Capitol street into a wider thoroughfare, with a new plan of tree-planting.

Mr. Lynn intimated that some of the old tulip poplar trees which were planted many years ago are set back far enough from the curb line to obviate their removal at the present time. The poplars are about 100 feet apart and are set well back toward the Capitol.

It is now planned to put in various types of trees along the line of the poplars.

The elms now being removed are cut up for kindling wood and the proceeds donated to the relief of the unemployed.

ROTARY HEAD URGES EFFORTS FOR PEACE IN LUNCHEON SPEECH

Spiritual Disarmament Held Necessary Preliminary to Geneva Success.

42 CLUBS REPRESENTED TO HEAR LONDON CHIEF

Tentacles of Finance Cited to Show Close Bonds of All Nations.

"To make disarmament effective we must have moral and spiritual disarmament, the casting out from our minds and those of our fellow countrymen of the idea that a foreigner is necessarily an antagonist and that a stranger is prima facie one to be opposed," said Sydney W. Pascall, of London, president of Rotary International, speaking yesterday to 400 Rotarians at a luncheon at the Willard Hotel.

Representatives of 42 Rotary Clubs of the Eastern section of the country were in attendance to honor the first European president of the organization.

"The near approach of the disarmament conference arranged by the League of Nations for February, 1932, calls for our special attention," Mr. Pascall went on. "All nations are pledged to reduction. There is no controversy about it. Nearly all the countries are pledged to it by the pact of Paris, whereby all nations agree to renounce war as a means of national policy. This, in all honesty, involves the reduction of all offensive armanents.

Money Tentacles Cited.

"There are friends and foes in each and every nation. Our job is to draw closer those bonds and to organize public sentiment for peace, so that our politicians and statesmen will know that our united support is behind the movement for international peace and goodwill.

"No nation can live by itself," Mr. Pascall said. "The fine tentacles of money spread all over the world and are so sensitive that a finanical boom in America makes English manufacturers pay more for their loans, while a slump in America means that French farmers get less for their wheat. German barge crews get fewer cargoes and suicides increase in Japan.

"The remedy for our present economic trouble is no mere national remedy, but calls for the closest international cooperation and solidarity. It is my firm belief that the spirit of service to others, practiced on our international scales, is the great hope of a suffering and distracted world," the Rotary president said.

Praises Capital's Monuments.

Mr. Pascall spoke of the beauties of Washington, saying: "When I saw the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial I had a feeling of thankfulness that such great men had lived on this earth. Washington exemplifies history in stone and American citizens have every reason to be proud of their Capital City and the magnificence of its planning."

Mr. Pascall, elected president of International Rotary at the Vienna convention last June, is chairman of James Pascall, Ltd., manufacturing and exporting confectioners of London. He is also vice president of the Federation of British Industries.

Mr. Pascall called on President Hoover Tuesday and extended to him the greetings of Rotary International.

President S. Percy Thompson, of the Washington Rotary Club, presided at the luncheon and introduced the speaker. Miss Hazel Arth, contralto, sang three songs which brought the large number of Rotarians to their feet in applause. Among guests of honor at the speaker's table was Dr. Miguel Lisbon, director of Rotary International for Latin America.

Official of Labor Union Reindicted

Embezzlement of $29,000 Charged to Treasurer of Engineers.

Dave Evans, former secretary-treasurer of the International Union of Operating Engineers, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday on a charge of embezzling $29,000 from the union.

A previous indictment against Evans was voided when a grand juror's eligibility to serve as a juror was questioned and rather than run the risk of going into court with a faulty indictment, Leo A. Rover, United States attorney, resubmitted the case to the new grand jury.

Evans' alleged embezzlements occurred between September, 1929, and March, 1931.
